Admit Governor Will Boss Committees.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York and his forces will be in control of the committees—resolutions, rules, credentials, etc.—in the Democratic national convention which opens Monday. This was conceded yesterday by some of the leaders in the "stop Roosevelt" movement.

James A. Farley, New York state chairman and Roosevelt manager, announced that J. Bruce Kremer of Butte, Mont., who is one of the oldest members of the national committee in length of service, is the Roosevelt choice for chairman of the rules committee.

Two-thirds Rule Bobs Up.

It being a dull day, a lull before the coming storm, speculation began to bounce around the corridors of the Congress hotel as to what may happen to the two-thirds rule, which has been one of the Democratic party's prized possessions for exactly one hundred years.

The rules committee holds the first decision on retaining or abrogating the two-thirds rule, and at this stage a mere majority of the 1,154 delegate votes can register the verdict, on whether the rule shall be kept or thrown out. After once adopted by the convention it would require a two-thirds vote to relinquish the two-thirds rule.

From time to time there has been much conjecture as to whether a battle will be put up to abolish the rule, especially since the period when the Roosevelt camp began to claim a plain majority was in the sack for the New York governor. The rule requires that two-thirds of the whole number of votes of the convention shall be necessary to constitute a choice in making nominations.

Farley Won't Discuss Rule.

Manager Farley had no comment on the two-thirds topic. He reiterated his claim that Roosevelt will win on the first ballot. He said the governor will get enough second choice support from some of the favorite son delegations so that when the roll call is ended he will be "within 15 or 20 votes of a two-thirds vote."

Jouett Shouse, national executive chairman, said he did not imagine there would be "any serious attempt to change the two-thirds rule." As to whether it should be retained he did not express an opinion.

"Arizona passed a resolution instructing its delegates to try to abrogate the two-thirds rule," said Mr Shouse. "Wyoming, too, I believe, took like action. Here is the status: If the rules committee should bring in a report leaving out the two-thirds rule and providing a majority rule the convention could adopt it by a majority vote. Once adopted it would require a two-thirds vote to suspend the two-thirds rule."

Admits Roosevelt in Control.

Mr. Shouse agreed with Mr. Farley that it appears the Roosevelt forces will control the committee organization of the convention.

"Each state and province, like the Canal Zone," he said, "picks a member for each committee. Roosevelt clearly has a majority of the delegations as such—not the delegates, but the delegations as such—which would look like a majority for him on the various committees."

The two-thirds rule was first adopted at the Baltimore convention in 1832, and for a full century has been affirmed as the law of the party. It has been defended on the ground that if a mere majority should control, the delegates from states dominated by the opposition party, aided by a sufficient number, although a small minority, from Democratic states, might force on the convention a candidate to whom the mass of the party was opposed. Only two candidates once getting a majority vote have failed to run up the necessary two-thirds—Martin Van Buren and Champ Clark.

Montana for Wet Plank.

Committeeman Kremer said Montana is for a wet plank, the wetter the better. His home state threw its state prohibition law out of the window by a repealer act following a referendum, as did Wisconsin, and as did the legislature of Illinois, only to be blocked by Gov. L. L. Emmerson's veto.

"Montana is wet," Kremer said. "The delegation is naturally for a wet plank."

John J. Raskob, national chairman, a Smith ally, will arrive today. Al Smith comes in tomorrow. Harry F. Byrd, former governor of Virginia, comes in today with Virginia's 24 votes in his pocket. Arthur F. Mullen,

CHICAGO LOAN PLEADERS OFF TO WASHINGTON

Hope for $81,500,000 from Government.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A delegation of thirty Chicagoans, headed by D. F. Kelly and Fred Sargent of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, departed for Washington on the Capitol Limited yesterday afternoon to plead with the federal government for a loan of millions of dollars to tide the local governments over their financial difficulties.

FRED SARGENT.
[Matzene Photo.]

The delegation will meet Mayor Cermak and President E. J. Kelly of the south park system in the capital this morning and go before the banking and currency committee of the house of representatives. In the afternoon the Chicagoans will have a hearing before the board of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Their Hopes Are High.

Representatives of teachers' organizations and some of the school trustees who are members of the delegation said their "hopes were high for getting a large loan, and the leaders of the party thought they had an unanswerable argument why they should have cash.

Briefly, it is this: They ask for relief which will not increase taxes, either locally or nationally. They will ask for loans secured by tax anticipation warrants in numbers and amounts which the leaders of the party feel certain will be paid by taxes assessed against Chicago property.

The amount to be asked is still uncertain, but it is not expected to exceed $81,500,000. Of this, $36,500,000 will be asked for unpaid pay rolls, $10,000,000 for defaulted bonds, and $35,000,000 for relief of the unemployed.

Await Talk With Cermak.

Messrs. Sargent and D. F. Kelly, after chatting with President L. E. Myers of the school board, City Treasurer James A. Kearns, City Controller M. S. Szymczak, President W. R. James of the west parks, and President T. J. Bowler of the sanitary district, all of whom are making the trip, said they thought a determination of the size of the request should await until they confer this morning with Mayor Cermak and E. J. Kelly, who will go to Washington from New York.

The Sargent-Kelly plan was to canvass en route the dozens of sheets of figures which the heads of local governments took with them on the train yesterday. These indicate a pressing need for $150,000,000.

In addition to President Myers, four school trustees, their attorney and auditor, and the representatives of eight school teachers' organizations and four pension boards are members of the delegation.

Sargent to Present Plea.

Mr. Kelly and Mr. Sargent were more concerned about establishing a convincing claim for a loan rather than the amount of it. It was tentatively decided that Mr. Sargent, who is president of the North Western railroad and has had occasion to become informed on the plans of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, should present the delegation's plea.

The Chicagoans' appearance before the banking and currency committee of the house is scheduled for 10:30 a. m., as arranged by Congressman Fred Britten. They will appear before the Reconstruction Finance corporation at 2:30 p. m. by arrangement of Senator Otis F. Glenn.

According to the information gathered by the delegation before it left, there is hope of getting cash from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Some of the delegates have been told that the corporation is willing to accept Chicago's tax anticipation warrants, in limited amounts and low numbers, if presented by the Chicago banks. But the banks must sign notes, which in effect guarantee the tax anticipation warrants, and this they are unwilling to do. At any rate they have refused to do it so far.

Propose a Direct Loan.

Therefore the delegation proposes to ask congress to amend the R. F. C. act so that the corporation's board can lend direct to the local governments on tax anticipation warrants. That is one method of approach.

A second plan involves the Wagner bill, now before the house, which proposes to lend $300,000,000 for re-

Gamblers Ask Pari-Mutuels in Open Golf

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—The Fresh Meadow Country club, scene of the national open golf tournament starting Thursday, was under heavy police guard today following threats from gangsters who unsuccessfully fought to install betting machines on the club grounds.

The gangsters, said to be a mob from Boston, approached Milton Herzit, chairman of the tournament committee, and demanded the right to set up a battery of pari-mutuel machines in a tent near the clubhouse, offering to pay the club a certain percentage of the daily play.

Herzit heatedly refused to discuss the proposition and was warned that if he failed to adopt a more receptive mood the gangsters would take steps to see that the tournament was not held.

Threaten to Damage Greens.

Later Herzit was approached by an individual who professed to have information that would be of value to the club. He told Herzit that unless a certain sum was paid all the greens of the course, over which the greatest professionals in the world are scheduled to perform this week, would be torn up.

"It was plain that the man was simply trying to shake us down," said Herzit. "I promptly referred the matter to the police department, with the result that our greens are now under constant guard day and night. The tournament will begin Thursday morning, gangsters or no gangsters."

This is the first time in history the underworld has attempted to muscle in on a golf championship. The inspiration came, no doubt, from the many stories of fantastic sums that are wagered on the major tournaments. It is the custom of the club to operate a pool for members only during a tournament. In the hilarious boom days the aggregate betting reached the high thousands, but in recent years it has been light.

Approach U. S. G. A., Too.

The gangsters, it develops, did not stop with the Fresh Meadow officials. They carried their threats to the United States Golf association, under whose auspices the championship is held. The association was warned that, if it did not use its influence in persuading the club to accept the betting machines, "somebody will be sorry."

Thomas McMahon, secretary of the U. S. G. A., refused to discuss the matter, referring all questions to the Fresh Meadow club officials.

'ROSE-A-VELT,' THAT'S THE WAY ROOSEVELT PRONOUNCES NAME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—For the guidance of Democratic orators, listeners, and people who read the newspapers aloud, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's name is pronounced "Rose-a-velt."

The above pronunciation is authentic, the authority being the governor's office in Albany. Three variants of this pronunciation, however, were spoken over the long distance telephone today in obtaining the information from the man who bears the name. Even the assistants in the Democratic presidential candidate's office were uncertain and had to get first hand information before reporting.

Throughout the country, dating back to the time when Theodore Roosevelt, a cousin, was President, the name of Roosevelt has been pronounced in half a dozen different ways. Sometimes it is Ruse-e-velt. Again it is Roosefelt or Rosevelt, or it may be Rosafelt. The name has even been pronounced as Rosenfelt by orators on New York City's east side. The family tradition, however, says Rose-a-velt.

The name Smith is pronounced Smith.

A Man's Hat Leads Him to Field of Honor

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 20.—A dramatic but bloodless pistol duel was fought early Sunday morning in front of a Montparnasse café by two leading citizens of that cosmopolitan crossroads—Guy Arnaud, painter, writer, legion of honor, and James Clark, American about France.

Paul Poiret, eccentric fashion king, was Arnaud's second and the cause of the trouble.

And the Fight Is On.

Arnaud rebuked the girls for insulting the genius.

Handsome Jack and Clark rebuked Arnaud for speaking to the women. Poiret backed up Arnaud, who challenged Clark to a duel and offered to get the rapiers at once. Clark refused to duel but offered to fight with bare fists. Arnaud replied that he would send his chauffeur around if Clark wanted a vulgar brawl.

When Arnaud revived, he telephoned the Elysee palace and asked for President Doumer. When he discovered that Doumer was dead he said he would take the law into his own hands and went to his studio around the corner, returning with two old-fashioned horse pistols.

Nom du Chien! No Bullets!

"Here, take this, and when Poiret counts three, fire!" he said to Clark, offering him the weapons.

The two antagonists faced each other on the sidewalk less than six feet apart, raised their guns at the signal and squeezed the triggers.

Bloodshed was averted for two reasons.

First, the police seized the duelists from behind just at the crucial time.

Second, it was discovered that Arnaud had forgotten to load the guns.

A general reconciliation took place at the police station. All prisoners were released and the duel went down in Montparnasse history.

House Votes 100 Millions PayRollSaving

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—A reduction in the federal pay roll for 1933 was assured today when the house adopted the administration plan for obligatory payless furloughs after decisively rejecting a flat pay slash on all salaries above $1,200. The vote on the furlough proposal was 326 to 45.

A separate provision of the bill provides a 10 per cent pay cut for members of congress and a 15 per cent cut for the Vice President and speaker of the house. The constitution prevented a cut for the President and members of the Supreme court, but they are invited to take a self-imposed reduction by returning part of their salaries to the treasury.

Expect Senate to Agree.

As the furlough plan for reducing the cost of government had been adopted in modified form by the senate, congressional leaders predicted tonight that the economy bill with the furlough provision as its major item would be approved without further delay and forwarded to the White House. The senate furlough plan would save $80,000,000, according to White House estimates and the house furlough plan 100 millions. The flat pay cut proposal would have saved 112 millions.

Immediately after approving the furlough plan the 185 million dollar economy bill was sent back to the senate. Although initiated to raise enough money to balance the budget, the measure still falls between 100 million and 200 million dollars short of the savings needed for the balancing of next year's budget.

Chance to Save More.

The question of the size of the prospective gap between government expenditures and federal revenue during 1933 now depends largely upon reductions made in the annual departmental supply bills still before congress.

Under the terms of the bill all workers receiving more than $1,000 a year, and who can be spared from office, are affected by the furlough. Those who cannot be spared take an 8.3 per cent pay cut. The cut increases in percentage for the higher salaried employes who will not be furloughed. Those receiving $10,000 sustain a 10 per cent reduction; from $10,000 to $12,000, 12 per cent; from $12,000 to $15,000, 15 per cent, and from $15,000 to $20,000 upward, 20 per cent.

Prompt Action in Senate.

Prompt action in the senate was promised by Senator Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.], who will be in charge of the bill in that body.

The bill represents a compromise of the differences between the senate and house which have kept the legislation tied up in a seemingly hopeless conference for more than a week. The only serious difficulty involved the problem of direct pay cut versus pay cuts by furlough. The result was a surrender by the house, with some face saving amendments. The President talked to the leaders last Saturday, urging the furlough plan.

As originally passed by the house the economy bill provided for savings of only $52,772,740. Of this $9,000,000 was to be effected by slashes in the government pay roll, with every worker allowed an exemption of $2,500. The senate substituted the furlough plan which raised the pay slash to $88,000,000 and the total of the promised savings to $156,841,606.

Certain Other Economies.

In addition to the estimated 100 million dollar pay cut the bill promises an additional saving of $65,674,106 through other economies. These include suspension of automatic pay increases, a provision against filling vacancies caused by deaths or resignations, compulsory retirement of workers upon reaching the statutory age, cuts in traveling expenses, suspension of overtime pay, limitations on appropriations for printing, paper, and stationery, reorganization of the shipping board, and charges for government services heretofore given gratuitously.

Burglar Invades Evanston Home During Card Party

A burglar entered the home of John F. Cushing, 900 Edgemere court, Evanston, last night and escaped with two watches and several articles of jewelry, valued in all at $1,500. Entrance was gained through a window on the south side of the house while Jerome Cushing, son of Mr. Cushing, and several companions were playing cards in a room at the north side. John F. Cushing is president of the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company.

The boy's body was recovered later by the Central Coast guard.

SPURNS CHICAGO PLATFORM AND PRESIDENT, TOO

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—Senator William E. Borah [Idaho], the dry, radical maverick of the Republican party, broke with President Hoover and the party regulars today on the issue of prohibition.

He would not, he declared at the end of a fiery senate speech, support the President on the platform as written at Chicago.

Nor did he confine his insurgency to the prohibition plank. He denounced and renounced the entirety of the "singular document which came from that convention." He described the platform as "wholly inadequate and the proposed revision of the 18th amendment as equivalent to outright repeal.

It was Senator J. Hamilton Lewis [Ill.] who did a good deal for his own Democratic party by badgering the Idaho senator into an open declaration. Though, to be sure, Senator Borah acted the part of a man willing to be urged.

Lewis Asks His Intentions.

Rising shortly after the conclusion of an address in which Senator Borah had denounced the Republican prohibition plank as an indirect attempt at direct repeal, Senator Lewis demanded to know what then the Idaho senator intended to do.

Senator Borah, he said, had supported Hoover as the constitutionalist, opposed Smith as the nullificationist in 1928. Now he termed Hoover a nullificationist.

"Will the senator now support President Hoover?" asked Senator Lewis.

"The senator asked whether 'I would support President Hoover on this platform,'" echoed Senator Borah, and slapped with his hand the copy of the Republican statement of faith that his tongue had just ripped to shreds.

"I did," said Senator Lewis, hopefully.

There was no hesitation in Senator Borah's answer.

"I will not," he said, and the question of whether Senator Borah would support Hoover in 1932 as he did in 1928 was answered at last.

His Walkout Record.

The Idaho senator had at last called for his hat and walked out. How far would he stroll?

Political diarists recalled the two times when he played Achilles—once in 1912 when he turned a deaf ear to Roosevelt's Bull Moose call; the second time in 1924 when La Follette, the elder, led the anti-regular revolt. In both years Borah took to his tent. If he would not bolt, neither would he campaign for Taft or Coolidge.

In 1920 he supported Harding; in 1928, Hoover—both at a price. Harding had to give assurances that he would shun league entanglements. Hoover pledged help to agriculture, a withdrawal of American intervention in Central America and a dry platform. For Mr. Hoover, Senator Borah stumped the west and south and was credited with garnering in many votes. The Idahoan, therefore, has campaigned twice, has walked out twice, but never bolted.

Prohibition Stand Cleared.

In the course of his speech today, before Senator Lewis drew out his declaration against the G. O. P., Senator Borah gave his exact stand on the question of prohibition.

He came out as a die hard dry, and against all straddling and compromise. He laid down the issue as one demanding a clear cut choice between the status quo and outright repeal. He scoffed at the substitute amendment proposed by the Republican party; he defied "any ten men" to agree on such an amendment.

There can be no middle course, he said. And he harked back to the Baltimore convention of 1832 when Democrat and Whig sought to dodge the slavery issue. As a result, said he, "the Whig party perished of sheer political cowardice. The Democratic party shortly went into retirement for forty years because there came out of the prairies of Illinois a strange figure who said that it did make a difference whether they voted it up or voted it down, that there was a moral purpose in the people of the United States which could not be killed by resolution in a political convention.

"So I say today that a question cannot be put upon this question by adopting resolutions in political convention. We will go back to the people who will decide this question regardless of party lines and we will see whether there is a desire to let it go up or let it go down."

The Chicago platform, said Senator Borah, "is wholly inadequate and wholly unresponsive to the necessities and demands of the people"; it will be shoved aside.

"The platforms upon which the campaign will be fought," he said, "will not come out of Chicago or out of conventions. They will be written out yonder in the open with millions of voters looking on and making unmistakable suggestions, written in the light of inexorable realities which of themselves will instruct us in wisdom and inspire us with courage."

Therefore he would not discuss a "document which with the exception of one plank fell dead at the feet of the American people."

It was perfectly clear, said Senator Borah, that an overwhelming majority of the members of the Republican convention were for "naked repeal," that it was only through the southern delegates and the officeholders that the straddle plank was put through; many of the officeholders—as witness Secretary of the Treasury Mills and Postmaster General Brown—were at heart repealists.

Denials Forthcoming.

Messrs. Brown and Mills were later to deny this, Mr. Brown declaring that at a conference mentioned by Senator Borah he had advocated revision and not repeal, and Mr. Mills asserting:

"On the contrary, I have become more convinced that the true remedy is to be found in modifying the 18th amendment so as to prevent a return of the conditions which existed prior to the 18th amendment, and at the same time stamp out the undeniable evils that exist today."

But Senator Borah had already explained to the senate how those who voted for the straddle plank came to do so.

"Those who voted for the plank as it was adopted," asserted the senator, "did so to a large extent as sheer political expediency. Just as soon as the campaign is over the reasons for placing that plank in the platform will have disappeared and the party will stand unalterably for the repeal of the 18th amendment."

In fact, Senator Borah claimed, the suggested substitute amendment constitutes repeal.

The heart of the 18th amendment is prohibition of the liquor traffic, he said; the heart of the substitute is permission of the liquor traffic. The substitute would "destroy the original amendment's insistence on a unified system.

"Interpret as you may," declared the Idaho senator, "the very basic principle of the 18th amendment would be removed. There can be no doubt that this platform is for the repeal of the 18th amendment. It never could have gone through the convention if it had not been."

Compares Raskob Plan.

If one did not agree that the substitute was repeal, said Senator Borah, one must believe in the Raskob plan as the only alternative. And the Raskob plan, to retain the 18th amendment but allow states to vote themselves out from under it, was "legalized secession," a "constitutional monstrosity."

He argued that under the substitute amendment dry states could and would not be protected; the "liquor interests" would invade them as they had in the past. He did not believe a saloon could be defined or federal prohibition of saloons enforced.

"We could not put men enough into New York City or Chicago to control the method of drinking," Senator Borah declared.

Assails Fidelity Plank.

He reached the proposition of party fidelity, to denounce it so far as he was concerned.

"How I shall vote and under what circumstances I shall vote belongs exclusively to me under my oath and I openly and avowedly reject this provision of the platform and say now that I shall not be bound by it for a single moment," he declared.

Senator Daniel O. Hastings [Rep., Del.] undertook to make an answer on behalf of the regulars.

"I subscribe to the Republican party platform regardless of what it says," he declared with a smile. He insisted that the substitute was mere modification and not repeal, though he brought down upon himself the galleries' laughter by his failure to reply to Senator Borah's interspersed questions.

G. O. P. DELAYS PICKING OF NEW COMMITTEEMAN

Election of Illinois' Republican national committeeman to succeed Roy O. West will not be held this week, State Chairman Franklin J. Stransky said yesterday. The selection was thrown to the state central committee after the delegates to the national convention had been deadlocked throughout all their sessions—Frank L. Smith of Dwight being opposed by Gov. L. L. Emmerson.

When the committee is called—probably next week—Chairman Stransky anticipates that Smith will be named on the first ballot.

LEADERS CONFER WITH HOOVER ON CAMPAIGN PLANS

Hope Wets and Drys Will Accept Straddle.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—Plans for uniting Republican wets and drys back of the Hoover straddle prohibition plank were discussed by administration leaders today, following a series of White House conferences. Among those who discussed the coming campaign and and the prohibition issue with President Hoover were Everett Sanders, new chairman of the Republican national committee; Walter E. Edge, American ambassador to France; Representative Bertrand H. Snell [N. Y.], permanent chairman of the Republican convention; Representative John Q. Tilson [Conn.], and former Representative Franklin Fort of New Jersey.

Chairman Sanders spent only a few moments at the White House, indicating on his departure that definite plans for the campaign will be formulated at later conferences. He said, however, that it had been decided that he would spend most of his time in Chicago, with an occasional trip to New York and Washington.

Hoover to Make Speeches.

President Hoover's contribution to the campaign, it was said, will be limited principally to speeches, some of which may be delivered outside of Washington, and to advice on the handling of the major issues.

According to Mr. Sanders, Republican headquarters will be moved to Chicago within the next two or three weeks. Senator L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.], Republican keynoter at the convention, will be connected with the Republican headquarters in some capacity.

Organization matters, so far as personnel are concerned, are still nebulous, Mr. Sanders said.

"Mr. Hoover is now engrossed with his duties as President," Mr. Sanders added, when he left the President's office. "The Republican national committee will take charge of the campaign and run it for him. We will reflect him President of the United States."

Ambassador Edge assured President Hoover that the Republican plank would receive the support of a large bloc of Republican wets. During a luncheon conversation Mr. Edge told the President that while he worked for the Bingham minority repeal plank at Chicago he had come to the conclusion that the plank finally adopted had many good points. The more he read it, he told newspaper men, the better he liked it.

Fort Accepts Plank.

Former Representative Fort, a dry, advised newspaper men following his call at the White House that he planned to make a series of speeches on the republican platform during the next few weeks. He referred to the Republican plank on prohibition as a move which would give the voters an opportunity to reaffirm their faith in the eighteenth amendment. He expressed confidence that the country would defeat any move for modification.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley left Washington today for St. Louis to "open the Missouri river six foot canal channel" above St. Louis. He advised friends prior to his departure that he would take occasion to boost the Republican platform and candidates. Mr. Hurley will be the headliner of the Republican speakers according to present plans.

Congress Not to Test Plank.

Republican fears that they might be called upon to vote on a resolution embodying the party prohibition plank at this session of congress were allayed today when leading Democratic wets stated that such a resolution would not be introduced.

"I would introduce such a resolution," said Senator Millard Tydings [Dem., Mr.], "if I knew what the platform meant, but I have found no one who could interpret it. That being true I see no good reason for pressing the matter to a vote."

Senator Tydings added that "without question the Democratic party will come out flatly for resubmission of the 18th amendment to a vote of the people and couple with it a recommendation that the amendment be killed."

Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.] said later that the only issue over prohibition at the Democratic convention will be that of whether the party should vote a straight resubmission plank or adopt a plank promising a resubmission vote and recommending the scrapping of the 18th amendment.

REPUBLICAN PLANK ON PROHIBITION IS DEFENDED BURKE

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 20.—(AP)—James Francis Burke, general counsel for the Republican national committee, tonight defended the prohibition plank adopted by the national convention in Chicago.

The plank is "fair to both wets and drys," Burke asserted, "because the major principles of the prohibitionists are preserved: the major demands of the anti-prohibitionists are met."

Burke, who participated in the dramatic debate which preceded adoption of the plank, said that upon his arrival from Chicago he found hundreds of letters on his desk, asking for interpretation of the plank.

"The deplorable animosities which mark the average discussion of this subject render sane conclusions almost impossible. The sincerity of both sides is admitted," he said.

"I, personally, never believed the 18th amendment belonged in the constitution. I believed it to be a police power specifically reserved to the states.

"Nevertheless, it was placed there by Democrats and Republicans alike, approved by 47 states of the union and subsequently ratified by the United States Supreme court.

"We are now dealing with the question of getting it out of the constitution and inserting in its place the best substitute that can be devised to deal with the problem which is vexing millions of Americans, who wish it sensibly solved as soon as possible in order that it may be removed from the atmosphere of intemperate discussion."

ATTACK STRADDLE PLANK

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—The Republican prohibition plank was attacked from an economic angle today by anti-prohibition leaders who foresee the loss of a possible huge revenue on imported liquors in anything except out and out repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The potential revenue of millions to be gained in both internal and custom taxes on liquors has been one of the major talking points of repealists. With the adoption of the straddle plank at the Republican national convention, there arose a strong protest concentrated now on the claim that only flat repeal can turn into the treasury the huge revenue which might be obtained on the flood of imported liquor that would follow repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Heavy Imports Predicted.

From Maj. Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, came the estimate that because of the depleted stocks in this country and the likelihood of a law requiring a period of aging before newly manufactured domestic spirits could be released for consumption, the United States would import as high as 50,000,000 gallons a year for the first three or four years if the eighteenth amendment were repealed.

The increase in price since war years probably would bring the wholesale value of this quantity of imported liquor close to the 300 million dollar mark, according to estimates of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

PUBLIC BARRED FROM TREASURY IN WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—The doors of the treasury and bureau of engraving where the government's money is printed were locked today against visitors without official passes. Treasury officials said that the order was issued because of the large crowds here for George Washington bicentennial celebrations but it was reported elsewhere that the act resulted from nervousness over the presence of the bonus army.

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police whose attitude toward the bonus-eager veterans brought him a White House reprimand ten days ago, came out flatly today in favor of congressional aid for the unwelcome campers.

A report that was denied on all sides tonight was that an automobile believed to be loaded with gunpowder was en route from New York via Baltimore for the capital. Apparently the source of the tip was unreliable and the police authorities are said to regard the whole story as untrue.

Admit Governor Will Rule Convention Committees.

Nebraska national committeeman and Roosevelt floor manager, will get here today. He is to pick a key man in each delegation and some ten or twelve floor assistants. The struggle for mastery of the convention will start at the drop of the gavel almost.

Tammany's leaders, headed by John Curry, are due tomorrow. In the group is John McCooey, Brooklyn boss.

Prohibition Planks Arriving.

Prohibition planks are still arriving for sifting by the resolutions committee which opens informal and unofficial discussions Thursday. Impressions gained ground yesterday that the Democrats in their plank may use the skeleton of the Bingham plank for submission of repeal of the 18th amendment which the Republicans shoved down the coal hole.

Anti-Roosevelt men from New York brought reports of a growing belief in the Smith camp that the filing with Gov. Roosevelt of the Seabury charges against Mayor Walker has aided the candidacy of Al Smith and may aid him in lining up delegates.

The Smith forces are reported to feel that they can hold Roosevelt to a bare majority on the first ballot. They insist the Roosevelt strength is largely overestimated, that the west will contribute fewer delegates than Mr. Farley is figuring on.

See Seabury as a Factor.

The Smith camp holds that Roosevelt weakened his position by bringing out Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana as a candidate for permanent chairman against Shouse, a member of the Smith-Raskob group, who was "commanded" for the post by the arrangements committee weeks ago. They also argue that Smith, through the action of Samuel Seabury, has been unexpectedly jockeyed into a position where he can talk terms with Tammany.

Among the Roosevelt westerners this is met with the theory that an attack on Roosevelt by Tammany, should one come to pass, would strengthen him with the body of the delegates west of the Ohio river, especially in the middle and far western agricultural states where a yell against Tammany has been like waving a red flag in some past conventions.

Mr. Seabury himself is motoring to Chicago with some of his assistants who helped prepare and present the evidence against Mayor Walker which Gov. Roosevelt has under consideration. Seabury has reserved a suite at the Drake.

Ritchie Due This Week.

Gov. A. C. Ritchie of Maryland, who is regarded by many as perhaps the most likely choice in the event of a deadlock, is to arrive Thursday or Friday. He has the Florentine room at the Congress, across the hall from the Roosevelt suite. In the gossip yesterday was an observation that Gov. Ritchie, while a lusty pioneer for prohibition repeal, reduction of cost of government, and other issues of prime importance, is one of the candidates who is held in high regard by all the opposing camps.

The New Jersey leaders, headed by Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, are to leave for Chicago tomorrow. Hague, who is for Smith, according to a dispatch would not comment on a recent report, prevalent in the west as well as the east, that in the background he is grooming Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey as a possible dark horse, to be unblanketed in case of a deadlock.

A sub-committee to hear the contests from Minnesota, Louisiana, Porto Rico, and the Wilkes-Barre, Pa., district was appointed yesterday. J. T. G. Crawford of Florida is chairman. Among the members is Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey of Illinois.

White and Baby Blue Are Roosevelt Official Colors

New York, June 20.—(AP)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt hopes to march to the White House under the colors of white and baby blue. He has adopted those hues as official for decorations, buttons, posters and other publicity material to be used in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for the presidency. They are his favorite color combination, and he regards them as lucky. He rejected the crimson of Harvard, his alma mater.

Heavy Repeal Vote on G.O.P. Plank Laid to Tribune 'Scoop'

Wet leaders declared yesterday that the large vote mustered against the Hoover plank on prohibition—since termed the "straddle" plank—in the G. O. P. convention was due to a slip in administration strategy. The vote in favor of the minority report presented by Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, and which was strongly for repeal, was 472 as against 681.

COL. IRA REEVES.

As analyzed, it was the purpose of the convention manipulators to without until the last minute the provisions of the plank sent here by President Hoover. By so doing, the only information the great body of delegates would have of the plank would be what they could catch of its provisions as read by Chairman James R. Garfield of the resolutions committee in the body of the 8,000 word platform.

Because of the involved construction of the plank, the information of the delegates as to its precise provision and their significance, it was figured, would be hazy at best. Therefore, under the strategy of the managers, there would be little chance for opposition based on precise knowledge of the planet.

Given Out by Tribune.

The resolutions committee finished its labors at 6 o'clock last Wednesday evening—and the delegates were to vote on the platform that night, and finally did so shortly after midnight.

The slip in the plan of the convention leaders was credited to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which distributed the Hoover plank to the delegates. Concerning this action Col. Ira L. Reeves, regional manager of the Crusaders, said yesterday.

"The enterprise of THE TRIBUNE in getting the Hoover plank into the hands of the delegates is praiseworthy. I have heard from many of the anti-dry leaders and they give due credit to the newspaper for the timely information that otherwise might have resulted in the majority report being railroaded through without the delegates knowing exactly what it contained.

"In order to get any kind of a fair vote on the prohibition question it is necessary for those voting to understand the subject of their vote."

Vote Would Be Different.

Others said that if more time had been allowed the delegates the vote against the Hoover plank would have been larger. As it was just a little time was given the delegates to study the Hoover document and to study the one presented by Senator Bingham, otherwise, wet leaders said, the Hoover steamroller would have operated more smoothly and flattened the objectors.

When the resolutions committee finished its labors a limited number of copies were available for the press. None was available for the delegates, who were called into session shortly after 9 o'clock that evening.

Chairman Garfield of Ohio, read the report and there was no telling when the prohibition platform would be read. The delegates may or may not have been paying attention, according to the wet leaders, but there was much noise as they discussed their own problems and Chairman Garfield kept reading in the same tone.

Tribune Is Distributed.

Suddenly 2,000 copies of the CHICAGO TRIBUNE were distributed to the delegates on the floor of the convention, who seized them eagerly and noted the headline:

"Here's Hoover Liquor Plank."

They read the front page plank on which they were soon to vote. It was their first knowledge of the exact phraseology and, the wets said, it had the immediate effect of forestalling the administration plan of rushing it through.

In the complimentary statements made concerning this feat mention was made of a similar service to the nation by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on June 9, 1919 in presenting the peace treaty to the United States senate, the House of Representatives and the world at large. President Wilson and the heads of other countries were keeping secret the treaty of Versailles and the senate, which was soon to ratify or reject it, was kept in ignorance of its provisions. THE TRIBUNE obtained a copy of it in Paris, rushed it to this country and printed it in full, with the result that the senate ultimately rejected it and later concluded a separate peace with Germany.

ILLINOIS WILL DEMAND REPEAL, IGOE DECLARES

Discusses Planks for Platform.

Outright repeal of the 18th amendment will be Illinois' demand to the Democratic convention platform committee, National Committeeman Michael L. Igoe said yesterday. Mr. Igoe is slated to be the state's representative on the resolutions committee, which will recommend the various party planks.

MICHAEL IGOE.

Pending repeal Mr. Igoe would pledge the party to the immediate modification of the Volstead act to permit the manufacture and sale of 3 per cent beer.

"Light wines?" he repeated, in response to a question. "The cry used to be for 'light wines and beer,' but wines aren't needed now. Mabel Willebrandt's people out in California are making all the wines any one could want, and if they don't satisfy the consumer, any drug store sells all the brands, with tonic labels on them."

Declare Against Saloon.

Mr. Igoe believes that the prohibition plank will declare against the return of the saloon. "If there are those who wish the government to remain in control of liquor," he added, "then some plan modeled after either the Ontario liquor control system or the Swedish system might be desirable. It is interesting to note that Finland, which has abolished its prohibition laws, is finding decreased drunkenness, the people are much better satisfied, and the government is getting large revenues."

Mr. Igoe will stand for the Wagner plan now pending in the United States senate as his recommendation for unemployment relief.

Seek Cut in Costs.

Through Mr. Igoe, Illinois Democrats will stand for a drastic reduction of the costs of government, following the lead of Mayor Cermak in the conduct of the municipal government and the plank adopted by the state convention at Springfield.

ROBINSON URGES DEMOCRATS TO O. K. SUBMISSION

Opposes Plank Pledging Party to Repeal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—Support for a straight out and out Democratic campaign pledging the party to submit the question of repealing the eighteenth amendment to the people grew rapidly today in Democratic congressional circles. A plan indorsed by leading Democratic wets to have the party come out frankly in favor of repealing the amendment in addition to promising a vote on resubmission failed, however, to command much enthusiasm.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark], senate Democratic leader, represented the views of those members of his party who want to stop with simply a campaign resubmission pledge when he issued the following statement in advance of the Democratic convention at Chicago:

"The prohibition plank in the Republican platform is intended to be ambiguous. Democrats in convention at Chicago should avoid this error and be frank. If a plank on the subject of prohibition should be incorporated it should merely declare for submission of the question of repeal to the states and not attempt to commit members of the party to support repeal."

Opposes Soft Pedaling.

Among those who condemned the idea of Democratic soft pedaling on the prohibition issue today was Senator Millard Tydings [Dem., Md.].

"The Republican plank is ludicrous," he said. "The Democrats must and will adopt a plank condemning the 18th amendment, and at the same time pledging the voters an opportunity to express their views on the question of its repeal. A simple pledge to resubmit is not enough. We must promise to work to repeal prohibition."

Senator Tydings said that E. Brook Lee, Maryland member of the Democratic convention resolutions committee, would offer a plank providing for outright repeal of the 18th amendment.

"This plank," said the senator, "will not only pledge the party to submit the 18th amendment to a popular vote, but it will also pledge the party to work for repeal."

Asked if he planned to offer a constitutional amendment to carry out the purpose of the Republican prohibition plank Mr. Tydings answered in the negative.

Caucus of Eight Senators.

Following a caucus of eight Democratic senators supporting Gov. Roosevelt it was announced that the consensus of those present was that the Democratic party must adopt a plank after the Robinson formula—that is, for resubmission of the question of outright repeal, but without the offer of a substitute, and without any attempt to commit party members to repeal. Those who attended the meeting were:

Senators Pat Harrison [Miss.], James F. Byrnes [S. C.], Key Pittman [Nev.], Walter F. George [Ga.], Thomas J. Walsh [Mont.], Clarence C. Dill [Wash.], John H. Bankhead [Ala.], and Hugo Black [Ala.].

MANY NOTABLES TO FILL HOTELS FOR CONVENTION

List Names of Scores of Prominent Visitors.

Chicago hotels are busy dusting off the welcome mat for thousands of Democrats who have made reservations for next week, the hotel officials hopeful that they will linger longer than the Republicans did. A few hotel men hinted that a certain mournful air they said hung about some hotels and matched the look of resignation in the faces of some Republican delegates would give way before a livelier scene.

The Blackstone hotel is well filled by reservations to date and will be sold out by the end of the week, according to officials. Among those who have reservations at the Blackstone are:

John F. Barnett, Denver lawyer; B. M. Baruch, New York; P. P. Campbell, Washington, D. C., former congressman; Walter Denis Denegre, New Orleans and Washington; William J. Donovan, New York lawyer; Emmet Dougherty, Washington; Miss S. D. Fricke, New York; Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, Joplin, Mo., writer; Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Washington social leader, and Mrs. W. T. Kemper, wife of the Kansas City banker and Missouri national committeewoman.

Others at the Blackstone will be: Herbert H. Lehman, New York banker; Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, who asked for a room next to Mrs. Longworth's; Mrs. Marion Edwards Shouse, wife of Jouett Shouse, who himself will stay at the Congress; Ogden Reid, owner of the New York Herald-Tribune, and Mrs. Reid; Daniel C. Roper, Washington lawyer and publicist, who was chairman of the organization bureau in the Woodrow Wilson campaign in 1916, and Mr. and Mrs. Morton L. Schwartz, New York.

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin of New York, president of the Woman's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, a Republican, was here to battle for a wet plank at the Republican convention. Her husband, who will join her here next week, is a Democrat. The organization's headquarters are at the Blackstone and they will stop there.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana; William Allen White of Emporia, Kas.; Jerome Walsh, Kansas City; Robert W. Woolley, New York lawyer, who directed the publicity of the campaigns of 1912 and 1916, and Condé Nast, the publisher, will also be at the Blackstone.

Mrs. Wilson to Be Here.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson will be at the Blackstone, together with Rear Admiral Cary Travers Grayson and Mrs. Grayson of Washington. Admiral Grayson was surgeon of the President's yacht, Mayflower, attending and consulting physician at the naval dispensary in the Roosevelt and Taft administrations, and personal physician to President Wilson. Before the convention Mrs. Wilson will be a guest at a luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hurley at their Wheaton residence.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland and Howard Bruce have a suite at the Blackstone and one at the Congress as well. Likewise has Pierre S. Du Pont, who is scheduled to arrive tomorrow.

Mrs. Albert Simms of New Mexico, the former Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormock, has made reservations at the Blackstone, as has Miss Lucy Taggart, sister of Tom Taggart Jr. of French Lick, Ind., her brother having engaged rooms at the Congress.

Near Sell Out at Drake.

The Drake hotel is virtually sold out, and expects at least 600 of the Tammany crowd alone. The South Carolina delegation will be at the La Salle hotel. The Auditorium hotel, whose red plush upholstery on the lobby chairs has embraced the forms of delegates at Chicago political conventions since Harrison was nominated at the 1888 convention, is full to overflowing for the Democratic convention, according to reservations.

The Congress hotel, scene of most activity in the loop during the conventions, reports a sell out. Among those who reserved rooms there are:

Others at Congress.

Kaufman, another financier who was responsible for the building of Empire State building in New York, will be at the Congress, too.

Others to be at the Congress will be Charles Lemp, of the Lemp family of St. Louis brewers of pre-prohibition days; Robert E. "L" EMPLOYES IN SECOND VOTE REFUSE PAY CUT

For the second time in two weeks employés of the elevated lines last night rejected the company's proposal of a 10 per cent wage reduction. The count, as announced by John J. Bruce, president of the elevated men's union, was 1,490 against the proposal and 1,410 in favor.

The ballot was taken on order of William D. Mahon, international president of the union, and Bruce said last night that nothing further would be done before notifying Mahon in Detroit. In calling the referendum Mahon reminded the carmen that arbitration would be the next step if it failed. In that event, he said, the company would seek a 15 per cent cut and pending a settlement would hold that percentage out of all checks. About 3,500 men are involved in the wage controversy.

The previous ballot was taken June 10.

DEMOCRATIC WOMEN DELEGATES WILL SET RECORD; MAY BE 200

There are now 193 women delegates accredited to the Democratic convention and leaders expect the number to reach 200 when Indiana delegates are chosen. Eleven additional women delegates were reported yesterday to the headquarters in the Congress hotel—four from Florida and seven from North Carolina.

Already it is apparent that this party gathering will be featured by the greatest number of official women participants in the history of the two major political groups. Counting the alternates, the national committeewomen, and the voting delegates themselves, the total will hover near the 500 mark and may pass it. The Republican convention seated 93 women delegates and 298 alternates—391 in all, exclusive of the national committeewomen, who brought the total up to 440.

Among the distinguished guests who will attend a dinner to be given a week from tomorrow night—June 29—by the Chicago Woman's club for the Democratic women will be Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Al Smith, and Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, it was announced yesterday. Mrs. George Bass will preside.

U. S. AND FRANCE IN SECRET TALKS; HINT DEBT DEAL

Link Hoover Phone Call with New Development.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, June 20.—The only progress discernible in the Geneva-Lausanne disarmament and reparations conference sector today was in the diplomatic traffic along the lake shore highway between the two towns.

Here in Lausanne, Premier Herriot of France and Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, who used to see eye to eye when they had the Socialist backing of their respective countries, argued for hours, but up to tonight the British drive for a clean slate on reparations and war debts had made no headway against the French and their allies, who are willing to lighten but not lift entirely Germany's reparations burden.

Parley in a Deadlock.

After the promising start to which this conference got off last week, few could believe a deadlock was possible. Today the realization dawned that a deadlock is here and that it is serious. The Herriot-MacDonald understanding seems to have lost its potency.

In Geneva conversations begun at the instigation of the United States in an effort to save the disarmament conference continued. There was much bargaining between Geneva and Lausanne. Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister; Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, and countless smaller fry burned up the road. But no advance by either conference was indicated.

However, a significant excursion from the conference towns was made late tonight by Herriot and Hugh S. Gibson and Norman Davis of the American disarmament delegation. They met at Morges, eight miles from Lausanne, and there discussed, there is reason to believe, not only disarmament but war debts.

French Make Overtures.

Overtures have been made in the last few days to the American delegation at Geneva, in which Ambassador Gibson, known as "Hoover's man," and Davis, as a man whose interests lie in international finance, to ask Washington to give an advance intimation as to what can be expected in the way of cancellation of the war debts, if anything.

If Herriot could get even a whisper of an intended gesture he could give in all along the line, saving both conferences, according to the claims of the French. Hoover's telephone conversation with Gibson last night has taken on added importance in view of these overtures.

Gibson appeared today at the renewal of the British-American-French disarmament talks, to which he sent Senator Claude A. Swanson yesterday. Gibson renewed the demands conveyed yesterday by the senator that concrete reductions must be achieved. Again it was made clear that President Hoover is not inclined to collaborate in any farcical ending of the conference.

Herriot Cites Figures.

Premier Herriot today gave out figures to show just what France would lose in comparison with Great Britain and Italy, the two advocates of a clean slate on debts and reparations.

France's average annual loss for the period of the Young plan, in other words the difference between her reparations receipts and her payments on war debts, would be about $88,750,000, according to Herriot's figures. Britain would lose $16,500,000 and Italy $8,750,000. France's allies, Belgium and Jugoslavia, would lose $17,000,000 each, which Herriot is reported to have told MacDonald would bring them to the brink of bankruptcy.

Herriot has already set financial assistance for the Danubian nations as a condition to even a cut in reparations. He has made it clear to MacDonald that the French budget already faces a deficit of $320,000,000 and would be hard hit by cancellation of reparations.

Herriot said he came here without a plan and is open to discussion. All that has been suggested is cancellation. So his experts are drawing up a plan under which a large part of Germany's unconditional reparations annuities would be maintained. The figure mentioned is $20,000,000 annually, which is based on a tax on the German railways or a railway bond issue.

The French scheme for an international army passed into the ghostland from which it came today. Joseph Paul-Boncour, French delegate, admitted that with both the French and English anxious to close the disarmament conference, to ask the other powers to agree to the internationalization called for by the project would be premature.

Motorist Shot as Bandit on Running Board Fires

Arthur Bergman, 48 years old, a clerk, returning to his home at 5224 West North avenue last night, halted his car for a stop light at Lake street and Sacramento boulevard. A holdup man, leaped upon the running board. Bergman had his car in gear, ready to go ahead with the green light. The appearance of the robber startled him and he released the clutch. His auto started forward. With an oath the gunman fired one shot. The bullet hit Bergman in the abdomen. At the Franklin Boulevard hospital it was said he might die.

CERMAK VISITS CAPITAL TODAY ON LOAN QUEST

Democrats for Wet Plank, He Says in Gotham.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago arrived here this afternoon for a brief stop over en route to Washington, where he will endeavor to obtain a loan of between 36 and 100 million dollars from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to pay debts and keep the municipal government operating.

The mayor was hopeful of obtaining federal aid tomorrow as well as several bits of political information here today from Democratic leaders. Mayor Cermak said he had no appointments, but that "somebody might drop in for a chat.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt was due in Saratoga tonight, so that left him out. Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith was busy cleaning up last minute details before starting for Chicago. Mayor James J. Walker was out welcoming Amelia Earhart back from another trans-Atlantic flight. From a political standpoint, things looked dull around the twentieth floor of the hotel where the Chicago mayor and his party are making their headquarters.

Mayor Hague Greets Him.

Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, Al Smith's best conference man, however, was on the job. Mr. Hague met Mr. Cermak at the station and a later get together was planned.

Snug in an easy chair, coatless and with a breeze from the Hudson blowing across his shoulders, the Chicago mayor discussed municipal finance, politics in general, and the Democratic convention.

"Nothing new to report on our Washington mission," said the mayor. "We're not there yet, and won't be until tomorrow morning."

The sum of twenty million dollars was mentioned. The mayor gestured broadly.

"It is one hundred million we are after," he remarked.

Asked if that was the exact amount Chicago would ask for, the mayor explained that no definite sum had been decided upon, there being so many different pay roll debts and branches of his city government to be considered.

Leaves Amount to Committee.

"I'm leaving the exact amount to the committee back home," he said.

Mayor Cermak expects to complete his financial mission in a hurry and get back to New York in time for the championship fight between Schmeling and Sharkey tomorrow night.

"I'll do anything except fly to see the fight," said the mayor.

His attitude toward air transportation checks with that of Mayor Jimmy Walker who is always in a hurry but never in such haste that he will resort to airplanes. Walker and Cermak probably will go to Chicago together Thursday.

The Chicago mayor was noncommittal in his answers to political questions except concerning the Democratic plank on prohibition.

"There will be no pussyfooting by the Democrats on that subject," he said. "The wets in the party are in the majority, and there will be a repeal plank in the platform."

Illinois "for Lewis."

Mayor Cermak denied reports that the Illinois Democratic delegation would switch to Roosevelt after one ballot for Senator James Hamilton Lewis, the Illinois favorite son.

The Chicagoan was extremely cagey in discussing the prospective Democratic presidential candidates.

"I find a divided sentiment for Smith, Roosevelt and Traylor," he said, "but we are honestly for Lewis as long as he has a chance."

$50,000 BOND FOR ALLEGED SLAYER.

On habeas corpus proceedings yesterday Judge Prystalski set a bond of $50,000 for Leroy Marschalk, who was wounded and captured as he fled with two other men from the Delis roadhouse in Morton Grove, Wednesday night, following the slaying of Fred Di Giovanni.

INQUIRY IS STARTED INTO PRINTING OF SCHOOL DIPLOMAS

An investigation into the contract for school diplomas was ordered yesterday by Frank P. Sullivan, director of educational expenditure and economy for the board of education. It was charged that the C. L. Ricketts company, engrossers at 28 South Dearborn street, had printed the documents by a cheap secret process instead of doing the hand engrossing work required in the contract.

The contract was approved by the school board on March 23. It called for engrossed diplomas for the graduating classes in all public schools for June, 1932, and January and March, 1933, at a cost of $8,280.25.

Diplomas were awarded to more than 24,000 students last week. That the engrossers had allegedly not lived up to their bargain was not discovered until yesterday, when an expert told Mr. Sullivan that the hand work had not been done.

The bill will not be paid, according to the announcement of Maj. Hamlet C. Bidgway, director of purchases. The matter was placed in the hands of Thomas V. Sullivan, attorney for the board.

Jasper King, 575 Arbor Vitae road, Winnetka, head of the engrossing firm, said that he had not heard the charges.

ALL SECURITIES SUBJECT TO TAX, SAYS ASSESSOR

"I very much deprecate any statement attributed to me intimating that there is to be one tax assessment rule for tangible personal property and another for intangible property such as cash in banks, mortgages, and notes," said Assessor J. L. Jacobs yesterday. He added that under the law all such property must be scheduled for the 1931 quadrennial assessment. The assessor refused to discuss his possible action if taxpayers failed to schedule their cash and securities.

The assessor has compiled rules for the guidance of taxpayers in scheduling tangible personalty. This compilation will be used by deputies in the county building office to help citizens who seek aid there in filling out schedules. The rules will not be distributed to the public, it was stated.

5 HIGH SCHOOLS WILL BE OPEN THIS SUMMER

Courses will be offered in five high schools this summer, it was announced yesterday by William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools. Because of the low registration Crane, Lane, and Tilden High schools will not open. Neither will Chicago Normal college, nor the junior high schools and elementary schools. The high schools that will operate and their registration is as follows: Austin, 159; Schurz, 240; Lake View, 250; Hyde Park, 240, and Englewood, 250. Registration will continue today. Teachers and janitors are paid their salaries from the tuition fees of summer school pupils.

CHICAGO LOAN PLEADERS OFF TO WASHINGTON

fief. That bill could be amended to permit part of that sum to be loand to local governments on tax warrants. Members of the delegation have been advised from Washington that this suggestion is not popular in Washington because it would delay action on the Wagner bill, which has already passed the senate.

A third plan of the delegation is to request congress to pass a joint resolution authorizing tax warrant loans to Chicago by the Reconstruction Finance corporation or under the provisions of the Wagner relief plan.

A decision on which of the plans is to be urged will await a conference with Mayor Cermak, the Chicago congressmen and Illinois senators in the Mayflower hotel at 9 o'clock this morning.

Seeks Funds for Unemployed.

For the relief of the unemployed, the leaders of the delegation will urge that Chicago be given a larger share of money than is proposed in the Wagner bill.

"That proposes distribution of funds on the basis of population, which would give Chicago an insufficient amount," said D. F. Kelly. "I think that some plan should be worked out so that the distribution will be made on the basis of actual needs."

Regarding money to pay the school teachers and other school employes, who have $23,025,000 coming, Miss Agnes Clohesy of the elementary teachers' union, said:

"We are highly hopeful. We are entitled to the money we have earned. We need it, some desperately, and all urgently. Chicago is united in its plea, and we believe that the federal government can make a safe arrangement by which it can lend us the money until the taxes are paid. The logic and merit of the situation are on our side."

Ready to Show Needs.

The representatives of the local governments have sufficient figures to show the need for cash in Chicago.

These show the unpaid pay rolls of $36,554,000 and the bonds and interest falling due this year. They also give the estimates of the needs for the remainder of the year. Unless there is a change of opinion, however, no request will be made for a loan to cover these future needs.

Probably the most startling of the exhibits is one by the city which shows a $17,487,158 "deficiency of cash on hand to meet reserves," although there is $20,623,000 cash in the treasury at present. This cash is represented by trust and surplus funds. The amount due on pay rolls, bills, contracts, bonds and interest and tax warrants totals $38,110,158.

Constitution Failure as Curb on Spending, Says J. M. Beck

Meet on a Lamp Post

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

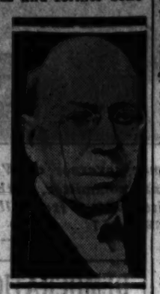
LONDON, June 20.—How a member of the United States congress and a British statesman became acquainted through climbing the same London street lamp standard was described by Sir Austen Chamberlain tonight.

He was presiding at a lecture by James M. Beck on the United States constitution.

"It was the occasion of the first Zeppelin raid on London," Sir Austen said, "and I went out to see what I could. Half way up the lamp post I found Mr. Beck and I followed him up in order to see the monster passing over the roof tops."

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, June 20.—James M. Beck, member of congress and former solicitor general, charged today that the American constitution has been a failure in not preventing congress from virtually unlimited spending of public money.



JAMES M. BECK.

"The framers of the constitution, he said, tried to limit the power of the federal government to appropriate money for a special locality or class, but this limitation has become a scrap of paper.

"The constitution expressly provided for the power of taxation," Beck declared in the third of his Watson lectures at the University of London, "but prescribed it must be for the 'general welfare.'

"Nothing better illustrates the inadequate restraint of a written constitution than that this limitation has been construed for over a century as meaning that congress could appropriate the money of the nation to any purpose it regarded as 'general welfare.' General welfare as thus defined meant any persons even though it was not one over which the federal government had granted any express power of legislation. The power to appropriate has virtually converted a government of strictly limited powers into one of almost unlimited powers.

"The American people hitherto have been unconscious of this fact, but at present they are growing more tax conscious. Their only remedy is to persuade congress to restrict public expenditures to authorized purposes of the federal government, but it is wholly unlikely that in their greed to secure appropriations from the federal treasury for the benefit of localities the government ever return in this respect to its original form.

It must be admitted, therefore, that in this first and greatest of its objectives the constitution has failed. This is not due to the framers nor to any lack of precision in language, but wholly to the fact that no written constitution can overcome elemental forces of greed and ambition."

Mr. Beck also charged it was "a travesty on democracy" that small and large states should have equal representation in the senate. Some day he predicted the great populous states would refuse to acquiesce in such "palpable, indefensible injustice." He was especially emphatic in denouncing the disproportionate taxing power of the small states, with Nevada now obtaining in appropriations 51 per cent of its tax payments to the federal treasury and New York state obtaining only one per cent. "It is clear that due to the follies of the later generations the great objective of the constitution, which was to distribute equally the burdens of the federal government, has wholly failed."

START INQUIRY INTO DISMISSAL OF McGEOGHAGEN

Swanson Acts After Aid Frees Gangster.

DANNY McGEOGHAGEN.

State's Attorney Swanson last evening launched an investigation into the dismissal of the bank robbery indictment against Daniel McGeoghagen, once under sentence of death for murder during a robbery and considered by the police to be one of the most dangerous of gangsters. Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler, who entered the order of nol prosse yesterday morning in Judge John Prystalski's Criminal court, without Mr. Swanson's knowledge, will be asked to explain.

The prosecutor announced his independent investigation at the same time that the Chicago Crime commission, the Secret Six and other crime fighting organizations were preparing to ask for an inquiry.

Tried Two Weeks Ago.

McGeoghagan, who was charged with being one of the five bandits who held up the State Bank of Clearing and obtained $60,000 on Dec. 6, 1930, was tried two weeks ago. The jury stood 11 to 1 for conviction. One man, it was reported, held up a verdict during most of the twenty-four hours during which Judge Prystalski kept the jury locked up.

Lambert Bere, vice president and cashier of the Clearing bank, and John Camphouse, Bere's nephew and manager of the bank's real estate department, consented to the dismissal of the indictment. The reasons they advanced were that they were "tired of being locked up." They were kept under police surveillance to prevent any efforts of tampering with the prosecution witnesses. They said they were acting with the consent of the board of directors of the bank, who felt that it was necessary that they be about their duties at the bank.

A Shock to Judge.

Judge Prystalski, who granted a prompt trial in the first case, was prepared to retry the case as soon as he completes another case now on trial. As one of the court employés said, the judge "nearly fell out of his seat" when Prosecutor Butler appeared with Defense Attorney James M. Burke and announced that he wanted to dismiss the McGeoghagen case.

"Give me one good reason why you want to nol this case," said Judge Prystalski to the prosecutor. "I know the evidence in this case."

The prosecutor explained that the two bank officials were practically locked up since they identified McGeoghagen last April when he was arrested. He said that they wanted to dismiss the case because they felt that they had to be on hand to conduct the bank affairs. The prosecutor said he was reluctant to take the action.

Fails to Impress Judge.

"I don't believe that is a reason," replied the judge. "That is not the kind of a statement the state's attorney should make. The state ought to be big enough to take care of the situation. I, however, yield to your judgment as the prosecuting officer.

"I do not see why these witnesses could not walk the streets the same as witnesses in any other case. From what I saw of Mr. Bere he looks like he ought to be able to take care of himself. I am not impressed with the reason given."

Mr. Bere, after the dismissal of the case, was back at his duties in the bank. He reiterated the statement made by the prosecutor that he was tired of being locked up and that he had the sanction of the bank directors in agreeing to the dismissal. Prosecutor Butler could not be reached to be asked why his witnesses could not have been protected while they went about their business, as is done in other gangster cases.

Mexican State Governors to War on Radical Laws

MEXICO CITY, June 20.—(AP)—Governors of a dozen Mexican states today notified President Ortiz Rubio they would follow his suggestion of last week to avoid passage of radical or unconstitutional legislation. Among the messages were pledges from the governors of Chiapas, Tabasco and Campeche, considered radical states. Several governors denounced the Vera Cruz expropriation law, which prompted Ortiz Rubio's appeal.

CICERO MAYOR TELLS THEORIES ABOUT BOMBING

Joseph G. Cerny, president of the Cicero town board, whose home at 1832 South 50th court was a target for bombers early Sunday, said last night that he had no authentic information regarding the motive for the attack. He had several theories, however, he said.

"The bomb might have been the work of hoodlums," he admitted. "Again, maybe it wasn't a bomb but merely a large cannon cracker that was exploded. For years fireworks have been purchaseable in Cicero for the fourth of July. This year fireworks will not be allowed for sale."

President Cerny added to the possible theories that the blast was the work of communists.

Cerny gave Albert Capone, 26 years old brother of the imprisoned gang chief, an informal exoneration in the bombing. He said he did not think the younger Capone had anything to do with it. Capone absented himself yesterday from the court of Magistrate Henry J. Sandusky, where he was scheduled to appear for disorderly conduct in connection with the case. His lawyers pleaded that he was ill, and won a continuance to June 27. Two pals of Capone were fined $100. They are Arthur Rapp, 2710 Canton street, and W. E. Howard, 1619 South Mansfield avenue.

Bern gave his age as 42 and Germany as his birthplace. Miss Harlow, a divorcée from Chicago, gave her age as 21, and Missouri as her birthplace. She wed Charles McGrew of Chicago when 17, but obtained a divorce from him two years later.

HAFFA SEIZED FOR QUIZZING IN BARKER MURDER

Gun of Killers Traced to Ex-Alderman's Firm.

Titus A. Haffa, former alderman of the 43d ward and an ex-convict, was taken into custody yesterday in connection with the murder of George (Red) Barker, labor racketeer. Haffa was seized a few hours after Barker's followers had lowered his body into a grave in an unconsecrated section of Mount Carmel cemetery.

Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker and his men found Haffa in the office of the Haber Screw Machine Products company, 864 North avenue, a concern of which Haffa was president until his imprisonment in Leavenworth for violation of the liquor laws in 1929. John W. Shippman, who succeeded Haffa as president of the company and to whom he was paroled upon his release from prison, was also held for questioning.

Gun Traced to His Company.

Chief Schoemaker asserted that the machine gun tossed away by Barker's slayers after they had pumped 18 bullets into his body last Thursday night from a flat at 1502 North Crawford avenue, had been traced to the Machine Products company. Haffa and Shippman denied knowledge of the weapon.

Records of machine gun sales, as compiled at the time of the Moran gang massacre, showed that the Haber concern had purchased the weapon over the counter at the Von Lengerke & Antoine sporting goods store, 33 South Wabash avenue, on Jan. 18, 1928, according to Schoemaker.

"Somebody must have used the company's name," Haffa insisted. "The company knows nothing about it. I will be glad to do everything I can to help find out who did buy it."

Haffa Then an Alderman.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne conceded the plausibility of Haffa's claim that any gangster desiring to purchase such a weapon would be likely to use the name of a concern whose president had political influence. Haffa was alderman at the time of the purchase.

As a precaution, however, Haffa and Shippman were driven to the Crawford avenue flat to be viewed by Mrs. Martin Foley, the woman who unwittingly leased the ambush quarters to Barkers' slayers several weeks ago. Mrs. Foley said neither answered the description of the two who rented the flat.

Haffa and Shippman were then served with subpoenas to appear at the county building July 1 when the Barker inquest is resumed. Early in the evening they were released from custody.

Score of Gunmen at Rites.

Eighteen tonneau loads of flowers, a silver plated casket, a couple of score of gunmen and a gaping throng of 4,000 restored at Barker's obsequies some of the funereal pomp of the earlier and more glamorous days of gangdom. The teamster unions dominated by Barker sent many of the floral pieces, perhaps in token of thanksgiving, as one police observer suggested.

The gun toting pallbearers, with hat brims jerked over their faces, glowered to intimidate photographers. At the cemetery Barker's aged mother and his four sisters became hysterical. His widow remained calm.

AGENTS AGGRESSORS, WIDOW OF VICTIM SAYS OF DRY LAW SLAYING

Dallas, Tex., June 20.—(AP)—Mrs. F. Marion McClothlin, widow of a rural storekeeper slain in a gunfight with two prohibition agents the night of April 8, charged as a prosecuting witness in federal court today that the agents were the aggressors. N. D. Heaton and L. C. Smith, the agents, are accused of murder.

Suspended following the shooting in McClothlin's store near Irving, Tex., they asserted they fired in self-defense when he attempted to prevent them from arresting Lester Cox on a liquor charge. Mrs. McClothlin was wounded.

Mrs. McClothlin said the agents failed to show a warrant or their badges. They found no liquor. One seized her, she said, but she broke away and took a pistol behind the counter. Ordered to raise her hands, she said she did so, but clung to the pistol. It was shot from her hand. Not until then, she said, did her husband seize a shotgun. She testified he was killed by a bullet before his weapon was discharged.

CITIZENS COMPEL HIGHLAND PK. TO REPEAL BUDGET

Two hundred representatives of three civic organizations appeared before the Highland Park city council last night with a demand that the appropriation ordinance already passed calling for total expenditures of $590,000 in the next fiscal year, be repealed or the matter put to a referendum of the voters. Under the commission form of government, which exists in Highland Park, citizens may demand the referendum.

The council repealed the ordinance. After discussing a demand that a substitute ordinance drawn by the three organizations be passed, providing for expenditures $222,000 less, it was agreed that the council should meet a committee from the organizations tomorrow evening for further consultation.

Among the recommendations for saving were: Abolition of a movie censor with a salary of $1,134; cuts of $9,000 in the fire department and $2,000 in the police department; postponement of public improvements scheduled to cost $120,000, and a second 10 per cent cut in salaries of municipal employés. The City club of Highland Park, the Deerfield Township Taxpayers' association, and the Ridgewood Drive Improvement association were the organizations demanding lower governmental costs.

TWO DRAW $100 FINES.

Milton Robinson, 3417 Giles avenue, and Louis River, 1442 Washburne avenue, Negroes with records as pickpockets who were arrested Saturday after they had jostled a fellow passenger on a street car, were fined $100 each on charges of disorderly conduct yesterday by Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green.

CITY'S GARBAGE AND ASH HAULERS ON STRIKE TODAY

A strike of 2,500 city street workers, effective this morning, was called last night by John W. Garvey, an international representative of the Hod Carriers' and Common Laborers' union, because the men have not been paid since April 1. As a result cleaning of streets and removal of garbage and ashes will be tied up.

The strikers include 1,300 cleaners, collectors and incidental workers, and 800 street repair men. Among the 1,500 are watchmen at the various city dumps and ward yards. Policemen were detailed at the dumps and yards at midnight in the place of watchmen.

Before calling the strike Garvey conferred with Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, and Joseph J. Butler, superintendent of streets. He demanded immediate payment for the men, but was told his request was impossible. However, the officials advised him that the men would probably be paid Friday after Mayor Cermak's return from the east.

VANDALS CAUSE LAYOFF FOR 500 IN RADIO PLANT

More than 500 employes in the radio tube plant of the Grigsby-Grunow company will be laid off for at least two weeks because vandals broke into the plant Sunday night and wrecked some of the machinery. The employes will return to work when the repairs are made.

Announcement to this effect was made last night by D. M. Compton, vice president and general manager of the company. He said the damage to the plant has not yet been estimated.

2 DELEGATIONS FROM LOUISIANA WAR FOR SEATS

Huey P. Long Selects One and Convention Other.

New Orleans, La., June 20.—[Special.]—Two rival delegations, one personally selected by Senator Huey P. Long, national committeeman for Louisiana, and the other by a state-wide Democratic convention in which every parish in the state was represented, will contest for Louisiana's 20 votes in the Democratic convention at Chicago. The post of national committeeman for Louisiana also is at stake.

The delegation selected by the Democratic state central committee, controlled by Senator Long, was appointed last February. The senator at the same time was made national committeeman. The state committee called no convention to select delegates, as had been the custom in Louisiana—with one exception—for more than 50 years.

Recently widespread dissatisfaction over the state committee's action developed. Leaders in this opposition, individually and through local organizations, began a move for a state convention. They were joined by five members of the state committee and a public call for a state convention was issued.

The convention was held June 13-14 in Shreveport, and a slate of 24 delegates to Chicago, totaling 20 votes, was selected. Capt. John D. Ewing, son of the late Col. Robert Ewing, New Orleans publisher and a state and national Democratic leader for a generation, was elected by the convention as national committeeman for Louisiana. Miss Gladys Breazeale of Natchitoches was selected national committeewoman.

Three Ex-Governors Attend.

This convention was participated in by three former Louisiana governors—Jared Y. Sanders, Ruffin G. Pleasant and John M. Parker. Its presiding officer was Francis W. Nicholls, son of a former governor. Leading Democrats in every parish attended.

It was the contention of this group that the state convention system was the proper method for selecting national convention delegates and national committeeman. This had been the unvarying rule since 1877, with the exception of 1928 when the state committee selected delegates to the Houston convention.

The Shreveport convention replied with the assertion that the Louisiana delegation to Houston, chosen by state committee action, narrowly missed being unseated by the credentials committee at Houston; that the action was strongly condemned by Senator Carter Glass and by the late George Brennan of Illinois, both of whom stated that had a rival delegation to Houston been chosen by convention and with more care and deliberation it would have been seated over the state committee's choices.

Charge Tax Exemption Attempt.

The Times Picayune tomorrow will say that while new burdens are being piled on the backs of Louisiana taxpayers by a legislature dominated by Senator Huey P. Long, the law firm of Long and Wilkinson has started a legislative attempt to exempt the American Airways, Inc., large aviation organization, from payment of the state gasoline tax.

The law firm, through the instrumentality of Fred W. Oser, state senator from New Orleans, the newspaper will say, has started through the state senate a proposed constitutional amendment providing for the tax exemption.

Senator Oser, according to the newspaper, introduced the tax exemption measure June 8, a week after Raymond E. Buck, general counsel of the southern division of American Airways, Inc., sent to Hugh M. Wilkinson, law partner of Senator Long, in care of Richard Leche, secretary to Gov. O. K. Allen, a telegram suggesting that "You fix fee and wire me amount, then I will submit it by wire to New York for approval."

WETS ARE AHEAD IN MINNESOTA'S CONGRESS RACE

St. Paul, Minn., June 20.—(AP)—Supporters of proposals for resubmission of the prohibition question swung into the lead in all three parties in first returns for congress in today's statewide primary.

Candidates favored by dry organizations, while behind at the start, were undismayed with the heavy rural vote still untabulated. Nine nominees for each of three parties, Republicans, Democrats and Farmer-Laborites, were to be selected from a field of 38 candidates.

Earle Brown of Minneapolis had a substantial lead over his townsman, Franklin Ellsworth, for the Republican nomination for governor. Returns from 374 of the state's 3,715 precincts gave Brown 27,865 and Ellsworth 8,622.

John E. Regan of Mankato and Arthur A. Van Dyke of St. Paul, Democratic candidates for governor, were closely matched. Returns from 327 precincts gave Regan 4,588, Van Dyke 4,049.

Among the leaders in the congressional races were Magnus Johnson, former United States senator, a Farmer-Laborite; Silas M. Bryan of Minneapolis, son of Gov. Bryan of Nebraska, a Democrat, and Theodore Christianson and J. A. A. Burnquist, former governors, Republicans. All favor resubmission.

M'ADOO CANDIDACY FOR SENATE FILED BY CALIFORNIA SPONSOR

Los Angeles, Cal., June 20.—(AP)—With the filing of the first declaration by sponsors, William Gibbs McAdoo, secretary of the treasury in the Wilson administration, became a candidate today for the Democratic nomination for United States senator from California. The seat is now held by Senator Samuel Shortridge, Republican, who filed today for reelection.

McAdoo, who will head the California delegation to the Democratic national convention, consented to the senate race at a conference of Democrats yesterday. He said he was influenced by the representations of Democratic leaders during his recent tour of California for conferences on the Democratic national platform.

John P. Carter, Democratic leader, who announced McAdoo's name would be presented by sponsors, said the candidacy will be a "pillar of strength to the Democratic party in this state at the coming elections."

"He will not only command the solid support of his own party," Carter said, "but through his influential national leadership in statesmanship, will win the support of voters regardless of party lines."

GLACIER PRIEST PITCHES CAMP IN ACTIVE VOLCANO

BY THE REV. BERNARD R. HUBBARD, S. J.

KIAE PILOT POINT, Alaska (from Aniakchak volcano), June 20.—(AP)—Aniakchak, world's largest explosive crater, is putting on a new eruption, seemingly for the especial benefit of our expedition. Eight of us are camped on the steaming floor of the mammoth volcano.

Many days of arduous climbing were avoided when we were met, four days out of Kejulik bay, by Pilot Frank Dorbandt, who flew our party and equipment inside the volcano.

We will spend ten days in the crater, charting the new eruptions, taking temperatures of the fumaroles, and studying formation of the minerals. We expect this expedition will climax our three years' scientific study of Aniakchak.

DEMOCRATS TO HELP INDIANA TO REPEAL TODAY

Plank for Submission of Dry Law Drawn.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 20.—[Special.]—The Indiana Democratic state convention here tomorrow will ask congress to submit to the states a proposed repeal of the eighteenth amendment, will ask return of liquor control to the states, will come out for repeal of the present Indiana bone dry law, and will probably nominate the state ticket favored by the state organization headed by R. Earl Peters of Fort Wayne, state chairman.

PAUL V. McNUTT.

McNutt Probable Candidate.

This was definitely indicated tonight as the Democrats formally organized by districts preparatory to holding a one day whirlwind session tomorrow. Dr. Clarence E. Manion, University of Notre Dame law professor, will make the convention keynote speech, John S. McFadden of Rockville will serve as permanent chairman, a platform will be adopted, and a state ticket will be selected, probably headed by Paul V. McNutt, dean of the Indiana university law school, for governor.

Unless a revolt on the floor develops the 1932 prohibition plank will strongly resemble the one adopted two wee'ks ago by Indiana Republicans, who surprised even prohibition repeal advocates in their sensing of the liberal trend.

Proposed Prohibition Plank.

The proposed Democratic plank is already drafted. Minus the preamble, which cites evils of the liquor traffic, it says:

"We recommend that congress immediately pass the necessary resolution, submitting the proposal for repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the several states for approval or rejection. We recommend that congress specify it shall be submitted to nonpartisan conventions of the people at which no other question shall be considered, all in accordance with Article V. of the constitution of the United States.

"We recommend that ultimate control of the liquor question shall rest with the sovereign state. We recommend that the Indiana state legislature immediately repeal the Wright dry law and enact such laws as will protect persons and property and prevent the return of the saloon."

WIFE WHO LOST 100 POUNDS IS GIVEN DIVORCE

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday granted Mrs. Jeanette Davidson, 21 years old, 2629 Haddon avenue, a divorce from her husband, Julius, a Toronto [Ont.] telegrapher. The judge held that Mrs. Davidson's reduced avoirdupois did not justify her husband's acts of cruelty. Last Saturday Davidson appeared in court to contest the divorce action, charging that since he had forced his wife to reduce from 250 to 150 pounds she had gained a waistline and a desire for a younger husband.

"I didn't want to reduce," Mrs. Davidson told the judge yesterday. "My husband beat me. Every time I missed a gymnasium class he beat me again. He always told me to get busy and reduce. I just won't go back and live with him."

Davidson had contended that his wife's legal residence was in Toronto, but Judge Trude held that since she had lived in Chicago for more than twelve months she was legally a resident here.

BARES CHARGES OF KLAN BACKING FOR ROOSEVELT

Wisconsin Party Chief Airs Letters.

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—Copies of an open letter to Gov. F. D. Roosevelt, dated June 11, 1932, from J. M. Callahan, Democratic national committeeman from Wisconsin, charging that the Ku Klux Klan assisted in the campaign of the governor for delegates to the national convention from Georgia and other southern states, were made public today.

J. M. CALLAHAN.

The letter calls attention to a suit brought by C. W. Jones, who was treasurer of the Roosevelt southern clubs, and F. B. Summers, who was also an officer in the Roosevelt southern clubs, against Gov. Roosevelt for alleged compensation due for services performed.

Suit Filed in May.

The suit was filed on May 2 in the federal district court of northern Georgia and notice was served on the governor, according to the open letter, on May 25, last, as he was boarding a train for New York from Warm Springs, Ga., his southern home.

The amount claimed by Summers from Gov. Roosevelt for services is $6,480. What Jones claims is not stated in the press dispatches.

To show that Gov. Roosevelt accepted the aid of the Ku Klux Klan a photostatic copy of a letter to Gov. Roosevelt from Jones, dated April 30, 1931, is displayed, in which the following statements are made. There is no proof offered, however, that Gov. Roosevelt ever received the letter:

"At the same time we are making important contacts with labor and fraternal leaders that will be extremely valuable. One of these, and this is for your confidential and secret information alone, is with the Ku Klux Klan.

Says Klan Promised Aid.

"The leaders of this great southern, and, in fact, nation-wide organization have promised to aid us. As a matter of fact they have loaned or donated to our organization a large lot of office furniture for our headquarters and have promised more."

It is stated in Mr. Callahan's open letter that Paul S. Etheridge, who was formerly the imperial kionsel of the Klan, was general chairman of the Roosevelt southern clubs.

MILLIONS FROM LIQUOR REDUCE CANADIAN TAXES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., June 20.—Just how greatly the financial needs of the Canadian government, federal and provincial, have been eased by control of liquor sales is indicated in the latest official government statistical report.

The Ottawa or federal treasury was enriched $43,250,000 by liquor revenues in the last year. The Quebec provincial government has derived net profits of $70,000,000 in Quebec's ten year operation of government control. Last year's profits were $8,250,000.

British Columbia has profited $35,000,000 in ten years of government controlled liquor sale; Manitoba, $10,000,000 in seven and one-half years; Alberta, $12,000,000 in the same period; Saskatchewan, $13,000,000 in seven years; Ontario, $43,000,000 in seven years; New Brunswick, $5,000,000 in five years, and Nova Scotia, $1,000,000 in one year.

TWO RICH IOWA SISTERS SHOT, BURNED TO DEATH

Hunt Negroes Seen Near Their Farm Home.

Knoxville, Ia., June 20.—[Special.]—The charred bodies of Misses Letitia and Jennie Keefer, elderly spinsters, who were reputed to be wealthy, were discovered today in their farm house near Knoxville.

Four empty rifle shells near the bodies indicated that the women, who were between 60 and 70 years old, had been shot to death. The killer or killers, in the opinion of investigators, set fire to the house after the shooting.

Body Falls Into Cellar.

The flames partly consumed the bodies and burned a hole in the floor of the dining room. One of the bodies had dropped into the basement.

Emmet Hollingshead, a neighbor, who had been told last week to go to the spinsters' place to work, discovered the bodies when he arrived soon after daylight. Unable to get a reply to his call at the door, he broke into the house.

Sheriff Ira Ward, summoned by Hollingshead, questioned other neighbors and learned of the report that the Keefer sisters had kept a large sum of money hidden on the farm. He expressed the opinion that robbery was the motive for the double murder.

Floor Soaked with Oil.

The fire did no damage to other parts of the house and this led to a theory that the bodies and the dining room floor had been soaked with kerosene or gasoline before being touched off. It is believed that the killings occurred on Friday or Saturday.

The only suspects so far are two Negroes, who were seen on the right of way of the Rock Island railroad, which passes through the sisters' farm, on Saturday.

Canadian Vessel and Rum Cargo Freed by U. S. Court

New London, Conn., June 20.—(AP)—The British registered vessel Cadet of Weymouth, Nova Scotia, seized by the coast guard last January, left for St. Pierre today with its cargo of 1,100 sacks of liquor. The vessel was freed by the federal court order, contending that the government failed to show the Cadet was seized within the twelve mile limit.

14% DECREASE IN MARRIAGES, DIVORCES SHOWN

Figures for Five Months of Year Issued.

Marriages and divorces decreased approximately 14 per cent in Cook county during the first five months of the year, as compared with the corresponding period of last year. This was revealed in statistics made public yesterday by County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer, Superior Court Clerk Frank V. Zintak and Circuit Court Clerk Thomas O. Wallace.

To June 1, 1932, the county clerk's office had issued 10,167 marriage licenses—13.9 per cent below the 11,826 for the same period of last year. In the same period 3,054 divorces were granted as against 3,541 in 1931—a drop of 13.7 per cent. The proportion of one divorce for every three marriages remained constant.

24 Per Cent Below Peak.

The 1932 marriage total is 24 per cent below the peak marriage year of 1923, when 15,545 licenses were issued in the five month period. The 1932 divorce total is 29 per cent behind the peak divorce year of 1929, when 4,905 divorces were granted in the first five months of the year.

All of the divorce decline has been in the Superior court, with but 1,488 decrees in the first five months of the year, against 3,099 in the same period in 1931. Divorces in the Circuit court increased from 1,442 to 1,536 in 1932. The Circuit court in the 1932 total surpasses the Superior court for the first time since the latter court was founded. In former years the Superior court got most of the divorce cases.

Marriage License Figures.

Chief Clerk Sidney Summerfield of the marriage license bureau made public 1931 and 1932 marriage license totals as follows:

	1931.	1932.
January	2,247	2,011
February	2,025	1,771
March	1,973	1,804
April	2,705	2,211
May	2,871	2,370
Totals	11,820	10,167

Divorces in the Circuit and Superior courts for the same period were as follows:

	—Circuit—		—Superior—
	1931.	1932.	1931.	1932.
January	319	297	561	304
February	344	300	380	249
March	284	323	422	372
April	280	308	283	252
May	313	338	453	311
Totals	1,442	1,566	2,099	1,488

In the Superior court alimony payments and cash settlements for the first five months of the year were 43 per cent below the total for the same period last year. In 1931, $550,068 was paid in alimony and settlements, as compared to $310,256 this year. Records on payments are not compiled in the Circuit court.

J. C. WAHL IS TOLD TO DIG UP ALIMONY OR FACE JAIL TERM

MRS. JUNE E. WAHL.

John C. Wahl, 2316 Cambridge avenue, told Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday in the Superior court that he is an inventor and spends his time "just puttering around."

"You'd better invent some way to pay your wife the alimony you owe her, or you'll be puttering around the county jail," Judge Sabath retorted. "I'll give you until July 5."

Wahl had previously testified that he has had no steady job since 1925. He lost his $25,000 a year post as vice president of the Wahl Pen company five days after he was divorced by Mrs. June E. Wahl, 517 Oakdale avenue, he said. Attorney Harry X. Cole, representing Mrs. Wahl, then brought out on cross-examination admissions that he had owned several expensive automobiles since that time, and had taken trips to California and Florida.

Wahl asserted that he had raised the money for the cars and trips by the sale of seven club memberships which he held, and some stock holdings, which he has now exhausted, he said. His alimony arrears now amount to $6,640, he said.

POPE'S PERSONAL ENVOY IN DUBLIN; MET WITH POMP

Crowds Pray as Legate Arrives on Ship.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, June 20.—Fifteen hundred years ago St. Patrick came to Ireland. He landed on a beach from a frail boat with two companions. They wore the simple brown dress of monks and there was no reception committee.

In the hills beyond the hostile, pagan Irish watched and wondered what the invaders wanted. St. Patrick triumphed. He planted the seed of faith, which grew until Ireland became the most faithful daughter of the Roman Catholic church.

Papal Legate Lands.

Today Lorenzo Cardinal Lauri, the papal legate, landed in Ireland for the 31st international Eucharistic congress. He came in the finest boat which crosses the Irish channel. The boat normally carries 1,000 passengers, but today it was reserved for the legate and his suite.

Cardinal Lauri wore the gorgeous purple robes of a prince of the church. In his suite were archbishops, bishops, monsignori, and chamberlains of the cape and sword, and a detachment of the Swiss guard. He was welcomed by the archbishop of Dublin, Dr. Byrne, and the Free State president, Eamon de Valera.

On the pier presenting arms were 200 of Ireland's crack soldiers, while waiting to escort him to Dublin was a company of Irish Hussars in new uniforms of papal blue and gold.

Crowds Pray in Hills.

In the hills behind Lun Laoghire harbor, where the legate landed, massed crowds cheered, wept, knelt, and prayed as the personal representative of Pope Pius set foot on shore.

As the ship, Cambria, rounded the outer pier a royal salute of twenty-one guns was fired. A flight of airplanes in the form of a cross hovered over the boat and later flew over the procession as it went the eight miles to Dublin.

When the ship was tied up church dignitaries, President De Valera, his entire cabinet, and local dignitaries went aboard. When the legate landed a procession was formed. At the Merrion gate entrance to Dublin city the legate was welcomed by the lord mayor, Alfred Byrne, who came in an old gold coach which is one of the civic treasures of Dublin. The coach had not been out of the museum for 100 years.

The procession proceeded to the pro-cathedral, where the legate conveyed the pope's blessing.

Tomorrow is the day for lay receptions. Dublin is giving a garden party and an "at home" to meet the legate on the grounds of Blackrock college, where De Valera once taught, and in the evening the government is giving a great reception and ball at Dublin castle.

An unpleasant situation has arisen over these functions due to the bitterness in Irish politics. The government has not invited Governor General James McNeill, king George's representative in the Free State, to any of the functions it controls. McNeill is a Catholic Irishman who was appointed by former President Cosgrave. He is a papal knight, but De Valera insists on introducing republicanism into the religious situation.

Cardinal Balks at Slight.

It was reported tonight that Cardinal Bourne, head of the church in England, will refuse to attend functions where McNeill has not been invited, and it is also said that a number of foreign prelates who were McNeill's guests at the vice regal lodge will also refuse to attend these functions.

Speeches and prayers at the pro-cathedral this afternoon were heard all over Dublin by crowds who knelt in the streets and listened to loud speakers.

A series of pontifical high masses will begin Wednesday and will culminate in an open air mass for 500,000 people at Phoenix park on Sunday.

'BIG SIX' PROVES HE IS BRAINS OF ROBBERY GANG

And His Pals Find It Out Too Late.

Arthur Schroeder's other name is Big Six. He is 30 years old and a recent alumnus of Joliet penitentiary. He weighs 278 pounds and is, in the opinion of the police, the fattest bandit in Chicago.

Harry Rose, 24 years old, 1924 West Congress street, weighs only half as much as Big Six. He is an alumnus only of the Bridewell. In the opinion of the police he is the dumbest bandit in Chicago.

They met several days ago. Harry thought Big Six was a policeman, but changed his mind after Big Six said scornfully "I eat policemen." So it was arranged between them that they would organize a gang and go out on a holdup.

A Holdup Is Planned.

"You have got an automobile," said Big Six, "and I have the brains and the experience. You get one boy and I'll get two and we'll go on a swell holdup where we'll get $4,000 and split even."

They assembled last Tuesday evening. Besides the fat man and the car owner there were Frank Deligo, 25 years old, 2308 Taylor street, and others known as Butch and Lefty. All had pistols. What happened after the assembly was repeated by Bandit Rose at the detective bureau last night.

"We drove down to the White House inn near Joliet," he said. "Big Six told me to stay outside and stop anybody who tried to run away. He made Frank and Butch and Lefty march in first and he went last to yell: 'This is a stickup,' and take all the money.

"It went along all right. The rest of the gang came out and we came back to Chicago. The next morning we got together to split up the dough. I'll never forget how sad Big Six looked when he laid the money on the table. It was all in dimes and quarters.

"'Here's $9 for Frank and $9 for Butch and the same for Lefty,' he said. 'That leaves $23. I get $11 for having the brains and Harry gets $11 for having a car.' He even cried a little about how hard the times were when there was only $49 in a roadhouse stickup."

Harry was arrested when a police squad found six pistols in his car. After he had told his story to Sergt. George Woodward, the latter had Big Six arrested in his home, 7919 Justine street. The sergeant discovered that he had just left Joliet last March after a four year term for robbery.

Also he learned that those tears of the fat bandit at the splitup were crocodile tears. Big Six had taken $1,000 and jewelry valued at $3,000 in the White House holdup.

QUOTATIONS FROM A RECENT ISSUE OF "VOGUE"

(BY PERMISSION OF THE PUBLISHER)

"One of the stupidest things in the world is to like things just because they are cheap. It is almost as stupid as to like things just because they are dear."

"Popular report to the contrary, there is a Quality Market! . . . There are those of the poor well-bred who are aware that cheap buying is not economic buying.

"There is a taste that has been, and always will be, selective. This sort of taste goes on its way unimpressed except by the art of artists, in whatever lines art has developed real artists. It can distinguish the best from the best-sellers. The artists may be high, or they may be humble; their wares may be modest or magnificent, but the merit of them will be recognized by those who know how to choose; and the fact that there is a public who appreciates what is good, in fine material, beautiful design, grace of form, balance, delicate workmanship, amusing ingenuity, ought to convince trade that it has a standard to maintain."

. . . . . .

"Outward appearance should suit, though never surpass, position. Of course, if one has not the means, one must not buy at all, and if one is sufficiently a good sport, one doesn't care. It is the medium condition in which to be penny-wise is to be pound-foolish. Two semi-pleasing purchases are never equal to one really satisfactory one. The woman of good fashion-taste knows this, for what is smartness but common sense with snap in it!

"Quality of mind will always demand quality of matter.

"That good taste will ever prefer poor merchandise at the lowest prices, to the best it can buy for its now hard-to-come-by dollars, is not to be believed."

It is the determination of this store to maintain the quality standard set by its founders.

We will compete with any other merchandising organization on the basis of quality for quality but we will not wittingly, in any instance, skimp quality for the sake of lower price.

JUGO-SLAVS JOIN TO DOOM KING'S DICTATORSHIP

Banned Parties Openly War on Alexander.

Sentence Two to Death

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, June 20.—Lieut. Atanaskovitch and Lieut. Altaler were sentenced to death, Maj. Djokitch to ten years' imprisonment, four others given five to teh years, and four were acquitted by the military court late tonight.

These sentences and the first act of the drama which opened May 28 with the discovery of a communist organization in the army. Wholesale arrests followed.

The center of activities is believed to be Maribor, Slovenia, formerly Austrian territory. The Black Hand, with its chief aim the abolishing of the Karageorgevitch dynasty and substitution of the republican form of government, again is active throughout the country.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELGRADE, June 8.—[By Mail to Escape Censor.]—A "truce of God" has been concluded between all the old warring political parties of Jugo-Slavia, officially banned by the dictatorship, and their agreement this month on a national program bodes ill for the Karageorgevitch dynasty.

KING ALEXAND R.
[Assoc. Press Photo.]

King Alexander's throne, according to the most conservative minded of the populace, is toppling and in most responsible quarters in Belgrade predictions are being made that a republican régime will be in power within a year. Many who agree believe that a democratic monarchy is the best form of government for Jugoslavia.

King's Power Wanes.

All of the old Serbian political parties and of course the Croats, Slovenes, and Bosnians are lined up against the young king and his military dictatorship. In recent weeks they have carried their fight out in the open, confident of their strength and the weakening of the king's influence. Six months ago they would have been jailed and some of them subjected to torture in prison. Today the king no longer dares to arrest them.

They first got together last fall, aroused and prodded into action by the continuation of the dictatorship under a parliamentary façade, a dictatorship responsible for the suppression of the rights of free speech and political assembly, the abolition of the press and the wholesale imprisonment of political prisoners, usually without trial, and the medieval tortures inflicted on many of them.

Agree on General Program.

There were many disagreements among them. But first they declared a "truce of God" and now they have at least agreed on a general program. It is:

1. The organization of the nation on a federal basis, divided into four semi-autonomous provinces, of Serbia, Croatia, Slovenia and Bosnia-Herzegovina with a federal government and paliament at Belgrade.

2. The election of a constituent assembly to draw up a new constitution with guarantees that no king, future or present, may tear it up as King Alexander did with the previous constitution when he proclaimed the dictatorship on Jan. 6, 1929.

The king, according to reliable information, dodged the first point, but offered to turn the government over to the opposition chiefs and call a general election by secret ballot on the condition that the matter of who was responsible for the dictatorship and its hard fisted rule was not raised.

The opposition leaders felt so confident of their position that they turned down the king's offer.

According to a well founded information, King Alexander has a last desperate plan to save his throne. It is to conclude a three monarch alliance with the kings of Rumania and Bulgaria, whose purpose would be to guarantee each other's thrones.

Riots Mark Patriot's Memorial.

Zagreb, Jugoslavia, June 20.—(AP)—The fourth anniversary of the slaying in parliament of Stefan Raditch, the Croatian patriot, was marked throughout Croatia today by demonstrations and riots, in which at least one person met death.

The fatality occurred when demonstrators tried to capture a prison and release the political prisoners. Police fired into the crowd. Several persons were reported seriously injured at Jastrebarska and other towns.

COMMONS HEARS ECHO OF SUICIDE IN LINDY SEARCH

LONDON, June 20.—(AP)—The suicide of Violet Sharpe came up again in the house of commons today when Brig. Gen. Clifton Brown asserted that her parents are convinced that she ended her life "as a direct result of the methods of investigation pursued by the New Jersey state police."

The parents, he said, are anxious for a full investigation of the girl's death in the Morrow home in Englewood, after she had been questioned by the police several times in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping. The undersecretary for home affairs said he had not yet received a report on the case from the consul general at New York.

CHINA PONDERS DECLARING WAR ON MANCHOUKUO

Angered as New State Seizes Customs.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 21.—[Tuesday.]—The possibility of a Chinese declaration of war against the Japanese supported Manchoukuo state in Manchuria was predicted here today in event the Japanese government recognizes Manchoukuo. The Chinese charge the Manchoukuo authorities are extending their seizure of Chinese customs revenues.

WANG CHING-WEI.
[Assoc. Press Photo.]

Statements from Peiping today quoted Wang Ching-wei, chairman of the executive yuan; T. V. Soong, finance minister; Lo Wen-kan, foreign minister; Wellington Koo, and other prominent officials as declaring that the national government's counter move to Japanese recognition would be a punitive expedition against the puppet state's government.

May Default Foreign Loans.

T. V. Soong declared that Japanese approval of Manchoukuo's seizure of the Chinese customs revenue is the cause of a Chinese customs loss of about $15,000,000 gold, making it impossible for the government to meet interest on foreign loans.

"In a world already darkened by economic depression, the powers cannot regard with indifference the callous destruction of the solvency of China's 400,000,000 people," Soong said.

Japanese officials also emphasize the seriousness of the crisis between Nanking and Manchoukuo. The Japanese place the blame for the continuing disorder in Manchuria on Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, ousted governor of Manchuria, who is now at Peiping.

"The Manchoukuo government is contemplating grave action against Chang," one Japanese official declared.

The Chinese government's decision to adopt a stronger attitude toward the Manchurian situation has resulted in a series of conferences between political and military leaders, including Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese dictator, and Chang Hsueh-liang.

Stimson Warns Japan.

TOKIO, June 20.—(AP)—The question of confiscation of the Chinese customs revenues in Manchuria by Henry Pu-yi's government has been called to the attention of Japanese Ambassador Debuchi at Washington by Secretary of State Stimson, it was learned from an official quarter here today.

Secretary Stimson, this source said, called the ambassador's attention to American consular reports from Manchuria describing efforts of the Pu-yi government to establish a customs autonomy there and assume control of all Chinese customs offices, including that at Dairen, which is on Japanese leased territory.

The British ambassador, Sir Francis Lindley, also visited the foreign office here and discussed the same situation. It was understood the powers fear the matter threatens the integrity of the Chinese maritime customs, by which a large portion of China's foreign indebtedness is secured.

The foreign office here takes the attitude that the situation does not justify the powers in making representations to Japan, who disclaims all responsibility in the matter.

Japan, like America and Great Britain, is a creditor of China, a government spokesman said, and is interested that the service on its Chinese credits be secured on the customs.

MONARCHISTS OF GERMANY DO NEW HONOR TO HITLER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 20.—The monarchists are kotowing to Adolf Hitler, former Austrian painter and creator of German Fascism, according to the newspaper Welt am Abend. The paper asserted that Hitler has been invited to attend the wedding of the eldest son of the Swedish crown prince, Gustaf Adolf, heir to the throne of Sweden, with Princess Sibylle of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha.

Both the bride and bridegroom are great-grandchildren of the late Queen Victoria of England. Sibylle's father, the duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, an English born prince, came to Germany and later succeeded in compelling the free state of Thuringia to pay him vast sums for renouncing his power. A great part of this money was used by the duke to further the cause of Hitlerism, it is understood.

The duke's main castle is in Coburg, which town is entirely controlled by the Hitlerites. He has been actively engaged in trying to induce the Hitlerites to help restore the monarchy in Germany.

NEW RED REVOLT GRIPS CHILE; RIOT IN CITIES; 20 DIE

Americans Flee; Martial Law Is Declared.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VALPARAISO, Chile, June 20.—[By Telephone to Buenos Aires] [Censored.]—Chile tonight was in the grip of another bloody revolt—the fourth this month. At least twenty persons have been killed and more than fifteen wounded in wild street fighting between communists and adherents of the Socialist junta headed by Carlos Davila, former Chilean ambassador to the United States.

The latest uprising began here and at Santiago this afternoon, when rioting by communist mobs forced a cessation of all business activities. Mobs thronged the streets in both cities, shouting communist slogans. At one time an effort was made to storm the arsenal here. Martial law was declared throughout Chile.

Cheer Radical Leader.

The crowds cheered for Col. Marmaduke Grove, the extreme radical leader who, after the revolution which overthrew the government of President Juan Esteban Montero on June 4, ousted Davila from the leadership of the Socialist junta and set up a communist régime. Col. Grove, in turn, was ousted a few days ago by adherents of Davila and Davila was returned to power.

Col. Grove, Eugenio Matte, another radical former member of the revolutionary junta, and other Red leaders are now aboard a destroyer en route to exile on Juan Fernandez island.

School teachers in Valparaiso led their pupils out on a "revolutionary strike" this afternoon, shouting for the return of "our hero, Grove."

Troops Ordered to Shoot Looters.

The situation took on a more serious aspect tonight, when troops loyal to the government raided communist headquarters at Santiago and were met by rifle fire. This served as a signal to touch off general street fighting.

Two warships entered Valparaiso harbor tonight with 1,000 Chilean marines on board, who are to be landed with orders to shoot looters on sight. All streets are pitch dark. Patrols of soldiers are combing both Valparaiso and Santiago for Elias Lafferte, communist leader. The population is in a panic. American and British residents are rushing to board ships in the harbor.

The following words were attributed to Davila when he again imposed censorship tonight:

"It is better for Chile and the world not to know what is happening these days."

This is declared by communists to mean that communist leaders sent to Juan Fernandez island would be executed en route.

U. S. Envoy Asks Protection.

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 20.—(AP)—Ambassador William S. Culbertson formally requested the Chilean government tonight to protect American lives and property at the Braden copper mines. He said the Braden Copper company, which is American owned, had advised him of agitation and street trouble at Rancaqua, including anti-foreign agitation. The company feared the trouble would spread to its mines. He indicated a belief that the police forces were insufficient to cope with disorders if they broke up.

The Braden mines, owned by the Guggenheim interests and worth $100,000,000, are at Teniente, near Rancagua, 50 miles south of Santiago. Many Americans with their families live in Teniente. Rumors of disorders circulated tonight, but no official confirmation was available.

British Cruiser Stands By.

CALLAO, Peru, June 20.—(AP)—The British cruiser Durban arrived here today under orders to stand by in case she should be needed for protection of British interests in Chile.

Aviation Notes

Among the biographies of Chicagoans in the new Blue Book of Aviation is that of Frank Kerr Hays, assistant cashier of the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank 605 North Michigan avenue. After shooting one enemy plane down Hays chased another plane off of the tail of his flight commander's plane over Chambley, France, in 1918, and won the Distinguished Service cross. Hays had six enemy planes to his credit. He lives at 1413 West 104th street.

Thirty members of the recently formed Aeronautical Association of America, headed by the president, Mrs. Charles Severinghaus, were the guests of Maj. R. W. Schroeder at Sky Harbor yesterday. The association is sponsoring a model airplane contest being held in connection with the George Washington bicentennial military tournament, to be held in Soldiers' field June 24 to July 4.

POLES PROTEST VISIT TO DANZIG BY GERMAN NAVY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, June 20.—The proposed visit of German warships to Danzig has provoked a new clash between Poland and the Danzig free state administration.

The Polish government insists on defending its rights to represent Danzig abroad in accordance with the Versailles treaty, contending that the sovereignty of Danzig is restricted in favor of Poland and that only Poland can grant permission for German warships to visit Danzig. The action of the Danzig senate in issuing an invitation to Germany without consulting Poland is claimed here to be a violation of the treaty.

Poland is taking international measure against Danzig and against the alleged anti-Polish policy of the league of nations commissioner, declaring that "this is the last provocation Poland will tolerate from pro-Hitler Danzig."

Thousands Give Atlantic Flyer Noisy Welcome.

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—Amelia Earhart came home from Europe today, just one month after she lifted her red and gold monoplane off the runway at Newfoundland to set it down 15 hours later in Ireland, the first woman to fly the Atlantic alone.

The cheers of four European countries she visited still must have been ringing in her ears, but New York deafened her all over again with the noisy affection of its welcome at the Battery and her triumphal ride up Broadway to be received at city hall.

There must have been 5,000 persons—fully half of them women—massed behind police lines at the Battery when the city tug Riverside coasted into the pier at 11:20 a. m. The Riverside, with a score of famous flyers, army and navy officers, and 50 newspaper men on board, took Miss Earhart and her husband, George Palmer Putnam, the publisher, off the French liner Ile de France at quarantine and brought her up the bay.

Sidewalks Are Jammed.

Noonday crowds jammed the sidewalks on both sides of Broadway and office workers showered down a storm of ticker tape that certainly must have reminded her of the rain and sleet storms she was winging through just a month ago tonight.

On the steps of the custom house, hundreds were packed, and as Miss Earhart's automobile rounded up Broadway, they began to sing an old song revised:

"Amelia, I'd like to steal ya!"

Amelia laughed at that, and waved to the crowd.

This was Miss Earhart's day to receive roses, and she received them—bouquet after bouquet. Mayor Walker's offering, a large bunch of American Beauties, was handed her as she left the Ile de France; another bouquet was passed to her by Charles L. Lawrence, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce and honorary chairman of the reception committee, as she descended from her car at city hall.

City Hall Jammed.

City hall plaza was packed. Miss Earhart was cheered and there were bands and excited squawkings from the loudspeakers, much straining at the police lines, and all the panoply of an official welcome.

Hector Fuller of the mayor's committee was master of ceremonies and announced Miss Earhart as she and Mr. Lawrence entered the room together. The Mayor and Michael MacWhite, the minister of the Irish Free State, were waiting for them.

After the introductions, Mr. MacWhite said a few words to let everybody know he was glad Ireland had the good fortune to be her landing place, and then the mayor took the floor.

Atlantic Solo Goes Co-ed.

"Five years ago we believed that the aeronautical 'We' had but one gender; now you've destroyed that. The Atlantic solo has gone co-ed," the mayor said.

"We're all wondering what you're going to do next, but we do hope you'll take your time about it and give us a chance to recover from the thrills of this exploit."

The mayor presented her with the gold medal of the city of New York, the decoration that other trans-Atlantic flyers received from his hands.

Reception Overwhelms Her.

"This reception is overwhelming," she said. "It's much too much for my exploit. After all, motors and planes and weather reports have improved so much in the last few years that trans-Atlantic flying isn't nearly as hazardous as it used to be."

The ceremony at the city hall lasted just 35 minutes, and then, with a heavy police escort, the procession of automobiles sped to Bryant park where she received her second decoration—the cross of honor of the United States Flag association, Mrs. Edward F. Hutton, chairman of the National council, made the presentation.

"I hope you understand," Miss Earhart told the reporters who pressed around her and heard the story of her flight, "that my flight added nothing to aviation. It was just a personal gesture on my part. I wanted to do it to justify my flight in the Friendship four years ago when I was just a sack of potatoes. Of course, if it means something to women in aviation, that's fine."

Modest, because she obviously was sincere about her reasons for making the flight, and matter of fact about the dangers because she has been flying for twelve years and knows how to rate dangers comparatively, Miss Earhart accepted the acclaim today as quietly as she could.

TO TAKE PART IN MILITARY TOURNAMENT

100 WAR SHOW PLANES TO FLY OVER CITY FRIDAY

Foreign Groups Will Take Part.

Warfare in its three dimensional aspects will be portrayed at the George Washington bi-centennial military tournament, which begins on Soldiers' field next Friday and will continue through July 4.

More than 100 airplanes from army fields will start the tournament by flying from Lansing field near Hammond, over the entire length of Chicago on Friday afternoon, going as far north as the Curtiss-Wright field at Glenview.

Then at 7 p. m. the army flyers will return south to Grant park and hover overhead in battlefield maneuvers before the earthbound arms of the service—cavalry, artillery, infantry and engineers—perform their parts before the crowds at Soldiers' field.

The 1,600 troops in the tournament will pass in review before Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the 6th corps area, as a prelude to displaying their tactics. On the program will be maneuvers by 400 sailors from the Great Lakes station.

Each of the eleven nights of the tournament will be in charge of foreign groups of citizens or the American Legion. On Friday the French and the navy will be featured. The Legion will be sponsor on Saturday.

Methods of warfare and the arts of peace in Washington's time and in 1932 will be contrasted during the tournament. Groups of the soldiers will participate nightly in a reproduction of the storming of old Fort Dearborn by Indians and in a reproduction of the battle of Cantigny in the world war.

MRS. TWOMBLEY WINS DECREE OF SEPARATION

Mrs. Ethel Twombley was granted a decree of separate maintenance yesterday by Judge Harry B. Miller in her action against Willard Irving Osgood Twombley, inventor of radio tubes, which has been hanging fire in Chicago courts since 1925.

Twombley accepted service in the suit only two weeks ago. His wife was granted a judgment for $22,910 for temporary alimony payments on which he had fallen in arrears. Her alimony of $400 a month was made permanent and she was granted custody of her daughter, Gloria, 9 years old.

Mrs. Twombley charged cruelty. She testified that the inventor beat her on Aug. 5, 1925, when she went to an apartment at 2826 Pine Grove avenue and found him living there with a June Mashak, who was known in the building as his wife.

In 1928 Mrs. Twombley had her husband sent to prison in Michigan on a charge of misconduct. He had previously lost a fortune, accumulated from his rabio tube inventions, during his litigation with her, but in prison he organized a new business in which he recouped his fortune, operating it from behind the bars.

Attorney Joel Baker protested against the permanent order for $400 a month alimony to Mrs. Twombley asserting that Twombley had told him that he was making only $100 a month at present.

WOMAN, 72, DIES OF BURNS.

Mrs. Mary Knops, 72 years old, 147 West 117th street, died yesterday at the Roseland Community hospital of burns suffered on Friday in a gas explosion in her home.

SUMMER ARRIVES TODAY; FORECAST IS FOR COOLER WEATHER

The summer solstice in Chicago will occur at 10:23 a. m. today and the day will be the longest of the year 1932. For the next week or more, however, the amount of sunlight will remain nearly constant, the shortening being measured only in fractions of a minute daily.

Yesterday's highest official temperature was 82 degrees at 4 p. m., which is not far from normal. The hottest June 20 in the city was in 1872, when 92 was reached. The coolest was in 1875, when 40 was recorded. The hottest June 21 on record here was in 1894, when the mercury climbed to 95.

Today, according to the official forecast, will be partly cloudy and slightly cooler. A possibility of showers before daylight was indicated. It is expected to be somewhat cooler, particularly if the wind shifts and comes in from the lake. The wind direction yesterday was southwest.

RYERSON LEAVES FOR PARLEY OF RELIEF LEADERS

Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the Illinois emergency relief commission, and Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission, left last night for Springfield, where they will address members of all the county committees who have been distributing state relief this morning. Montgomery S. Winning, assistant attorney general, will also speak at the meeting.

The meeting was called by Mr. Ryerson to explain to the county committee members the basis on which allocations have been and will be made; to encourage a discussion as to what shall be done when state relief funds are exhausted, and to point out the importance to downstate counties of seeing that the $20,000,000 relief bond issue is passed at the coming election.

City to Pay $9,809,351 on Bonds on July 1

City Controller Szymczak announced yesterday that the city on July 1 will pay $9,809,351 as interest and principal on city and board of education bonds and interest on city water certificates due on that date. The money to pay the obligations has been obtained from the sale of water and tax warrants and cash received from various tax levies for payment of bonds and interest.

WIFE FILES NEW SUIT AGAINST CHAS. W. FRICKS

Mrs. Kathryn Fricks, 10 East Elm street, yesterday filed her second bill for separate maintenance against Charles W. Fricks, head of his own auditing company, charging him with adultery. The bill named Mrs. Mary Thompson McGregor of Pontiac, Ill., as co-respondent, as did the first suit, which was dropped last May 10 after Mrs. Fricks had testified against her husband during a two day hearing.

At that time Judge Craig Hood criticized Mrs. Fricks and her attorneys for their action, saying they had not given Fricks and Mrs. McGregor, a widowed grandmother, an opportunity to defend themselves. The latest bill asserts that the former suit was dropped "because important witnesses changed their stories on the witness stand."

When the earlier suit was dropped Judge Hood ordered Mrs. Fricks to return to her husband $550 he had given her as temporary alimony and solicitors' fees. An appeal from this order now is pending in the Appellate court.

DARROW TO MAKE NEW PLEA TO SAVE YOUTHFUL KILLER

Attorney Clarence Darrow will go before the Illinois Supreme court for the second time tomorrow with a plea to save Russell McWilliams, 17 year old Rockford slayer, from the electric chair.

McWilliams, who killed a Rockford street car motorman in a holdup last August, twice has been sentenced to die after pleading guilty, and unless the Supreme court again intervenes he will be executed on Friday.

The Supreme court reversed Circuit Judge Fisher of Rockford on the ground that he had not gone sufficiently into the circumstances of McWilliams' home life and had not given proper consideration to his youth. Attorney Darrow and his associate, Attorney William H. Holly, will argue that the judge similarly erred in pronouncing the death sentence for the second time.

Eight Seized in 2 Raids; Gambling Outfits Taken

Lieut. Edward Weber of the county highway police last night raided a garage at 3616 South 52d avenue, Cicero, and the Delis roadhouse at 8743 Ogden avenue, Lyons, seizing gambling paraphernalia in each place. Joseph Litka was arrested as the keeper of the dice game in the garage, and Melvin Wehrmeister as operator of the gambling in the roadhouse. Three patrons of each place were also taken into custody.

JUDGE PONDERS REAGAN ISSUE; DELAYS RULING

Matter of Three Doorbells Cited in Court.

Judge Philip J. Finnegan bent an attentive ear yesterday to arguments of counsel in "Riverside versus Reagan" in the Circuit court. He contemplated with Attorney S. Ashley Guthrie for the suburb, the significance of three separate doorbells and three separate mailboxes at the Reagan domicile at 52 Nuttal road in the light of the zoning ordinance there. He considered, with Attorney John R. Heath, for the Reagans, the unaltered exterior of the mansion under dispute, and the right of a parent to have married children live with her.

JUDGE FINNEGAN.

Then he announced that it would take him another week to decide whether the seventeen Reagans affected were living within the law in a one family home, or outside the pale in one of the forbidden apartment buildings. Several members of the family were in court at the time. Their faces fell at the announcement

Hoped for a Decision.

"We're just worn out," said Mrs. John Silverthorne, one of the married couples now occupying the home in the absence of Mrs. Reagan in Italy. "This has been dragging on since last September, when the suit was filed, and we had hoped to hear a decision today."

"Your honor, this is not a case of kitchens and bathrooms, but of relationship," pleaded Mr. Heath. "Police power has extended a long way, but not to the point where it can dictate the number of sinks or shower baths in a home."

A decision of the New York Appellate court, he directed the attention of Judge Finnegan, held that the remodeling of a home for the use of a sorority was not in violation of zoning laws prohibiting the presence of apartment buildings. The Reagan instance is a similar one, he argued.

Tells Alterations to Building.

Attorney Guthrie countered with an assertion that the case revolved around the construction of an edifice, rather than the intent of its use. The Reagan home, a vast 22 room house of an earlier generation, was transferred from its original purpose as a one family residence, he argues, by the alterations, including two beaverboard partitions and one wall knocked out, to make a kitchen out of what had been a sewing room.

Mrs. Ellen Reagan, owner of the home, has twelve living children—five being her own by a first marriage, five stepchildren by her second marriage to Herbert Reagan, and two born of the second marriage. The brothers and sisters, married and single, have been living since the depression in the old house. The Reagans, their stepsisters and brothers and their half brothers, are congenial folk who insist they still are all one family.

SOUTH SIDE GROUP TO FIGHT PROGRAM OF ASPHALT PAVING

Ald. William A. Rowan and a delegation of residents of the 10th ward will appear at a public hearing Friday before the board of local improvements to oppose the proposed special assessment against property owners to place an asphalt surface on the pavements to be laid in Chicago by the state and city jointly and the county and city jointly.

"One of the proposals is to pave 95th street between Ewing and South Chicago avenues," said Ald. Rowan. "The property owners along that stretch are being asked by the board of local improvements to pay a special assessment for the curb and the parking lane and, in addition, for the cost of putting an asphalt layer over the entire street.

"That one-half mile of pavement is a general, not a local, improvement, and the entire cost should be paid out of the gasoline tax. The property owners are being asked to pay for an interstate connecting link that will be a detriment to their property. The estimated cost is $55,000 for that one-half mile strip. I understand the county has laid one mile of concrete for that price. We will protest emphatically."

$300 IS ADDED TO ALGONQUIN CAMP TREASURY

While tenement families were scurrying around yesterday preparing for their departure this afternoon as the first of Camp Algonquin's summer time guests, more than $300 more was added to the $1,000 anonymous gift announced Sunday for the camp fund.

The semi-annual payment from the Abbie E. Tyrrell trust fund brought $297.64. Fifty dollars came from Mrs. Levy Mayer, long an Algonquin friend. This gift was in memory of the birthday of Mrs. Mayer's mother. Another contribution was $25 from the Harriet Sayers fund, and $2 came from "Anonymous." This makes a total of $1,284.64 in the Camp Algonquin fund toward the $10,000 necessary from Tribune readers to run the camp this summer.

This afternoon a happy band of vacationers will leave the Chicago and North Western station for Cary. A short ride in the camp trucks will bring them to the tree sheltered rolling acres that skirt the Fox river. They will be greeted at the great dining hall upon their arrival by Mrs. Astrid Save, and shortly after will be put to bed. It will be the first night in the country for most of these visitors and Algonquin's 23d year of service will have begun.

Your gifts are needed. You may send them to the Camp Algonquin fund in care of the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

Shanghai Cholera Epidemic Increases to 520 Cases

SHANGHAI, China, June 20.—(AP)—An epidemic of cholera which began two weeks ago is increasing. The health authorities said today that the number of known cases was 520.

VERDICT FREEING DOCTOR IN $100,000 SUIT REVERSED

The Appellate court yesterday reversed a directed verdict by which a jury in the Superior court returned a not guilty finding in favor of Dr. Wallace P. Grosvenor, 4700 Sheridan road, who was sued for $100,000 damages by Mrs. Wendell W. Hall, wife of the stage and radio entertainer and announcer. The appellate opinion ordered the case remanded for a new trial.

Mrs. Hall charged the physician with malpractice during a Caesarian operation in the Ravenswood hospital in August, 1928. She charged that he failed to remove a 36 inch gauze sponge following the operation. Judge Harry Prentice halted the taking of evidence and ordered the not guilty verdict last Jan. 19, holding that Mrs. Hall's attorneys had failed to show the degree of negligence which must be proved.

The Appellate court opinion read in part: "It would seem to be self-evident that the failure to remove the sponge, standing alone and unexplained, is prima facie evidence of negligence. In many such cases it was held as a matter of law that when a surgeon inadvertently introduces into a wound a foreign substance, closes up the wound leaving that foreign substance in the body, there being no possibility of any good purpose resulting therefrom that act constitutes negligence.

"The fact that the sponge was left in the abdomen placed the burden of explaining upon the defendant and it was error for the court to instruct the jury against the plaintiff."

YOUTH SHOOTS SELF TO DEATH.

Peter Zerbes, 25 years old, a steamfitter, was found dead of a bullet wound in his home at 1727 Berry avenue yesterday. Police found three suicide notes.

"Make Hair Grow while the sun shines"

"It is a well known phenomenon that in the summer the growth of hair is more rapid," says Dr. Arnold Lorand, Vienna Dermatologist.

THAT Hair grows faster in the summer than at any other season is an established scientific fact. You can take advantage of this seasonal peculiarity by starting Thomas' hair and scalp treatment at once.

Your hair will respond more quickly to this famous proved method of treatment now than at any other time. Within an unusually short time your dandruff will disappear, hairfall will stop, and new hair will actually be visible on the thin and bald spots. Call at the Thomas' office and talk your problem over with the specialist in charge. He will gladly examine your scalp without charge or obligation and frankly tell you what Thomas' treatment can do for you.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

PLEDGES FOR CANDIDATES.

The practical method of obtaining relief from prohibition conditions is to move directly upon the membership of the next congress. Every candidate for election or reëlection to congress at the November election should be required to say unequivocally where he stands on this issue.

Charles Hall Davis, an able Virginia lawyer, who has given much attention to the constitutional aspects of prohibition, has proposed a practical means of fixing responsibility upon congressmen or congressional candidates for definite action upon prohibition. He proposes that each shall be asked to reply to the following questions:

First: Will you, as a member of the congress of the United States, promptly introduce (if necessary), and, in any case, actively advocate and support, a proposal by two-thirds of both houses of congress of an amendment to the constitution of the United States repealing in terms the present eighteenth (or prohibition) amendment to that instrument?

Second: Will you further actively advocate and support the submission of such proposed repealing amendment to the several states, to become valid, to all intents and purposes, as a part of the constitution, upon its ratification by conventions in three-fourths of the states—instead of by legislatures?

An affirmative response to these questions does not bind the candidate to advocate repeal, only to permit the voters of the nation to adopt or reject repeal. Mr. Davis in his form communication points out that under the constitution, unless congress submits the question of repeal, the people have no practicable means of voting upon it. The communication says:

"The constitution provides no way for the people to register their will as to amending it, except through ratification or rejection of amendments proposed by two-thirds of both houses of congress, or proposed by a convention called by congress upon the application of two-thirds of the states. Practically we are helpless to take constitutional action for repealing the eighteenth amendment, unless and until congress proposes such a repealing amendment. We, as a part of the sovereign people, desire to register our will on this question. We therefore call on you, as our representative in congress, to afford us an opportunity for so doing, by directing your efforts and energies to securing the prompt proposal by congress of a repealing amendment, so as to afford us an opportunity to express our views of the question.

"The constitution provides two methods for ratifying an amendment after it is proposed; that is, either by the vote of legislatures or of conventions in three-fourths of the states. The Supreme court has decided that congress has the power to prescribe the method of ratification to be followed; and has further held that state legislatures, when voting on a proposed amendment, can disregard the limitations imposed on them by the people of the state which created them, and can violate the expressed will of those people. This is not true of state conventions. In consequence we desire that the question of ratification of any proposed repealing amendment be referred to state conventions rather than to state legislatures."

This pledge plan would develop the strength in the next congress of the demand for outright repeal. It does not meet the preference of those who favor some sort of modification of the present amendment. It is alleged by the latter that the constitution should contain a provision which would give more permanent and stronger defense of dry states from invasion from wet states of alcoholic beverages. They are not satisfied with federal statutory protection, pointing out that the Webb-Kenyon act, even with the drastic Reed amendment, was not effectual. It was, of course, ineffectual because the dry states were not as dry as they pretended to be, and no constitutional amendment or federal statute can make them so. It is suggested also that a congress in which wet states were in a majority might refuse to pass an effective statute or repeal one that gave satisfactory protection. But that argument cannot appeal to any reasonable mind. Wet communities have no disposition to force their wishes on dry communities. It is the other way round. There can be no rational doubt that, given the right to order their own affairs, all the wet states would be glad to pass any interstate law the prohibition states asked for their protection.

There should also be a general showdown on the Volstead act. The refusal of congress at the present session to take advantage of the revenue, which modification of that law within the terms of the 18th amendment permitting the manufacture and sale of beer not intoxicating in fact would provide, was the result of organized bigotry, and at the next session congress should take action in response to the undoubted wishes of a great majority of the nation. The Volstead act prohibits beverages not in fact intoxicating and never intended to be covered by the 18th amendment. The Supreme court upheld it on the theory that it is in the discretion of congress to pass such an act in aid of enforcement, though its terms might be broader than the strict terms of the amendment. Congress therefore has the discretion to amend it, for it is obvious to most citizens that the extreme terms of the act have not assisted enforcement but brought about widespread disobedience. The discretion of congress should now be exercised in the light of the nation's experience with Volsteadism, and this product of dry bigotry should be replaced by a statute permitting the manufacture and sale of beverages nonintoxicating in any rational interpretation, as proposed by Senator Bingham. The result would be new employment and new revenue. Pledges for the enactment of an act legalizing beverages of low alcoholic content such as the beer defined by the Bingham bill should be put up to every candidate for congress.

At the same time state legislators should be put on record as to their vote in case of the submission of a prohibition amendment by congress and for the amendment or repeal of state dry laws.

A RECORD OF GOOD COUNSEL.

The Journal-Post of Kansas City, Mo., justifies its subtitle "An Independent Newspaper" when it reminds its readers of its stand on the chief issues before the country in recent years and offers its creed for 1932. It demands the repeal of the federal farm board act and recalls that it opposed its enactment in 1929, "warning that it would hurt rather than help agriculture, particularly wheat." In 1923 the Journal-Post nailed to its masthead its appeal for the abolition of useless boards, bureaus, and commissions, which were increasing costs of municipal, state, and national government, the rising cost of which is one of the greatest menaces to America. In 1930 the Journal-Post declared for repeal of the 18th amendment and for return to the states of their right to control the liquor traffic. During the last two sessions of congress the Journal-Post has opposed the cash bonus payment and especially the fiat money plan. It has protested and protests the "tendency of the government to interfere to dictate, to regulate, to investigate, and to castigate," which has injured American business at home and in the other markets of the world. On the various fallacious proposals for unemployment relief the Journal-Post remarks: "Since the depression started, it has been easy politics to urge public work as a means of relieving unemployment. But since public work means more taxes, this in turn means a tightening up on the part of business. In times like these, pyramided tax burdens force industry to restrict operation and curtail employment." And on this critical issue of taxation the Journal-Post says: "Along with wasteful bureaucratic activities, congressional investigations, and lack of efficient statesmanship goes the difficulty now being faced by congress of balancing the budget. The elimination of many of these government costs and restoration of some excise revenue from alcoholic liquors would virtually eliminate the national deficit."

It is encouraging to know that the people of the important region covered by the Journal-Post are finding such sound guidance in these days of trial when the air is full of quack doctrines and foresight is dimmed by the alarms of emergency.

THE FARMERS' TAXES.

Farmers in several states are coming together to consider their taxes and discuss what can be done about them. Very often it is the tax bill which breaks the farmer's back. It lands on his means of livelihood. The rates go on his stock, his tools, his land and his stored crops. The drain is on his cash assets, if he has any. In bad times the taxes may take virtually everything he has been able to convert into money.

The federal income tax affects the farmer indirectly by levies on his markets. His false friends have seen that a good deal of the income tax has been wasted in pretenses of doing him good, but before a farmer is required to pay an income tax himself he has made some money. Other taxes hit him whether he has made any or not.

In Illinois the state levy is not the principal item in the tax bill. There are communities in the state in which the school tax will run over $3 in the hundred and the state tax is under forty cents. The farmer has had roads given him by taxes which were preponderatingly paid elsewhere. His burden is largely one which is directly in his own political control. It is in his county, township and school district. Whatever unjust imposition the state itself puts on him is correctible through the legislature. The remainder and the larger remainder is found in the affairs of the community.

Editorial of the Day

WHAT PRICE GOVERNMENT!

[The Danville Commercial-News.]

The rise of public opinion against the growing burden of taxes, particularly those necessitated by the expenses of county, town and municipal governments, is handicapped by lack of direction. It is split by two ideas: one is that the governments are encroaching on private enterprise; the other is that governments are terribly inefficient.

Questions over the proper sphere of government cannot be settled overnight. Few will question that road building, education, charity, fire prevention, hospitalization, policing, etc., are proper functions of the community as a whole. Should the government, that is, the people as a community, control the water supply? If so, should it control the supply of gas and electricity? Whether the popular tendency to government control or operation of powerful monopolies, such as the essential public utilities, is government's job is for time to tell and thoughtful deliberation to decide. But only such enterprises as the erection of costly monuments or the building of lion cages in the public zoos in times like these can be definitely disputed.

In the inefficiencies of governments, particularly local governments, are problems sufficient unto the day. State governments with overlapping commissions; county governments without official heads; cities governments with unnecessary departments, may require radical structural reorganizations. But long before the searchlights of investigation, now spotting political graft and corruption, expose the structural faults that have grown up haphazardly in our pioneer governments they will reveal the veritable armies of political jobholders with little excuse for drawing down salaries. From those who are needed it will be necessary to separate those who are superfluous. From those who are efficiently serving it will be necessary to distinguish those who know simply how to serve drinks or fix things for the party bosses.

Let's clean house before we tear down. Then maybe we'll find that a little remodeling will do just as well.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Ed. N.

OH, HOW GLAD each and every one of us should be this morning that we have a nose! Oh, yes, and indeed! Hooray for the nose! For something came right out of the blue last night and fell on us. Maybe you noticed how thick the air was just after midnight and you thought it was fog or rain. But no! That was the new manufacturers and excise tax. Oh, how happy we all should be that we have noses. Yes, indeed, a nose is a rather nice thing to have around at any time, but especially useful right now. Yes, yes, a nose is a mighty handy thing since the new taxes went into effect. Because we've got to pay through the darned thing!

ANOTHER JUDGE, this time in Indiana, has made the great mistake of sending an editor to jail. When the only answer a judge can make to criticism is to put the critic in jail, it isn't very generally regarded as a complete and satisfactory reply. It doesn't even classify as a snappy comeback. It's just no answer at all.

EVENING MOOD.

I shall go in now;
This is the hour.
Fires are to light and sweet wines to pour,
Shutter the window.
Evening is cold.

Under the lamp in a deep rocking chair
There will be a nimbus of gold for my hair,
Beauties my hands may stitch in colored thread,
Cadences of insight, delicately said.

I should be a dark thing, bold, unafraid,
Wild as a kildeer, cold as a shade,
So let us go in now,
Draw down the blind.
Music will cover any sound of wind.

WE WAS TO THE CONVENTION—

Sir: Well, me an' Nort was to the convention an' I'm tellin' you that I ain't never seen nothin' like it an' what's more I don't want to see no more like it. We had a good chance to see everything, 'cause we set in most every seat an' was in an' out every door in the Stadium. On account of us not havin' no tickets we had to walk backwards most of the time to make 'em think we was goin' out an' just about the time we got settled in a seat a usher an' a couple of policemen would come along an' we'd get throwed out ag'in. We hadn't been inside 5 minutes, though, before we found out that while you was in Hooverland you had to do as the Hooverites was doin'. If I ever run for anything an' want to make sure nobody is goin' to keep me from gettin' nominated, I want the same guys to run my show that run Herb's. While Garfield was talkin' about likker I got excited an' hollered out "you made a mistake" an' we got throwed out ag'in an' just as we was gettin' back in they was throwin' out a fella on the speakers' platform on account of him wantin' to nominate Cal. I don't see why they had to have a convention at all unless it was to give Dolly Gann a good time, 'cause all the delegates knowed just what was goin' to happen an' what everybody was goin' to say and who to clap their hands for an' how long to clap 'em. While Senator Bingham an' Dr. Butler was talkin' a guy was holdin' the switch on the loud speakers so he could turn it off if they started to say anything that wasn't according to Hoover. There was a lot of good speakers, though, an' one of 'em was a colored man that made a wonderful speech about Lincoln freein' the slaves, but when the convention was over an' the policemen was takin' us through the crowd to the patrol wagon, most of the people was sayin' that Abe made a big mistake an' most everybody was willin' to trade places with the slaves.

THE LIGHT BEYOND.

All through the years with longing I remember:
Lights on the water from a distant shore;

O for that mood of joy and melancholy
Which those reflections roused within my breast!
Though to regain it were a wish of folly
Hope of recapture ever sped my quest.

But though I wandered all the wide world over
Seeking that glinting on those waves again,
Still only heartbreak met the weary rover—
All of my searching ever was in vain.

Now I am old and nearing life's December,
Clearer and nearer seems the gleams of yore,—
I wonder if the light that I remember
Is something seen when life shall be no more!

NEW YORK went haywire over Amelia yesterday. And quite right, quite right! And she's coming to Chicago and we'll all see her and shout ourselves hoarse. But after the wild huzzas have died down we're going to slip around to the side door and hunt up Amelia's husband and shake him by the hand and give him a cigaret. Men, we've got to stand by each other before we disappear entirely from sight.

YOUR HEALTH AUDIT.

EVERYTHING can be said in favor of the periodic health examination and nothing against it.

To look for medical help when one has an ache or a pain, swollen legs, or indigestion is all right so far as it goes. It is the natural plan, and has been since the beginning of time. When one is in trouble he calls for help. But it is primitive and we, the product of centuries of improvement, should have improved on the method. It was good enough for semi-savages and for animals a little lower than they in the social scale, which means that it is good for us up to a certain point.

The twentieth century man periodically tests his business to discover early troubles, that disaster may not come out of neglect. The farmer looks for evidence that his soil needs a rest, or a change of crops, before a failure comes. Illustrations multiply. We will become a race of centenarians, working vigorously when beyond four score, when we follow a policy of not permitting disease to go far enough to cause aches, pains, indigestion, or swelling of the legs. These are signs pointing toward well advanced disaster. The need is to learn to understand those signposts which read: Trouble will come here unless precautions are taken.

Persons consult a physician when they are uncomfortable, because of impulse and for other reasons. They have periodical physical examinations because of judgment and foresight.

As time passes and experience accumulates, physicians are learning how to make an examination that is increasingly valuable. They have learned to go about it in a somewhat different way. The routine which is most serviceable when a sick man is being examined for diagnosis is not the best for a periodic physical. May I make a few suggestions as to additional modifications?

First, the examining physician should know the family history. At about what age do the males in this family break down? At what age do they die? What diseases are fatal to them? From what diseases do they escape? What is the record of the females in the same items of information?

Second, what is the health history of the person under examination? Has he had those diseases which run in his family? Has he escaped those that his family escapes? Has he the family build or, possibly, the family personality? How well does he conform to the family type?

Third, what are the exposures of his occupation? On what organs do the subject's work, habits, and kind of life throw an especial strain? In making the examination the examiner should have the answers to these questions in the back of his head as he proceeds. To do so will increase the value to the person examined.

Fourth, that the examiner be well provided with booklets to give the patient, and with sources of further information to which he can be referred.

Fifth, the examining physician should keep his records of physicals with more than the usual care.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 21, 1916.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The call from the border has already come. Maj. Gen. Funston telegraphed the war department that troops must be furnished him as soon as possible. The first demand is for not less than 50,000 men. The indication is that before the end of the week the greater part of this force will be under way.

CHICAGO.—Singing as they tramped along in a pouring drizzle and accompanied by throngs of rain soaked men and women who cheered them every step of the way, Col. Milton J. Foreman's First cavalry marched through the loop and entrained for Springfield—the first Chicago regiment to leave for service on the Mexican border. Other organizations which have been ordered to proceed at once to Camp Lincoln and which have their equipment already loaded for an early getaway today are: Batteries B and C, First field artillery; Batteries D and E, Second field artillery; companies 1 and 2, field hospital corps.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex.—A large force of infantry began moving down the Rio Grande from Brownsville in civilian automobiles for an unknown destination. An unusual movement of Mexican troops up and down the Rio Grande was reported by border patrols in this district to Fort Brown. Military authorities attributed the movement to excitement among Mexicans who fear an attack from the American side.

EL PASO, Tex.—A United States immigration official who asked that his name be withheld, said tonight that the state department was in receipt of a report that there was fighting in progress south of Namiquipa between an American force and a large number of Mexican troops. Neither the statement nor the report could be confirmed here.

CHICAGO.—Militia recruiting dropped slightly yesterday in Chicago, but enlistment in the regular army rose even higher. Almost twice as many applicants appeared in regular army recruiting stations, and almost twice as many were accepted as on the day before. Lieut. Franklin R. Kenney, in charge, refused to divulge the exact figures.

Every Man's University

Questions and answers prepared by members of the faculty of the University of Chicago outline what they consider a well educated person ought to know. Today's instructor is A. J. Carlson, professor of physiology.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

By what means does the human body protect itself from the bacteria that cause disease?

[This question will be repeated and answered in this space tomorrow.]

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION:

What are some of the causes of heart failure?

ANSWER:

A certain rate and strength of the heartbeat is required to pump the blood through the blood vessels at a rate sufficient to supply oxygen and food to the tissues and to remove wastes. A heart that for any reason beats too slowly or too feebly or stops entirely fails to meet this necessity of life. This is heart failure.

Slow and feeble heart beat may in the normal person be brought on temporarily by excess action of the heart nerves. This will lead to weakness or actual fainting, but not to death, because the condition is usually very temporary.

More serious causes of heart failure are: Injury to the heart muscle itself; injury to the blood vessels that supply the heart muscle, or injury to the valves in the heart. In this last condition the heartbeat may be as strong or stronger than usual, but the work done is largely wasted, due to the incompetency of the valves. Valvular incompetency is usually due to bacteria growing on the valves and, by injury, causing the same kind of distortion as we see in scar tissue in other parts of the body. If this occurs in young people the heart may become enlarged and more muscular, thus compensating for the leakage of the valves. In older people such compensation does not take place to the same degree.

Another type of heart failure may be caused in the normal but physically untrained individual by extreme and prolonged physical exertion. In such cases the heart may suddenly become flabby and thus for a while be unable to meet the needs of the body, even in such moderate work as standing erect.

The blood vessels that feed the heart are subject to the same injuries and diseases as are the blood vessels of other parts of the body. Prominent among these diseases is the hardening of the arteries. When this disease is marked the heart receives insufficient nouris ment and the sensory nerves of the heart may be irritated to a degree producing the excruciating discomfort called "angina pectoris."

The normal heart, however, is a pretty tough piece of meat. A bullet may pass through the walls without stopping its activities. The injuries may be repaired by surgery and the organ function almost as well as before.

MAKE FORMAL RENEWAL.

Chicago, June 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A tenant signs a Chicago Real Estate board form B, No. 10, lease in 1931 for one year. In said lease I have a typewritten clause which reads as follows: "A sixty day notice must be given before May 1 if desirous of vacating." Does this lease automatically renew itself for another year if tenant does not sign new lease for 1932?

W. A. D.

Since the clause does not specify what is to happen if no notice is given and since the renewal might be for one year or for some other term we incline to the opinion that the wording is ineffective. If you are the landlord and wish to be in a position to count on a renewal we would advise you to arrange for a more formal renewal.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FUNDS ARE LOW.

Chicago, June 12.—[Friend of the People.]—The condition of the tennis courts at Chopin park is very poor. The tape lines are almost invisible. The netting cables are sagged down. The starter or man in charge is simply impossible.

C. B.

The nets in Chopin park in the old Portage Park district referred to have been repaired. These nets were put in new last year by the commissioners. Due to the tax situation, of which you are aware, we have received one-fourth of our tax money from the county treasurer. Probably the writer is one of those who has not paid. The board of commissioners is trying to economize, as every other municipality. At the present time we are one of the few taxing bodies which has not defaulted on our bonds or interest. I hope this explanation will give you an idea of some of the things with which we must contend.

JOHN J. BUTLER,
President Board of Commissions, Old Portage Park District.

REPLEVIN SUIT NECESSARY.

Chicago, June 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Having left my car in a private garage for a period of six months, I recently went to get it and was prepared to pay a reasonable amount for this service. Although no rate was mentioned at the time I left it, the party holding the car refuses to give it up without payment of an unreasonable amount. Will you please tell me how I can recover my property? B. F.

The legal remedy would be by a replevin suit for which you should employ an attorney.

MUST SECURE JUDGMENT.

Chicago, June 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A certain party loaned some money for which I was co-maker. This party refuses to pay. The loan company stopped my pay, which amounts to $4 for two days. 1. Can they hold my money if that is my only way to support myself? 2. If not, how can I get my money from our firm? 3. How much must I earn a week before they can stop my wages? E. K.

1. Yes, subject to exemption of $30 per week. In order to stop your wages by garnishment they should first secure a judgment against you.

2. Much depends on whether they have secured judgment, whether you are head of a family so as to be entitled to $30 a week exemption, etc.

3. See preceding answers.

FROM AN ILLINOIS CONGRESSMAN.

Washington, D. C., June 16.—A statement compiled by the treasury department shows total appropriations for 1932 of 4,333 million, total ordinary receipts of 1,880 million, and total expenditures chargeable against ordinary receipts of 4,573 million. These few figures contain volumes of information. The following questions are pertinent when applied to these statistics:

1. Do you know that every congress has reduced appropriations under the recommendations of the budget bureau since 1924?

2. Do you know that the bureau of the budget was set up for the purpose of enabling the executive to economize in his recommendations for appropriations?

3. Do you know that President Hoover and his budget only reduced the estimate of appropriations for 1933 under those of 1932 $365,000,000, and this reduction largely involved the postponement of authorized construction, and was really not a saving in the ordinary expenses of government?

4. Do you know that all of the real genuine economy has been made by congress and the total reductions will probably exceed $775,000,000, including, of course, reductions recommended by the president?

5. Do you know that the cabinet heads and bureau chiefs offered stern opposition to all reductions, failed to coöperate with the committees appointed by the house and really thwarted the efforts of congress to effect economy?

6. Do you know that the President and his advisers are largely responsible for tearing to pieces the economy bill in both the house and senate by insisting on his furlough plan, which if adopted will cost the government at least $50,000,000 more than the senate plan?

7. Do you know that President Hoover never advocated any appreciable reduction in government expenditures until the United States chamber of commerce made a concerted demand through their local organizations upon congress for economy?

8. Do you know that the President then directed the shaft of criticism and abuse at congress in an effort to cover up his own failure to economize?

9. Do you know that the sales tax was proposed by those who desired to avoid high income taxes?

10. Do you know that congress has not appropriated one dollar except what has been recommended by the President and his budget, the 50 per cent loan on veterans' adjusted service certificates excepted?

11. Do you know that Republican and Democratic leaders have both been playing politics with the President, perhaps, playing the biggest rôle of all?

12. Last but not least: Do you believe the American people should know these facts?

I know I am not telling you any news. We are in a crisis. This is no time to play politics. The country demands action. The safety of American ideals and institutions is at stake. No individual member of congress seeks to avoid responsibility. The large majority of members of congress in both houses could and would have worked out important measures of legislation if they were not tossed around by their leaders and the President in a sea of politics. Congress will succeed, before this session closes, in giving the country at least many of the measures demanded, but it has been difficult of accomplishment. The membership in congress represents a cross section of every state. A congressman is what his people make him. I think you will agree that the metropolitan newspapers have not been fair in their criticisms of congress. The public has a right to read both sides of the story.

CANARY BARRACKS.

Chicago, June 6.—1. B.'s letter shows that somebody has a heart. Never do we hear a word on behalf of the canary. One would think that God made cages as well as canaries, the way people talk. A cage is man's property, but a canary is God's property. Are we a Christian nation, dedicated to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, that we permit a slave traffic in one of God's most exquisite and wonderful creatures, which we doom to life long captivity? The canary loves liberty and beauty and is fashioned for flight. Why rob him of his birthright? Go visit the bird stores, with the crowded rows of canary barracks, dark, filthy, smelly, hot, noisy, some of the wretched victims staying months, or years, or dying. Look into the cages you pass and think of the golden rule.

IOWA'S NOMINEE.

Waterloo, Ia., June 9.—The cartoon and editorial comments about the Republican primary results in Iowa do not reflect the cause for Brookhart's defeat.

The nomination of Henry Field was a keen disappointment to the interests that organized the campaign to defeat Senator Brookhart. For radicalism Henry Field is out in front of Senator Brookhart and he's indorsed even more of the radical legislation proposed or pending in congress than Senator Brookhart did.

The plan was to throw the nomination into the party convention. The Field ballyhoo upset these plans and the eleventh hour withdrawal of William Galloway left his farm vote high and dry, so they flopped to Henry Field as a protest vote of present conditions. The so-called standpat conservative candidate received only small support at the primary and the vote that went to Henry Field included the extreme radical farm vote, who are made desperate by low prices and high taxes. Thirty per cent of Iowa farmers and workers have lost the savings of a lifetime during the last few years.

The very crowd that put Henry Field into the campaign cannot consistently support him next November, and it's an even bet that Murphy, the Democratic candidate, will show up the winner at the November election.

Murphy has the ability and if there is any doubt about his election you can gamble that Senator Brookhart will be in there pitching as an independent candidate and stop the election of Henry Field.

OBSERVER.

THE UNEMPLOYED STENOGRAPHER.

Chicago, June 9.—Please let us hear a little less about the unpaid school teacher and a little more about the unemployed stenographer.

The school teachers have money coming, which they will get, and even though they do not get paid very often, still they receive enough in proportion to what the office worker is earning [when they can find a job to work at] to make up for a couple of pay days which they may miss.

I am a stenographer who up to two years ago earned $42.50 a week and after being out of work for a year had to take a position for $20 a week, and every day of my life the fact is thrown up to me of how lucky I am to have found work at all. Mine is not an exceptional case, either.

On top of that I will have to pay income tax at the end of the year on the large salary which I am earning, as it totals over $1,000 a year. This is something that the teachers are exempt from.

ALL SETTLED.

Chicago, Ill., June 12.—I can't for the life of me understand why the newspapers and the people generally appear to be so steamed up about the prohibition issue or any other matter. There is not a chance in the world for any Republican to be elected in November anyway.

WABASH DIVIDED BY PUBLISHER'S ROW WITH JUDGE

Verbal War Splits Town Into Factions.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Wabash, Ind., June 20.—[Special.]—Here in the heart of Hoosierland wages a feud of politics and personalities which has divided the city of Wabash into two hostile camps.

It is a Main street war of the first magnitude and so vigorous goes the struggles, fought almost entirely with tongues and printers' ink, that the natives find it absorbing even to the exclusion of the depression.

At the forefront of the battle is Don M. Nixon, publisher of the Wabash Plain Dealer, a fighting, fearless editor, whose bitterest enemies even concede his honesty.

Sentenced for Contempt.

For some ten years Mr. Nixon has campaigned with great vigor, on many highly controversial issues, and at this stage the battle has attracted the world outside, because the editor has been sentenced to serve 10 days in jail for contempt of court for publishing criticism against the judicial acts of Judge Frank O. Switzer of the Circuit court in connection with a receivership.

Mr. Nixon has raised the issue of free speech and free press and has announced his purpose to battle the contempt sentence so that he and other Hoosier editors may remain free to criticize the judiciary and other public officials.

It is more than difficult for an outsider to get an impartial picture of the controversy.

It seems that most of the farmers of Wabash county are devout Nixonites. Citizens of the city of Wabash are divided. One native gives Nixon 75 per cent of the urbanites, another gives him 33 per cent. A referendum of the citizenry on "Are you for Mr. Nixon or 'again' him?" would be useful and might be a means of awarding medals for victory.

Hundreds Show Loyalty.

A demonstration such as Wabash has seldom seen occurred on the day sentence was imposed on the editor. Through his paper he had invited those citizens who supported his efforts to come to court to hear the judge's decision. Nine hundred men, women, and children came from all over the county, jamming the courtroom and running over the stairways and they cheered Nixon lustily.

Merchants have been placed in the middle. A movement was begun by some business interests to boycott the Plain Dealer and to withhold advertising. Some of them tried it, but the farmers came in belligerently, threatening to take their trade to other towns if the boycott continued. The boycott failed.

The housewives of Wabash have been drawn into the strife, and before accepting a social engagement, Mrs. Babbitt must satisfy herself whether her hostess is to be pro-Nixon or anti-Nixon.

Civic Bodies Anti-Nixon.

The civic organizations of Wabash, the chamber of commerce, and the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, have lined up against Editor Nixon, and recently they all passed resolutions calling upon him to cease his editorial onslaughts. Bruce Merritt, young president of the chamber of commerce, declared in an interview today that the Nixon newspaper policy has injured the town.

On the other hand are found men high in business leadership who are Mr. Nixon's staunchest friends. Among these are many, however, who express the belief that he could gain the same desirable ends by less vehement attacks and less personal assaults. Mr. Nixon has published some charges against Judge Switzer which he later was forced to admit, and did admit in his newspaper, were erroneous.

Mr. Nixon does not smite with the gloved hand. He says Wabash has failed to grow as other Indiana towns have because its government and its business associations have been in the hands of incompetent leaders; that the politicians who have been in control were "gangsters" and that the civic associations are dominated by small cliques in which the real business leaders do not participate.

The publisher has displayed a liberal mindedness which, when he first came to Wabash, ten years ago, plunged him at once into a bitter scrap. A campaign for Sunday movies was in sway and was strongly opposed by the churchmen. Mr. Nixon came out boldly for Sunday movies and now Wabash goes to the cinema on Sunday night.

Assaults Ku Klux Klan.

His next assault was upon the Ku Klux Klan, which held firm grip on Hoosier politics for a time and which was strongly organized in this part of the state. Mr. Nixon got out his big stick and lambasted the klan and in this a religious issue was raised and earned the editor more enemies.

When the klan died he set after the politicians. He has always been known as a Republican and is friendly with Senator Jim Watson and many of the state Republican leaders. But he declared against the Republicans in power in Wabash. The specific charges he made are mostly ancient history today, but Nixon has never relented in his battle to remove these leaders.

LIEUT. SULLIVAN RENAMED HEAD OF CICERO FORCE

Lieut. John L. Sullivan of the Chicago police department was reappointed superintendent of the Cicero department for an indefinite term last night. He was borrowed by Cicero two months ago for a departmental cleanup with the election of a Democratic administration in the suburb. His original appointment was for 60 days.

In renaming Chief Sullivan, the Cicero board lauded his work and stated that the department has accomplished five times as much work as in previous times and has become entirely harmonized. Sergt. Arthur Wentzel, also of the Chicago force, who went with Sullivan as captain, will retain his position also for an indefinite period.

Coincident with Sullivan's reappointment, it became known last night that Martin Wojciechowski, police chief of Cicero for years until his ouster two months ago, is seeking reinstatement with the rank of captain. Although he reports for duty daily on the ground he is still a member of the department, he has received no assignments. The Cicero board will consider his appeal this week.

22D WARD WILL NAME ALDERMAN AT POLLS TODAY

Sonnenschein Is Indorsed by Voters' League.

The board of election commissioners yesterday completed preparations for the special aldermanic election to be held today in the 22d ward to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Ald. Joseph Cepak. The polls will be open from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m.

HENRY SONNENSCHEIN.

Six candidates are in the running, including Henry Sonnenschein, Mayor Cermak's secretary, who has the endorsement of the Municipal Voters' league. The other five are John F. Picek, Anton J. Hladik, Anthony F. Benkowski, Andrew Krellinger, and James Kuta. The successful candidate will serve until next February, the remainder of the Cepak unexpired term.

The Municipal Voters' league report says Sonnenschein "possesses decided legislative ability," and points out that he has resigned his nomination for state representative to become a candidate for alderman. His five opponents are grouped by the league report under the classification "lacking in qualifications."

The contest would be tame, according to reports emanating from the ward, were it not that support has been given to Candidate Benkowski by Len Small, Republican nominee for governor, and his political ally, a former mayor.

Their support has taken the form, the reports state, of a $500 campaign donation and letters to eight Republican ward committeemen requesting that they furnish men to watch the polls for Benkowski. Both Small and the former mayor are said to have made radio speeches for their candidate.

Mayor Casts Absentee Ballot.

Before leaving for New York on Sunday Mayor Cermak cast an absentee ballot for Sonnenschein and urged his election in the interest of furthering the present administration's economy program. Three other Sonnenschein supporters, whose business has taken them out of the city, have left their absentee ballots.

Besides the registered voters of the ward those registered voters who have moved into the ward since the last election and persons who have become of age can vote by affidavit. As the ward has only 42 precincts the entire vote is expected to be tabulated soon after the polls close.

TELLS OF WOOING BY MAN WHO WED MRS. M'PHERSON

Nurse Suing for $200,000 Takes Witness Stand.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 20.—(AP)—On the witness stand, under the gaze of the man from whom she demands $200,000 in a breach of promise action, Myrtle St. Pierre today described her introduction to David Hutton before he became the husband of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist.

Miles away, at Palms, Mrs. Hutton lay in seclusion, so ill from neurasthenia and a lingering tropical ailment that she was told the trial had been postponed.

Judge Lester W. Roth adjourned court just as Miss St. Pierre, pretty 30 year old nurse, had completed the account of her meeting with the broad shouldered baritone and was about to detail the development of their friendship.

Hutton in Court.

Hutton entered the courtroom for the first time soon after the jury of seven men and five women had been selected and as Miss St. Pierre was taking the stand.

She testified she met Hutton, then an unmarried singing teacher, at a Pasadena dinner party in January, 1931. His advances, she went on, began at once.

"Where have you kept this gorgeous creature all my life," she quoted him as asking the hostess, and declared he told her a few minutes later, "I'm not going to get very far from you. I'll be the head of your house any time you say."

Asked Her to Drink.

From the dinner party, she proceeded, they went with several others to her home in Hollywood, where one of the men said he had "two bottles of liquor if any one wished a drink."

She testified Hutton said, "I do," and that, at his persuasion, she drank with him, although she seldom took intoxicants.

Miss St. Pierre filed her suit several days after Hutton and Mrs. McPherson flew to Yuma, Ariz., and were married last September.

$5,910,000 ERROR TO BE CORRECTED BY DR. STRAYER

Dr. George D. Strayer of Columbia university, who directed the recent $100,000 survey of the Chicago schools for the board of education, conferred yesterday with school officials on errors that were found in his report. "Changes will be made before all the 10,000 copies of the report are printed," he said.

The survey group recommended a saving of $15,605,505 in the 1932 budget of $90,130,263. Of this, $5,910,000 was on building contracts that had not been let.

After the report was made, John Christensen, architect for the school board, pointed out that the $5,910,000 items were not in the appropriation list. The total amount to be expended on new buildings was $959,670. Dr. Strayer said the $5,910,000 items had been sent to him by board officials apparently before the budget was completed.

BOILER BLAST ON CHICAGO BOUND TRAIN; 2 KILLED

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 20.—(AP)—The fireman and engineer of the Capitol Limited, Baltimore and Ohio fast passenger train, were killed tonight in an explosion on the locomotive at Allison Park, near here. They are O. B. Smith, engineer, and C. G. Scott, fireman, both of Willard, O.

The train, en route from New York to Chicago by way of Washington, remained on the tracks, although the engine was thrown to the side. No one was injured.

The train, traveling at high speed, continued for 500 or 600 yards before it came to a stop. The bodies of Smith and Scott were found mangled more than 50 feet away.

Do you inhale?

The tobacco trade is at "sixes and sevens" on this embarrassing question

DO you inhale? This simple question caught the cigarette trade by surprise! "Why bring that up?" they asked. "Why don't you let well-enough alone?"

But "well-enough" is not enough for Lucky Strike! The subject of inhaling is vitally important . . . for every smoker inhales knowingly or unknowingly. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette!

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike dares to raise this vital question . . . because Luckies' famous purifying process removes certain impurities concealed in every tobacco leaf! Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Remember—more than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes!

TAP ROOM TALES OF CAP MORRISON RETOLD IN COURT

Episodes in the life of the late Edward W. Morrison, Chicago's "millionless millionaire," were recounted before Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor Jr. yesterday by witnesses when 16 lawyers, backed by a score of relatives and claimants of Morrison's $3,500,000 estate, began the hearing of an appeal from the Probate court.

The appeal was taken by William E. Foulkes, 74 years old, 4216 Langley avenue, whose claim as Morrison's son was ruled out by Probate Judge Horner last year, and by Mrs. Alice Schenker and Mrs. Margaret Brown, sisters, of Dearborn, Mich., who say they are adopted daughters of Morrison. Judge Horner had ruled that the sisters' claims as adopted daughters were void since the adoption proceedings brought in 1916 were defective.

Trustee Opposes Appeal.

Opposing the appeal is the Chicago Title and Trust company, which was made trustee of the estate and directed in Capt. Morrison's will to found a corporation and use the bulk of his wealth in the establishment of a home for aged men and women. Associated with the company are 14 heirs of the captain who were given $100,000 to divide under the will.

These same heirs filed a bill in the Circuit court last week to set aside the will, to distribute the estate among them in equal divisions and to enjoin the title and trust company from forming the corporation.

The attorneys for Foulkes, Robert D. Melick and Frank H. Repetto, asked for a separate hearing of his appeal but Judge Taylor ordered that all three appeals be heard simultaneously.

Ex-Saloonkeeper Testifies.

George Kramer, who opened a saloon at 35th street and Cottage Grove avenue in 1895 and maintained it until prohibition began, was called to the witness stand for Foulkes. Kramer said his "place" was a favorite with Capt. Morrison.

"One day over a glass of beer," he testified, "the captain told me that his wife was dead and that he was lonesome for his son. He said his son was 11 years older than I was. That was in 1896 when I was a boy of 22. He never told me anything about his family.

"After prohibition arrived I started a gasoline station just across the street from the saloon. In 1928 Mrs. Valla Cook and Miss Itha Foulkes, daughters of Mr. Foulkes, came by one day and showed me a picture. I recognized it as that of Capt. Morrison but they told me it was their father."

Witness Points Out Foulkes.

Lawrence A. Jacobson, attorney for the Title and Trust company, asked Kramer to point out Foulkes in the courtroom. Foulkes, conspicuous with his full white beard and mustache, was sleeping quietly, his chin upon his chest as he sat on a front bench. One of his daughters roused him, shaking his shoulder as Kramer extended an arm in his direction.

"Did you ever see Capt. Morrison drunk?" asked Attorney Jacobson.

"No, never," the witness replied.

"What is your definition of drunk?" asked the lawyer.

"Well," said Kramer, "I once heard a policeman tell a judge that a prisoner was drunk. The judge asked if the man could move his hands. When the policeman said 'Yes,' the judge replied, 'That man's not drunk.' I thought that was a proper conception."

Policeman on the Stand.

Policeman David Haynes, 8344 Luella avenue, another witness for Foulkes, testified that he had known Capt. Morrison in 1907 and 1908. The captain, he said, had once told him that his wife, Mary, and his son, Willie, were dead. Upon cross-examination Attorney Jacobson brought out that during the probate hearing the witness had not known the first name of Morrison's wife.

Haynes, who said he had been a member of the police department for thirty years, was asked how Morrison happened to confide in him. He said:

"I walked into Kramer's saloon one day humming the words of a song. Capt. Morrison asked me to stop, saying that the noise I was making reminded him of his wife. Then he took me out to lunch and told me about his wife. We talked about the same thing later in a park."

Frank D. Spaulding, 80 years old, 260 East Garfield boulevard, a third witness, told of a similar conversation with Capt. Morrison "over a glass of beer." After his testimony Judge Taylor adjourned court until today.

LEE M'DONOUGH, EX-LEGISLATOR, DIES SUDDENLY

Former State Representative Lee McDonough, prominent Lake county Republican, died yesterday of heart disease outside the garage at the rear of his home at 118 Grand avenue, Waukegan. The heart attack apparently had been induced by the exertion of cranking an automobile.

His body was found by his son, Robert, who told police that his father had arisen to aid Mrs. McDonough and a second son, Marshall, in getting started on an automobile trip to Birchwood, Wis. They had trouble in getting the car started and were aided by McDonough.

McDonough, who was 64 years old, had served as county treasurer from 1914 to 1918. He was elected to the state legislature in 1928. He was a former member of the library board of Waukegan and former collector of customs for the harbor of Waukegan.

RAID LEGION POST, SEIZE MACHINES; CALLED "SPITE"

Police interrupted the monthly meeting of Woodlawn post, American Legion, in its third floor quarters at 1208 East 63d street, last night, seized three slot machines and arrested one man. Officers of the post protested the raid, said it was inspired by spite and declared they would fight the case.

The raid was made by Lieut. Charles Grattan, Sergt. John Rourke, and a squad from the Woodlawn station after a complaint had been received of alleged gambling. They found 150 legionnaires there and two quarter machines and one nickel machine. No keeper could be found, but Hugh Scottis, 38 years old, of 6040 Blackstone avenue volunteered to accept arrest as keeper if the post officers would bail him out. This was agreed to and Scottis was released on bond signed by Judge Francis Borrelli.

J. T. Carney of 1752 East 71st place, a director of the post, protested the raid. He said the meeting was a regular one of the organization and private. The slot machines, he said, were limited only to members and the profits realized were devoted to charity work. Once before—two weeks ago—police raided their quarters, he added, and confiscated five new machines. The raids, he declared, were spite work. The case comes up today before Judge Edgar A. Jonas in Wabash avenue court.

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday at the inquest into the death of Robert E. Spoor, 52 years old, superintendent of the Spoor & Ahbe Film Manufacturing company, who fell Saturday night from a balcony at the plant, 1345 Argyle street. A second coroner's jury decided that the 15 story fall of Albert M. Forbes, 35 years old, 336 Abbotsford road, Kenilworth, was "accidental or otherwise." Forbes was killed Saturday when he fell from a washroom window in the Blum building, 624 South Michigan avenue.

ROYAL C. VILAS WILLS $340,000 TO HIS FAMILY

The will of Royal C. Vilas, former president of a railway supply company, who shot himself June 9 in his country home at Golf, Ill., was admitted to probate yesterday by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Horner.

The estate consists of $325,000 in personal property and real estate worth $15,000, it was stated by Royal C. Vilas Jr., who testified to the heirship of the legatees. The will, drawn on June 8, the day before Mr. Vilas' death, directs that the widow, Mrs. Myrtle Hogan Vilas, whom he married shortly before his death, shall receive that portion of the estate which she would get had he died intestate.

The remaining property is placed in trust for ten years with the Northern Trust company, the interest to be divided equally between the two children by a former marriage, Royal Jr. and Virginia Vilas. At the end of the ten year period they will receive the principal.

A codicil executed a few hours before Mr. Vilas' death directed that Robert B. Lassing, a friend living in St. Petersburg, Fla., be relieved of an indebtedness of $40,000 contracted on collateral notes.

Miss Earhart Pens Charming Story of Air

Real Modesty Marks Book for Women.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Fun of It," by Amelia Earhart. [Brewer, Warren & Putnam.] Published yesterday.

BEFORE Amelia Earhart took off for her trans-Atlantic flight she had finished a book about aviation intended for girls and women which bore as title the sentiment which was made famous by her "I Did It for Fun." Its publication awaited the story of that flight when it should have been completed, and she sent that story back by telephone and cable. "The Fun of It" contains as a final thrilling chapter her simple account of the solo flight which will mark May 20, 1932, as one of the great dates in the history of aviation.

As an intimate contact with the author the reader finds in an envelope in the back of the book a tiny phonograph record of part of the international broadcast which Amelia Earhart made in London on May 22. It sounds very hazy and far away when it issues from the sound box, but after the second or third hearing it becomes plain to the listener and the very idea of it gives him a thrill even if the words aren't pellucid—that is, if he is capable of thrills any more!

Call me a silly goop and wonder how it is possible after almost a lifetime on a newspaper for anybody to get excited about anything — but I never hear an international broadcast (nor, so far as that is concerned, a national one) without feeling just a little like Alice in Wonderland.

And it is something of the same feeling that the reader has in going through the pages of "The Fun of It." So much about aviation is like Alice's adventures—curiouser and curiouser. And Miss Earhart's part in it sounds especially curious. "The Fun of It" is no tale of dogged perseverance in the pursuit of an ideal of babyhood. Oddly enough, she never was sure herself that she was going into aviation as a profession until after the Friendship flight.

And then her presence on the Friendship—the first woman to fly the Atlantic as a passenger—was nothing passionately planned for or the reward of votive devotion to the cause of aviation. She was as surprised as anybody when she was invited to take the place of the woman who had intended to make the flight. And she was immeasurably surprised to find herself, just because she was a woman, the spotlighted heroine of a flight in which two men were, according to her, much more entitled to the glory.

The nicest quality of "The Fun of It" is the modesty of the author. There is nothing sham about that modesty. You can tell, as the pages flow past your eyes, that Amelia Earhart is a grand person who happens to have achieved an international place never held before by a woman but who is the same human being that went, for instance, when she was a girl in school, to nurse invalided soldiers in Toronto just because something inside her made her do it. Something inside her made her love flying, and it is plain from this book that she actually COULD fly the Atlantic for fun. She is that sort of person.

There is every conceivable kind of fact about aviation in "The Fun of It" for the timid woman who wonders what flying (passenger flying, not even solo flying) is like as well as for the woman who has an unconquerable desire to handle the stick or the wheel (Miss Earhart says many modern planes have wheels like automobiles instead of the older stick steering control).

There is the extremely modest story of the part the author has taken in international aviation and the story of her own pleasure in it. And there is an honest, rich human being smiling out of every page. "The Fun of It" is not a masterpiece of literature, but it is the record of the art of finding happiness.

Chicago Offers Hats Fashioned for Individual

Modeled Just Right for Your Features.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

IF you have spent envious hours listening to luxurious tales told by returning clothes shoppers from Paris . . . if you have gnashed your teeth at the sight of fetching new hats that fairly shrieked with chic and then listened to another hour or so about the clever French fingers that fashion these same hats right on the skull of the lucky buyer, you have the same thrill ahead of you, if you only knew it, right here in Chicago. Quite a few feminine Christopher Columbuses have discovered it already and are bursting forth in lavish praise of the individual things you can have made for your own particular personality.

There are shops in Chicago which do the job just as well. When you arrive at such a Chicago shop you sink into harbor directly in front of a well lighted mirror that uncompromisingly reflects your best angles as well as bad chin curve and then the magic begins.

If your face is being carefully and critically studied, you are not absolutely positive of the fact, so deftly and unostentatiously does the presiding genius measures and looks with half closed eyes.

First, a crown is slipped over your curls, it is pushed high, then snugly low and then dipped here, then turned about until the most becoming angle is found and then the real fun starts. A wide and rather uncertain width brim is pulled smoothly over the fitted crown. This is coaxed down and down until the most perfect depth of crown that best flatters your headline is reached. It is pinned securely onto the crown, and the owner of the ten digits that guide this promising foundation gets into action with a pair of the sharpest and most knowing sheers imaginable.

You are viewed from the right side, from the front, from the east, the west, the south, and north, and at intermediate points . . . snip, snip, go the scissors, inches of fabric fall, one eye sees more light than the other, a wide swirl is whirled high over the camera side of your coiffure and at last the concoction is complete . . . and you look into the mirror with two incredulous eyes . . . you simply can't believe it's you . . . you haven't looked so gay and young in years!

All this is created in an atmosphere of utter silence . . . a delicious mysterious silence which seems to preclude any idea of experimenting . . . it's the calm, unruffled silence that encloses of the genius.

All this is accomplished without any Parisian fuss and fuming and the temperamental decree of days before you can call for the finished hat.

Modest prices will also surprise you and nothing in the way of fabric or straw is disdained . . . you can bring a small piece of your favorite costume, or a length of some particularly difficult color, or unusual designed silk, or enter with your hands empty and an open mind as to size, shape, color, or style, and while you linger under the persuasive influence of a master hat maker, return later to pick up, maybe a half a dozen models that were simply too good looking to resist.

Aurora to Have Canvass on Adopting Daylight Time

The Aurora city council yesterday accepted the proposal of the chamber of commerce of the city for an informal referendum of citizens on the question of daylight savings. The chamber of commerce had first proposed to pay the costs of a special election on the question. Instead, it was agreed that boy scouts will circulate petitions throughout the city both for and against setting the clocks ahead. If the daylight savings proponents get the most signatures, the council will establish the new time by ordinance.

Mail to Sally Proves Parties Are Popular

Thrilling Rides Await Her Guests.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

It's very evident from the letters I received yesterday that the majority of the boys and girls in and around Chicago have been eagerly awaiting the summer parties. And how enthusiastic they are about the first party! It will be a thrilling one, too, and the more I hear about it the more anxious I am to have Thursday, June 30, arrive.

Just imagine what fun it will be to whiz over the steep hills and valleys of the Flash or the Giant Coaster. These are really breath-taking rides and you'll find them as exciting as anything can possibly be. In pleasant contrast to these will be Venice, that delightful trip in gondolas through winding canals flanked on either side by miniature villages and parks. The Ferris wheel will take us high into the air where we can get a birdseye view of Chicago's south side.

In addition to these the Dodgem, the Hey Dey, Lindy Loop and a myriad of other attractions will be waiting to entertain us. In fact, there are so many things to be done and so many sights to be seen, we'll have to rush from ride to ride to get them all in in a single afternoon.

Lots of boys and girls have already written for invitations to this grand party and there's still time for those of you who haven't. You must have your letter in by this coming Thursday, however, for that's the day I'm going to read them and select my hundred guests. With such a marvelous time in view you should have no difficulty composing a winning letter. You know I shall send invitations to the young people who sound most enthusiastic in their letters, those who appear to be the most eager to attend.

In writing your letter it's very important to have your name and address clearly written, and do not forget to tell me your age. Just address it to Sally Joy Brown, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Good morning!

How doth the little columnist
Improve each shining hour,
And gather gossip all the day
From every reservoir.
(Apologies to Watts.)

Ah, look! A new eye at the keyhole!

This time Ricardo Cortez impersonates the indefatigable and apparently conscienceless paragrapher whose business and pleasure it is to discover what folks don't want him to, and put it where they'd rather die than see it—namely, in the newspaper column he edits.

Such an enthusiastic washerman—William Foster! The dirtier the linen the better. From speakeasy murder to orgy aboard a yacht owned by a daughter of the rich whose hospitality and kisses he has accepted; hither, thither and yon he nits, collecting soiled bits to hang out on his line. He is feared by the masses, cursed by his brother reporters, talked back to by his keen girl secretary who slaves while she despises, and loved by one woman—Peggy Bannon of the—Follies, I believe—who lugs laundry for him, the while pleading with the daring gentleman to be a good boy and not take so many chances of getting put out like a light.

There's nothing especially new about this piece which paints the columnist in a horrible shade of cerise and shows, in pleasing contrast, an entirely different sort of reporter, done intelligently by Robert Armstrong, who, with commendable restraint, refrained from making the character Elsie Dinsmoreish.

Mr. Cortez, who is proving to have quite remarkable versatility in the way of character drawing, depicts William Foster with humor and a nice feel for effect. You hate the methods but entertain a sneaking liking for the man.

Helen Twelvetrees as Peggy is much less limp than usual. Jill Esmond does the spoiled darling of millions in offhand, rather engaging fashion. As line Judge is a wow as the secretary, and Zasu Pitts as the newspaper telephone operator brings down the galleries.

The piece is really unusually well cast.

Direction was so adept as to make the story seem really plausible, and the dialogue is quite tricky in spots. Breezy title, too—yes?

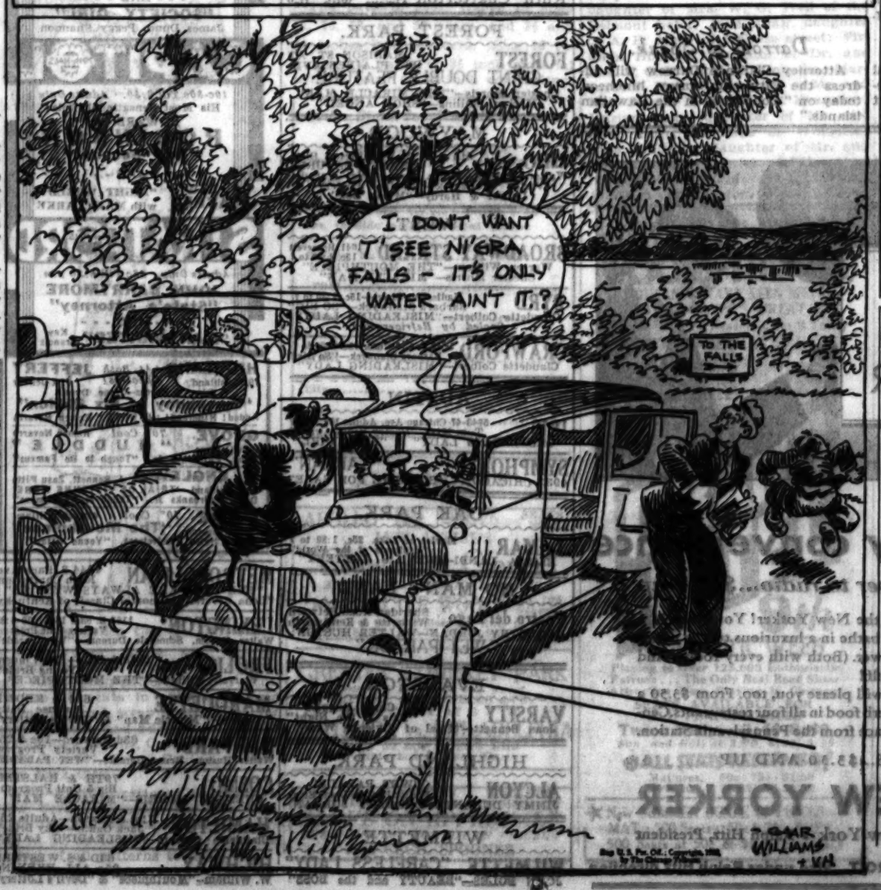
A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE



Tribune Readers Give Million Warm Meals to Hungry Pupils

LAST Oct. 15 THE TRIBUNE appealed to its readers to contribute to the Hungry School Children's fund to buy at least one hot meal every school day for poor children. An investigation had revealed that pupils were fainting in their classrooms from hunger.

Readers were shocked by the revelations and contributions flowed in. As a result hot, nourishing meals were soon being served to hundreds of children. The hundreds grew nearly to thousands as the fund grew, and by January nearly 10,000 pupils in 339 schools were receiving a good meal each day.

Yesterday the total of the Hungry School Children's fund received since last October was $48,379.51. At an average cost of 5 cents each, this means that nearly 1,000,000 meals were supplied to the children during the life of the fund.

All of this $48,379 was contributed through TRIBUNE readers. In many cases the givers made contributions despite their own acute needs. There were countless benefits by clubs and parent-teacher groups. There were gifts by Sunday school children and by women's civic organizations. Among the larger ones was the presentation of "East Lynne" by Billy Bryant's Showboat company, the Golden Gods tournament, and the Washington bicentennial balls at the Aragon and Trianon ballrooms.

The fund was administered through the office of Miss Frances L. Swain, head of household arts, board of education, and was governed by a citizens' advisory committee including Mrs. Thomas B. Stephenson and Mrs. James Graham of the Illinois Congress of Parent and Teachers and Mrs. Samuel T. Lawton and Mrs. Charles P. Swartz of the Chicago Association for Child Study.

The last of the fund was transferred last week to be distributed by Miss Swain to two schools remaining open this summer in the neediest neighborhoods.

The latest gifts received are acknowledged from Mrs. O. L. Schmidt, $10; Mrs. Julia Steif, $5; Mrs. Flora Hanson, $3; courts gifts, $1.10, and ten cents from "Anonymous." Such additional gifts as may arrive will be placed in the fund to await the great demand this fall.

The work of the Hungry School Children's fund was supplemented by other groups who privately contributed free school lunches. Among these were the American Legion and auxiliary, Parent-Teacher associations, various merchants, associations, the Joint Emergency Relief fund and the unpaid teachers in the schools.

Boating Affairs at Lake Geneva Are Curtailed

But Sailing Craft Are Out in Usual Number.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WE hear from Lake Geneva that only two of the several private old fashioned steamboats usually in commission on the lake are to be taken out of winter quarters this season, the Martin A. Ryersons' Hathor and the boat belonging to the Garrett McKees of Rockford.

Quite a few of the speedboats which formerly dashed about the lake are to remain out of the water, too, but the picturesque sailboats with their snowy sails will continue to dot the blue waters. "Bud" Gartz won the class A race at the lake last Saturday afternoon with the Commodore of the Lake Geneva Yacht club; Ernest Schmidt was second, and "Bob" Ferris, skipping H. N. Gifford's Little Smoke II., was third.

A house party of 10 young people will be entertained at Lake Geneva the coming week-end by Miss Jeanette Peterkin, daughter of the Daniel Peterkins, who had as their guest last week-end Ambrose Clayton of Salt Lake City. The junior Peterkins and their little daughter, Joan, also have been visiting there.

Mrs. William N. Pelouze will be hostess to the first meeting of the Lake Geneva Garden club at her residence, Alta Vista, on Wednesday, June 29.

The Carroll E. Grays of 329 Lake Shore drive have taken the house at the lake formerly occupied by E. Lee Jones and his sisters before they moved to Washington. The Grays will move out about July 1.

The Tracy Drakes are at Aloha Lodge for the season and on Thursday of this week Mr. Drake, president of the D. K. E. fraternity, will be host to the Chicago members of the fraternity as he has been for the last twenty years at a field day to be held at the Lake Geneva Country club.

Mrs. Herbert F. Perkins and Miss Durkee were guests of Mrs. Edward E. Ayer last week-end at Lake Geneva and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore A. Shaw Jr. were with Mrs. Charles Reed for the week-end.

Visitors for Convention.

Two of the most attractive of the many out of town visitors who will be here for the Democratic convention are Gen. and Mrs. William Mitchell of Middleburg, Va. They were to have been the house guests of the Henry Hoopers of Astor street, but now that the Hoopers have moved to Wheaton for the summer the Mitchells are to be at the Stevens hotel.

I'm told that both of the Mitchells are unusually fascinating people, so no doubt all the time they can spare from political affairs will be filled with partying during their stay here. Mrs. Hooper tells me that she is planning a dinner for them at the Saddle and Cycle, but the date will not be set until they arrive the end of this week.

Two other attractive out of towners who will be here for the Democratic fireworks (if there are any) are ex-Gov. and Mrs. Harry Flood Byrd of Winchester, Va. Mr. Byrd, who is listed in "Who's Who" as "one of the largest individual orchardists east of the Mississippi river," is a brother of Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd and has been mentioned as a vice presidential nominee, I'm told.

The Byrds' apple orchards are near the Ralph R. Richardsons' Virginia estate and if the Virginians have time while they're here Mrs. Richardson, who is spending the summer with Mr. Richardson at 1235 Astor street, will entertain in a small, informal way for them.

Mrs. Richardson also is planning to entertain informally for her cousin, ex-Gov. Nellie Tayloe Ross of Wyoming, who is at the Congress hotel, but no dates can be set until Mrs. Ross is not as busy as she is now.

Mrs. Richardson says she has seen her cousin only on short shopping expeditions which proves that feminine politicians are concerned with other things than politics, doesn't it? Mrs. Ross probably will visit the Richardsons for a time after the convention is over.

MacVeaghs to Have Guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Eames MacVeagh expect his cousin, the former Margaretta MacVeagh, now Mrs. Stuart Farrar-Smith of Washington, and her husband, an ex-naval officer, to arrive on the 27th for the convention. The Farrar-Smiths will be with the MacVeaghs in their lovely apartment at 900 North Michigan avenue and as soon as the guests have come the MacVeaghs will plan to entertain for them, but they are making no plans until then.

Mrs. Farrar-Smith is the daughter of the late Wayne MacVeagh, former ambassador to Rome, and a sister of Charles MacVeagh, ambassador to Japan, who died recently. Eames MacVeagh's father, Franklin MacVeagh, ex-secretary of the treasury, who went to his summer place at Dublin, N. H., several weeks ago, will return to the University club for the convention. Mrs. MacVeagh's mother, Mme. Antonin Barthelemy of Paris, who had expected to return to France ere this, was persuaded to postpone her sailing date and so she still is with her daughter and son-in-law.

Invitations have been mailed for the breakfast to be given by the Illinois Democratic woman's national convention committee next Monday at 9:15 o'clock in the grand ballroom of the Stevens. Mrs. William G. Hibbard, Mrs. N. Landon Hoyt, Mrs. Perry Smith, Mrs. Roswell B. Mason, Mrs. Carter Harrison Jr., Mrs. Kenneth Templeton, and Mrs. Melvin A. Traylor are serving on the arrangements committee. Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey is general chairman of the convention committee.

Activities of Voters' League.

Mrs. Hibbard, a member of the National League of Women Voters' delegation to the convention, is in charge of arrangements for a tea to be given

Sudden Love

By ELISABETH SANXAY HOLDING

SYNOPSIS.

Esmee Sully spends her forlorn young life between the office, where she is an inefficient typist, and a dismal home. The widowed Mrs. Sully loves her children blindly, but doesn't know how to direct their spiritual or physical needs. Lew, a year older than Esmee, is mingling in bad company. Cynthia, the oldest, has been deserted by her husband, Jimmy Consadine, a crook lawyer, forces Lew, whom he has in his power, to introduce his sister. Esmee is fascinated by Jimmy's grand manner, but finds him an unmanageable lover. Then she meets Michael Marriott, a young playwright, imbued with the futility of life. It's love at first sight. Esmee feels his need of her is real. Claire Cowley, Michael's sister, tells Esmee that Michael is engaged. But Michael tells her his engagement is broken; that he can't live without her, and wants to marry her. Esmee tries unsuccessfully to break with Jimmy. He accuses her of double crossing him and threatens to have Lew sent to jail. Esmee drives out to the country with him on Sunday. He forces her to accompany him to a roadhouse, where his word is law. Michael, who has trailed Jimmy's car, breaks in and rescues her. Jimmy swears he'll have Michael killed. Michael takes Esmee to spend the night at Claire's and drives her to her office next morning. He invites her mother to have dinner with them in the evening. Esmee doesn't want to tell Michael about Lew. She's afraid of Jimmy's evil power.

INSTALLMENT XXXII.

DANGER SIGNALS.

"I have a right to know everything about you," Michael said.

"You haven't. I won't be interfered with."

They said bitter, harsh things to each other.

"You're spoilt," Esmee told him. "That's the trouble. You think you can be just as rude and domineering as you like. Temperamental."

"If I hadn't asked your mother to come with us," said Michael, "I'd relieve you of the irritation and boredom of my temperamental society."

They had reached her house now. Esmee sprang nimbly out. Michael locked the car, and followed her, up the steps of the house. She turned to say something, and something not pleasant, to him, when she noticed a little sedan stop near the corner. The window of the sedan was open; by the light of the street lamp she saw a hand resting on the top of the window.

And it was a hand familiar to her as her own, a slender, boyish hand, grimy, marked by rough work.

"Lew . . ." she thought. "Lew . . . O . . . what does this mean?"

She hesitated so long that Michael rang the bell in the lobby. The latch clicked and they entered, mounted the stairs together in silence.

"If Jimmy could make Lew write that note to Micahel," she thought, "perhaps he could make him——"

A thought so awful, so monstrous, came over her that she turned faint, stopped, holding to the bannister.

But just then Mrs. Sully opened the door of the flat, and at the sight of her, strength came back to Esmee.

Mrs. Sully had done her best, but it was not a very good best. She had nothing. She was wearing an old black silk dress which Esmee had known for years. She had put a new collar on it. She had evidently tried to remodel a little the old fashioned skirt, which fitted her stout form too snugly. With her scuffed shoes she could do nothing, but she had dressed her glossy black hair well; and, in all her poverty, her dowdiness, her shabbiness, she stood before them in pride, in dignity and happiness.

And Michael saw, as quickly as Esme, the intolerable touchingness of the poor woman. He banished from his mind the pain and bitterness Esmee had aroused in him. He devoted himself to Mrs. Sully. He knew what was the right tone. He was not the deferential suitor of her daughter. He was interested in Mrs. Sully for herself. He found in her, beneath her curious ineptitude, a long ignored charm and gayety.

She put on her dreadful hat, and her coat that was faded to a rusty black, and they all went down the stair again. The sedan was not there now. Lew had gone again.

Esmee had already begun to learn that one can endure almost anything, almost without limit. She had to put her horrible fear about Lew aside, and she did. There was no one to whom she could mention it. She sat in Micahel's car beside her mother, and she could be glad that Mrs. Sully was having even this hour. God knew what was coming upon the poor woman soon; but she was happy now.

Michael knew where to take her. He never thought of a place adapted to her shabbiness. He knew that she was regally indifferent to her clothes, and he would be so, too. He went to that same restaurant where Esmee had gone with Claire and Twining. The proprietor knew him very well, and Mrs. Sully was treated like a queen. She had a glass of champagne, and her magnificent black eyes were brilliant. She was not witty, not talkative, but Esmee could see what she must have been before the shattering blows dealt by her life had bewildered her. A woman of infinite graciousnss and kindness, of warmth and charm and a strange innocence.

"I'll never forget—Micahel's being so sweet to her," thought Esmee.

Across the table her eyes met Micahel's—and it was as if a flame leaped up in both of them. Their quarrel was utterly forgotten. They looked and looked at each other, and everything else was forgotten. They were lost, strayed into some remote world all their own. She smiled at him, her little soft, dazed smile, but he forgot to smile in return. His eyes were tender, but his mouth had a strained look. His dark face was a little pale.

"He loves me!" she thought. "He does love me . . .!"

There was no possibility of making Michael go back to his apartment with them, and let Mrs. Sully and Esmee return alone in a taxi. She did not even suggest it. Michael drove them home, and went upstairs with them: Mrs. Sully went ahead, and he took Esmee's hand, in a grip that made her wince.

For a few moments they all sat in the dingy, dusty little sitting room. Micahel was still attentive to Mrs. Sully, but it was hard for him to talk now. He glanced from time to time at Esmee, he tried to smile, but his love for her, his passion obsessed him.

"Mrs. Sully," he said, "mind if I take Esmee for a drive? Just for half an hour?"

"I think it would do her good," said Mrs. Sully.

"Then—come along!" said Michael. "You'll let me come again, won't you, Mrs. Sully, tomorrow, please!"

She smiled at him, and in her ineffable sympathy for the young lovers, all her terrible ignorance of what love could be.

"I'll bring Esmee back—safe," he said, unsteadily. And she did not know it, but it was a pledge.

"Bring me back safe Esmee repeated to herself." Maybe if we could smash into something and both be killed—together—quickly—it would be the best . . ."

She was haunted by the memory of Lew's hand on the window of that sedan. And the monstrous thought would no longer remain undefined. It became clear, it took form, it was clothed in words within her mind.

"Suppose that Micahel was to die by that hand?"

He turned up Riverside drive; he did not speak, or turn his head, but it seemed to her that the very air was charged with the tensity of their emotion. It was a strain, fast growing beyond her endurance, love, terror, delight, dread, and despair, all in her heart together. She turned her head, and she saw a sedan behind them.

There were in this city, thousands of cars like that, the tramc on the drive was incessant, this warm night. Why should it be that one particular car . . .?

"I can't leave him!" she thought. "Whatever happens to Michael has got to happen to me, too." And aloud she said, "Michael—let's not go—into the country now."

"Esmee," he said, "I won't . . . I mean . . . I won't even kiss you, Esmee, if you say not. But I—want to be alone and talk to you . . ."

They had already gone acros the viaduct; she thought, in a panic, of dark, lonely roads.

"Michael! Turn back!" she cried.

"What's the matter, darling?" he asked, startled.

"Michael—I'm afraid! Micahel! Turn back!"

"Afraid, Esmee?"

"Yes! Michael . . ."

"Esmee . . . Not—of me?"

"No . . . O, God, no! Michael, turn back!"

"Then if it's that damned fellow that's worrying you, we won't turn back, Esmee . . . Look here, my little heart's darling, you've let yourself get——"

The road was dark now, and lonely.

"Michael! There's a car following us!"

"Darling girl, there are hundreds of cars——"

It seemed to her that now the very limit of her endurance had come.

"Michael!" she cried, almost in a scream.

He pulled up at the side of the road, and stopped the car, and took her in his arms.

"My God! You're trembling so!" he said. "Esmee, my own poor little darling kid, nothing's going to happen. Esmee, my darling—I'm sorry—I'm sorry I ever said one word."

A sedan shot past them, and disappeared from sight.

Mother Signs Chaplin's Sons for Film Roles

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 20.—Lita Grey Chaplin, divorced wife of the movie comedian, this evening signed a contract with Winfield R. Sheehan, head of the Fox Film studios, which binds the film services of herself and her two sons by Chaplin, Charles Spencer Chaplin Jr. and Sidney Earle [Tommy] Chaplin, to star in five motion pictures.

The films are to be made by the Fox studio during the next three years.

The rate of compensation was not made public.

The two Chaplin boys are in Nice, France, under care of Mrs. Chaplin's mother, Mrs. Lillian Grey Spicer, and tutors, but will be started to the United States immediately. Mrs. Chaplin shortly will leave for New York to meet them and bring them on to Hollywood.

No story has been chosen for the debut of the second generation of Chaplins, but it is announced that David Butler will direct the trio's first film. There is said to be no provision in Chaplin's divorce settlement, under which he paid Mrs. Chaplin $800,000 and set up trust funds for the two boys, under which their service in motion pictures can be attacked.

The boys are said to be proficient in English, French and Spanish.

The motion picture relief fund is taking care of 900 families. A Los Angeles writer undertook an investigation into the way Hollywood was taking care of its unemployed, and discovered:

That the blond queens with the salaries of $5,000 a week and up and their male equivalent were proving the most reluctant to contribute. That some of the highest paid film folk do not contribute at all.

That the effort is made to collect one-half of 1 per cent from every salary over $50 a week, but that all that is collected from this source is about $13,000 a month, which is nowhere near one-half of 1 per cent of the sum paid out in such wages.

That many of the studio executives who are most frequently criticized as hard fisted business men have proved to be very generous givers, carrying half of the load that the high price stars disdain to carry for their less fortunate brothers and sisters.

Fashionable and Wise Choice for Mature Woman

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—When a lady reaches the age and avoirdupois that make salads and massages necessary, she has to forego many sartorial fancies, too. That is, of course, if she cares either for taste or chic.

Paris lays out the most appetizing confections of style, with high waistlines, big sleeves, and pinched and narrow skirts, but the wise woman who has faced the truth of the weighing scale—and abided by its dictates of surplus pounds—will pass them by with a cold and, if necessary, averted face. She will take unto herself the more gracious streamline frocks, with simpler sleeves and wider skirts, which the greatest Paris dressmakers offer. These are quite as distinguished and infinitely more graceful.

For the mature and not slim matron a frock like the afternoon dress from Callot Soeurs, shown in the sketch today, is a fashionable and wise choice. This model is made of dark blue crêpe marocain, a material that firmly retains its shape and is neither heavy nor cumbersome.

It is cut on the bias to the diagonal seam on the hipline in front and to the point of the triangle down the back of the skirt. Thus it seems molded without actually being so at all. Under the right arm at the end of the surpliced closing are a series of radiating tucks that do fit it ever so slightly amidships.

The slim sleeves with their flared cuffs, the wide skirt, and the trimming of white at neckline, sleeves, and hem are all smart.

Darrow to Speak.

Attorney Clarence Darrow will address the City club forum luncheon today on "Conditions in the Hawaiian Islands."

Fifi D'Orsay One Blond Who Went Brunette

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"Why blonds do not go brunette" has been a frequent theme for surmise by those who've tried to establish reasons for woman's actions. Daily girls present their dark tresses for bleaching, platinumizing (not so much of this of late), or honeying—but the blond who asks for brunette tresses is a rare one, indeed.

I've just caught up with this rarity. A blond, who begged for raven locks and got them. Fifi D'Orsay is her name. Blue-black is the answer to her brunette prayer.

"Everywhere I went in Hollywood," Fifi explained, "were blonds. So, so blond. What was one more blond in a group like that. . . . Who'd give her a second look? I had to do something different. So I said: 'I'll have some black hair, please!' And right away they said: 'Good girl, Fifi, now you're just the ticket for those gay French rôles!'" Just like that Fifi turned on her blond heritage! If you don't believe she was born one of the preferred tint of hair, meet her sister, as I did recently back stage at the theater. As blond as they make them! And she's the girl who is entrusted the job of dying Fifi's hair.

I sat in while Fifi was making up for her stage act. If you want to know where she gets that supergloss to her blue-black hair, stick around and see how she turns the bottle of oily tonic on and rubs it into hair and scalp. As many times a day as Fifi has to make an appearance, the hair is touched up with the tonic and the scalp "scrubbed" with her finger tips. That's why the hair looks so polished.

Fifi uses black eyeshadow over her hazel eyes. She cold creams the lid first, gets a smudge of the black by turning the eyeshadow container upside down, applying a match to it, and taking off the smudge with a finger tip.

The way women powder their faces is one of Fifi's irritants. She pats hers on with a large puff all over the face and throat. Then follows with a smooth rubdown of the puff. This way the powder is evenly distributed—no projecting powdered spots. The only weight problem the French-Canadian movie star has to reckon with is to keep what pounds she has from being jiggled off with the perpetual motion they're subjected to by the volatile human machine known as Fifi. Extremely thin eyebrows drawn out with a pencil to meet the temples are a definite personality part under the blue-black bangs.

Brides Follow Old Customs in Assuring Luck

Ancient Wedding Customs Prevail Today.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

POLITICAL declarations to the contrary, June has only one first lady. And she is the bride. Some philosophic ancient dedicated the month to her for the sake of health, happiness, and wisdom . . . and we go on clinging to the pretty tradition as one of the last glamours of a modern world gone practical.

All of us are sophisticates . . . perhaps . . . but the bride, may she continue just romantic and old-fashioned enough to choose June for good fortune and wear "something old and something new" for a long trail of happiness.

Betty Knode paid her respects to tradition last Saturday when she exchanged vows with the good looking young Horton Conrad in a garden ceremony. So did Mrs. Rufus Choate Brown III. and Mrs. Waldo Morgan Allen, other brides of the week. And so will Polly Hart when she weds Harold Byron Smith this Saturday afternoon.

Not only did Mrs. Conrad think of her own "good luck" but also that of her French modiste's little assistant. For in the hem of her wedding gown she wore a tiny lock of the seamstress' hair, meant to insure the latter's marriage before another year rolls around.

It was a simple matter for Mrs. Conrad to fulfill the "something old" and "something borrowed" clauses of the good luck rhyme since she chose the same lovely tulle and lace veil worn by Mrs. John Dern II. (Jean MacLeish) a year ago last fall. The lace has every claim on the adjective "old" since it was made by an Egyptian Pharaoh for his favorite wife, owned for a time by the family of Napoleon III., and then passed on to ladies in waiting. Mrs. Dern had the good fortune to purchase it from an Italian family a number of years ago.

"You know it's supposed to mean awfully good fortune to wear your dearest friend's veil," said Mrs. Conrad smilingly before the wedding.

The Israelites were responsible for our poets versifying about "something old and something new." For they were bidden by one of their rulers to put upon the borders of their fringed garments old ribbands of blue—blue being the color of purity, love, and fidelity.

The "antique" part of this pretty custom Mrs. Franklin Agnew and Mrs. Edward M. Harkness [Suzanne and Cynthia Kohlsaat] observed when they were married a year ago last fall by wearing gold dollars in their slipper heels. These pieces, as Mrs. Harkness explained the other day, had been used by many brides previously, and since their weddings many of their friends have worn them.

Elinor Farwell, who married Ogden Ketting this month, found "something old" in the white satin wedding gown her maternal grandmother, Catherine Snow, wore for her marriage to Dr. Ralph Isham. Mrs. Guy Asa Osborn [Theodora Wagner] also depended on her grandmother's bridal gown for "something old" and, she confided the night of her wedding, there was a four leafed clover in her slipper heel to help insure good luck. Mrs. Robert MacArthur had picked this clover in 1911 and saved it all these years while Mrs. Osborn "grew up."

You probably know the old legend about the four-leafed clover—that Eve, upon being ejected from Paradise, took one with her. Because it was a bit of green from the Garden of Paradise, its presence today is looked upon as a good omen. Herrick, in his "Hesperides," mentions four-leafed clovers and the custom of strewing them before the bride to insure her happiness.

"Something blue" should bring extra good fortune for Mrs. Solomon B. Smith in the years to come, for not only did she have a bit of the color in her bridal array, it was also reflected in the lovely gowns of her bridesmaids.

on Monday afternoon by the Illinois and Cook County Leagues of Women Voters for women delegates and alternates.

Miss Marguerite M. Wells of Minneapolis, Miss Adele Clark of Richmond, Va., and Mrs. Roscoe Anderson of St. Louis will be special guests. Mrs. George Packard, Miss Martha Sarver, and Mrs. Frank P. Hixon will assist Mrs. Hibbard. Members of the Cook county league, headed by Mrs. Gerhardt F. Meyne, will act as hostesses at the headquarters the National League of Women Voters has opened in the Congress hotel.

Mrs. Loring W. Coleman of 31 East Division street and her children have gone east to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Green Fessenden of Cambridge, Mass. Mr. Coleman will join them later in the season.

The Renaissance Society of the University of Chicago is planning a buffet supper and garden party to open an exhibition of modern prints and water colors on Thursday, June 30, in the cloisters of the Ida Noyes hall at the University, and unless convention business keeps them away I'm sure all of the members will be there, for the party is for Miss Alice Roullier, who is lending part of the exhibition and who has done so much for the cause of modern art in Chicago.

Miss Roullier is too modest to let Mrs. Martin Schutze, president, and Mrs. Dallas Phemister, chairman of entertainment, use her name as the honored guest on the invitations, but Mrs. Schutze tells me the party is really for Miss Roullier, in recognition of her generosity in lending so many things to the society.

Tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock in Ida Noyes theater Charles L. Morgan, associate of Frank Lloyd Wright, will sketch in words and colored chalk architecture of the past [Chinese, Egyptian, Greek, and Gothic] and the present for the members of the society. His subject is "Renaissance in Architecture of Today."

Two Sales on North Shore.

Mrs. Gilbert E. Porter III. will be in charge of the sale for the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins to be held on Thursday at the residence of Mrs. Albert B. Dick Jr., at 1050 Green Bay road, Lake Forest. Miss Gertrude McCarthy will be one of the assistants.

Mrs. Julius Rosenwald is to open her Ravinia residence on Friday for an exhibit and sale of the work of the Industrial Workshops for the Handicapped.

Mr. and Mrs. David Dangler and their children departed yesterday to spend the summer on Cape Cod. Mr. and Mrs. John L. Senior, who have leased the Danglers' house for the summer, will move out to Lake Forest in July. Mrs. Senior is in the east now for the graduation of her daughter, Mary, from Concord academy. They will be back this week-end.

Dr. Woolley Speaks to Seniors Over Trans-Oceanic Phone

Mary E. Woolley, president of the college and American delegate to the disarmament conference, spoke to her senior class from Geneva, Switzerland.

Her voice, coming over the trans-oceanic connection, was amplified so that all attending the 95th Mount Holyoke commencement might hear.

"I am glad that you are going to add your influence to the life of your day," she said.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 20.—Mrs. Hoover gave the final sitting this morning for a bust which Ernest Durig made, the final casting to be in marble. Mr. Durig had the first sitting June 2 and also has completed busts of Representative and Mrs. Sol Bloom and Miss Vera Bloom, which he will have on exhibition in the autumn. Mr. Durig came here from his native Switzerland and shortly will be a citizen of this country.

Vice President Curtis spent today in Burlington, Vt., where he delivered the commencement address at the University of Vermont. The Vice President was accompanied to Burlington by Senator Warren R. Austin, who is a graduate of the university and a member of the board of trustees. Vice President Curtis and Senator Austin were each awarded a degree.

John G. Shields has returned to his apartment at the Wardman Park hotel, after making a brief visit in Chicago with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Culver Shields.

Michigan Awards Diplomas to 2,127; Class Sets Record

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 20.—(AP)—The largest graduating class in the history of the University of Michigan—2,127 students—marched in solemn procession today to Ferry field, listened to an address by James Brown Scott of New York, and were awarded diplomas by Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the university.

Dr. Scott, secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, told the graduates that a single standard of honor applicable to all nations is slowly replacing the evasiveness and refusal of some nations to submit questions to arbitration.

Thirteen persons were awarded honorary degrees. They include: Attorney General William D. Mitchell, Dr. Scott, and James B. Herrick, Chicago, physician.

Meat Roll-Ups Happy Solution of Left-Overs

Are Both Economical and Smartly French.

BY MARY MEADE.

The ingenious homemaker who would be both economical and smartly French these warm days is turning to nubby little meat roll-ups as the happy solution to the leftover meat problem.

You know the kind. Perhaps you've had them at their daintiest and most mouth-watering as an accompaniment for bortsch in some quaint old Russian restaurant. Or you may have found them sizzling hot and gloriously puffy in some small out-of-the-way pastry shop with a French name, a French chef, and a French flavor.

At their heartiest they are created from a fluffy batch of rich puff pastry, spread with something unbelievably delicious and savory—always with a meat foundation—and rolled up ready for the oven. Such a roll is for family use, when little work and quite informal service is the order of the day.

But individual roll-ups and turnovers—there's where the magic comes in and the family rises to cheer! Some days they may be crusty golden brown half-moons of rich biscuit dough, fairly popping with a luscious ham filling. Or they may choose to be mysterious cornucopias hiding treasures of—spicy sausage meat! Some round ones we know as rissoles. [Balls of meat the size of hickory nuts sandwiched in between two tightly pinched layers of pastry, and each small ball of goodness popped into hot fat to fry.]

Or your roll-ups may think they're boxes. For these we start off with squares of pastry or baking powder biscuit dough, place a tablespoon or two of chopped, moistened meat mixture on the center of each square, bring the four corners up basket fashion, and pinch them firmly together, or lap them neatly.

Any meat, or combination of meat and vegetables, or even meat and cereals bound together with a well seasoned sauce, will do the trick. My favorite is a zestful minced ham rissole [the scrumptious fried ones mentioned above] served hot with pineapple sauce. This is the method in a nutshell:

HAM RISSOLES WITH PINEAPPLE SAUCE.

1½ cups minced cooked ham
½ cup minced chicken or veal
½ tablespoon minced onion
½ cup chopped celery
Salt and pepper to taste
Pastry

Blend all the ingredients, seasoning well. The mixture should be packable but not wet. Form into balls about one inch in diameter and chill. Meanwhile prepare one recipe of rich pastry [one-half cup lard, one and one-half cups flour, one-fourth cup ice water, one-half teaspoon salt] and chill this also. When cold, divide in half and roll out one portion to a large, round, one-third inch in thickness. Brush the pastry with ice water and place the meat balls on it about two inches apart. Roll out the second portion of dough and place over the first. Now with a floured three inch biscuit cutter cut out the rissoles, letting each pastry contain one meat ball. Pinch the edges of each together closely and slip into deep fat [380 degrees F.] to fry until golden brown.

Crushed pineapple given zest with a little lemon juice may be cooked and thickened with cornstarch to make a delicious sauce for ham rissoles. Or if they are made wholly of chicken meat or of chicken and tender new peas, try a savory browned mushroom sauce, a piping hot raisin sauce, or cinnamon apple sauce.

Then there's always pork—especially good right now. I've found it delectable minced and blended with a little left over vegetable—carrots, peas, string beans, or what have you?—seasoned with celery salt and pepper and hidden away in biscuit squares. Simply pat out the biscuit dough about one-third inch thick and cut in five inch squares. In the center of each place a generous spoonful of the meat mixture, bring the corners of the square up, and pinch together over the filling. Brush with beaten egg and bake in a hot oven [380 degrees F.] until brown and fluffy.

Critical Mother Blights Many a Young Romance

Parents Often Misjudge Future Success.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I have been keeping company with a young man for several years. He is honest and ambitious and I like him tremendously. Unfortunately he hasn't a 'white collar' job, although he has excellent opportunities in his present occupation. He is awfully good to me, and takes my mother and sisters out often. But my mother nags about him all the time. She thinks and says that he is not good enough for me. His manners, I'll admit, show shortcomings due to his lack of education. But he has a heart of gold, which my mother doesn't seem to think as important as a white collar, expensive tie, and a business connection she could brag about to the neighbors. AMY."

The problem is whether to disregard your mother's objections or to do your own deciding about what is worth while in your young life.

The romances that have been lost to good marriage history because mothers didn't think the boy good enough for her girl, piled high, would reach to the moon. Sometimes the mothers mean all right, too. Life has dealt them a narrow margin for pleasure and they want to feel that their girls will escape the struggle.

Where they err generally is in a limited point of view on tomorrow's successes. So eager do they become for immediate success for their girls, they often mistake white collar glamour for the real article. Too, they often over-value the charms and gifts of their own flesh and blood. They sometimes bring girls up to believe that the best in the land is none too good for them, but they haven't endowed or trained the girls to be worthy of the best men.

However, the good genie provides each younger generation with a head of its own and a heart to work out its own destiny. And you younger ones who can see without bias or prejudice sterling qualities in a suitor had better be guided by your own natural impulses than be swayed by a disappointed parent.

You might, for the fun of it and as a matter of defense for mother's next barrage, go over a list of our leading industrialists and pick out a dozen who in their earlier years were anything but white collar workers. You could begin with Henry Ford, for one.

Strikingly, Radically New Phantom★ Kotex
SANITARY NAPKIN (U. S. Pat. No. 1,857,854)

Most Important Improvement in sanitary protection since the invention of Kotex itself in 1920.

AT LAST! A radically new design in sanitary protection. You are scarcely aware that you have it on. Made, of course, by Kotex—originators of the modern sanitary napkin.

It is called PHANTOM ★ KOTEX. Why? Because the ends are so flattened and tapered that it leaves no outlines even under the closest-fitting of gowns. Not the slightest bulk suggested even under the filmiest of summer silks. And—for those who require extra protection—Super-Phantom Kotex is ideal. There's extra protective surface but the ends are so skilfully flattened as to be completely inconspicuous.

Kotex features retained

The special Kotex features you have always appreciated are retained, of course. It is soft after hours of use; wonderfully absorbent; treated to deodorize; can be worn, with equal protection, on either side; disposable, easily.

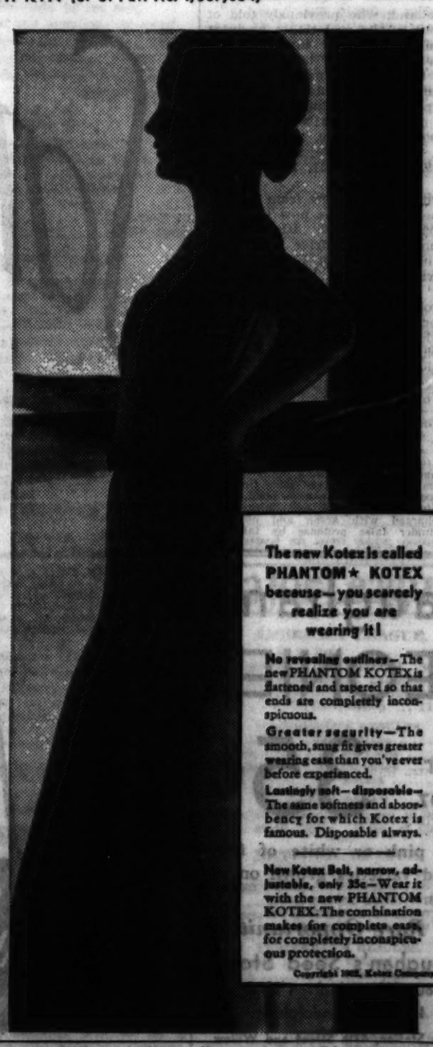
Insist upon getting genuine Kotex, when you buy it already wrapped. Each tapered end of the new pad is stamped "Kotex" now—so you can't get inferior substitutes.

Kotex prices are today the lowest in Kotex history. This new improvement comes to you at no increase in price. All dealers have the new PHANTOM KOTEX.

HOW SHALL I TELL MY DAUGHTER?

Many a mother wonders. Now you simply hand your daughter the little booklet entitled, "Marjorie May's Twelfth Birthday." For free copy, address Mary Pauline Callender, Room 2140, 180 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.



The new Kotex is called PHANTOM★ KOTEX because—you scarcely realize you are wearing it!

No revealing outlines—The new PHANTOM KOTEX is flattened and tapered so that ends are completely inconspicuous.

Lastingly soft—disposable—The same softness and absorbency for which Kotex is famous. Disposable always.

New Kotex Belt, narrow, adjustable, only 25c—Wear it with the new PHANTOM KOTEX. The combination makes for complete ease, for completely inconspicuous protection.

REALTY DEALS HOLD SPOTLIGHT AT BAIN TRIAL

Wiegel and Mulholland Are Witnesses.

Real estate deals were the subject of most of the testimony yesterday before Judge John O'Connor in the trial of John Bain, former head of twelve banks; his two sons, John H. and Robert A., and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher, who are charged with conspiracy to defraud. The trial is without a jury.

The witnesses were Eric F. Wiegel, 9914 Longwood drive, and Frank A. Mulholland, 9924 Longwood drive, partners of the elder Bain in the transactions which involved large amounts of the money of the various Bain banks.

Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber called Wiegel a perjurer and said he was compelled to call as witnesses "conspirators and thieves." Defense Attorney Francis X. Bush drew from Mulholland the admission that his breakfast room is lined with 14 carat gold leaf and the walls of his den are bound in imitation Morroco leather. Both witnesses owe the Bain banks large amounts of money.

Hard Witness to Handle.

Wiegel proved a hard witness for the state to handle. His memory was not good on many of the transactions. When Attorney Busch asked him if yesterday was the first time Raber ever called him a perjurer and a thief he said:

"He told me I was dumb and had a convenient memory."

Wiegel had been president of the Ashland-63d Street bank, which was later merged with a Bain bank. He was also president of the West Highland bank and vice president of the Brainerd bank as well as being the head of the West Englewood Construction company and the Wiegel company. In arranging the deal through which the Brainerd bank acquired the site of its banking house Wiegel was unable to explain how it was appraised at $335,000.

Large Loans from Banks.

Mulholland owned one of the properties sold to the Bain chain of banks, Wiegel said, and together with Bain the three of them owned many pieces of property on which large loans were obtained from the Bain banks. His own personal loans were also made with banks of the Bain chain, Wiegel said.

Regarding one transaction where a building that cost $120,000 was listed as an asset in the amount of $200,000 in the report to the state auditor, Wiegel said that as president of the bank he never read the auditor's report. He said that during the last year of the existence of the Bain banks he quit borrowing from them and tried to reduce his loans.

Under Prosecutor Raber's questioning he couldn't remember a bond issue of $225,000 being issued against West Highland property owned by himself, Bain and Mulholland, although his share was pledged as collateral for a loan from an outside bank. He said he knew nothing of an overdraft on the account of Northview property owned by himself, Bain and Mulholland.

Mortgage Deal Described.

Asked if he knew anything about a piece of property at 64th street and Ashland avenue, he said it belonged to Bain and himself and had buildings on it that were "plenty old." A mortgage of $50,000 on it was signed by a man named Burgess as an accommodation to him, he said, and when it became due he and Bain said something must be done about it.

"I told Bain I didn't believe Burgess would sign it again because he had got into trouble about something he signed and I wouldn't ask him to sign anything more," Wiegel testified. "It was then signed by some one in the trust department of the bank."

Mulholland Is Questioned.

Mulholland, who previously told of being put in the real estate business by Bain without any investment of his own except money borrowed from Bain's banks, identified statements made to banks to obtain credit and which placed the value of his holdings as follows: 1923, $100,710; Jan. 11, 1925, $305,832; Sept. 10, 1925, $446,804; Oct. 28, 1926, $1,149,034; Dec. 31, 1928, $1,902,693; and Dec. 31, 1929, $1,719,852.

Attorney Busch drew from Mulholland the admission he now owes the Bain banks, $160,000. His $150,000 home on Longwood drive was in his wife's name, but last February she transferred title to her sister, he stated.

Mulholland said he made appraisals of property on which the Bain banks loaned large sums, and his appraisals were based "mainly on information furnished by the banks or obtained as I viewed the property while riding past it on a street car going to work."

CHARGED WITH INSURANCE FRAUD.

Herrin, Ill., June 20.—[Special.]—Goble Matheny was arrested on a charge of conspiracy to defraud an insurance company. It is charged he and Frank Kelly took a safe from the Kelly grocery some time ago and deposited it in a strip mine pond. Kelly previously was arrested and released on bond, charged with arson and obtaining money under false pretense by faking a holdup.

WORLEY, ONCE KLAN POWER, ADMITS GUILT OF TAX LAW EVASION

Indianapolis, Ind., June 20.—[Special.]—Claude Worley, former Indianapolis police chief and political power, appeared suddenly in federal court here today and pleaded guilty to four of six charges of income tax violation recently returned against him by a federal grand jury. He was to have faced trial Wednesday.

Judge Robert Baltzell fixed July 22 for sentence and dismissed the other two charges. Court attaches said the four charges carry a maximum fine of $40,000 and maximum prison sentence of sixteen years.

The government alleged Worley's income in 1927, when he was still chief, was $26,000 and that his income from 1927 to 1931 was $86,000.

Worley was police chief in the Ku Klux Klan supported administration of Mayor John Duvall, Republican. After Duvall was removed on conviction of corrupt practices in 1925 Worley was continued as chief under Mayor L. Ert Slack, Democrat.

ARCHBISHOP LAYS DOWN RULES FOR BATHING BEACHES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUEBEC, Que., June 20.—Voicing opposition to modern styles of bathing costumes Msgr. Villeneuve, archbishop of Quebec, today laid down rules for guidance of the Catholics of his diocese, both as to the kind of bathing suits approved and as to conduct on the beaches. The archbishop's message reads in part:

"All bathers should wear bathing suits that are proper and conforming to their sex. Nude bathing should be entirely avoided. Bathing costumes for members of the feminine sex should be sufficiently high on the chest and shoulders to avoid all semblance of provocation. The trunk should be covered with a skirt reaching nearly to the knees. It is even to be hoped that such costumes will include as formerly a species of coat or cape which shields the shape of the body.

"Baths should not be taken among people of the same sex except under special circumstances. Men, women, youths, and girls, once they have emerged from the water, should not amuse themselves by walking together, dancing or lying on the sandy beaches. Much less should familiarities or near contacts be permitted, either in the water or out of it, in these necessarily reduced costumes."

TWO BANKS ARE CLOSED BY ACTION OF THEIR BOARDS

The Bowmanville National bank, 4806 North Western avenue, was placed in charge of A. P. Layburn, chief bank examiner for the Seventh federal reserve district. It has deposits of $1,700,000, capital of $300,000, and a $60,000 surplus.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson closed the Reliance Bank and Trust company, 1540 West Madison street, at its directors' request. The bank has deposits now of $2,800,000, as compared to $11,464,000 on June 29, 1929. Its capital is $750,000 and its surplus $500,000.

The First American National Bank and Trust company of Berwyn, which suspended business on Saturday, has deposits of $500,000 and capital of $175,000, it was stated yesterday at the auditor's office.

LOOT DOCTOR'S HOME OF $2,000.

Benton, Ill., June 20.—(AP)—Three diamond rings valued at $2,000 and $90 were taken from the home of Dr. E. H. Campbell here by burglars Saturday night. A revolver also was included in the loot.

COSMIC RAY TEST IN NEW ZEALAND PROVES PUZZLE

Chicago Physicist Leaves for Check in Panama.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, June 20.—Prof. Arthur H. Compton of the physics department of the University of Chicago is en route to Panama from New Zealand as the next step in his study of the properties of cosmic rays.

PROF. ARTHUR H. COMPTON.

Upon leaving New Zealand, Prof. Compton said that measurements taken on mountain peaks in Hawaii, New Zealand and Australia appear to have produced "significant data."

It will be necessary, however, to collate such data with the findings of six similar expeditions now under way in various parts of the world before definite conclusions as to the origin and properties of the rays can be formulated, the Chicago scientist explained.

Present Results Baffling.

Results of these other expeditions, which include studies in Alaska, Baffin bay, South Africa, and Spitzbergen, will not be available, it is expected, until early next year.

Prof. Compton said that measurements in Australia were disconcerting in that they gave similar results to those in New Zealand.

"This was not what we anticipated," he said. "It was thought that the radiations would be less intense in Australia. Near the equator, in Hawaii, for instance, the radiations were less intense than in New Zealand. So we are at a loss to explain why the intensity in Australia should be the same as that in New Zealand."

Climbing to 18,000 Feet.

Prof. Compton took observations at a height of 7,000 feet on Mount Cook, 7,300 feet on Mount Kosciusko, and 4,300 feet at Guyra, Queensland, in Australia. He also took measurements of cosmic rays near sea level at Auckland University college.

From Panama Prof. Compton's party will proceed to Peru to become acquainted with the rays at an altitude of 18,000 feet in the Andes. His expedition will have its base at the Carnegie magnetic observatory at Hunacayo, at a height of 12,000 feet.

Prof. Compton expects to return to the United States in September by way of Mexico.

Owner of Burned Auto Says It Was Accident

Pete Young, a gypsy, whose sedan was found burning in Joliet road two miles west of Willow Springs Sunday night, was found last night at 442 North State street. He said there was no mystery to the fire and that it was an accident. He had had the motor of his car repaired recently, and motor trouble, he said, probably set the auto afire. He notified Downers Grove police at the time, he asserted. The Indiana license on the auto was issued to Young for an address at 1080 Broadway, Gary.

MURDER IS CHARGED TO MENJOU'S FOSTER SON IN AUTO DEATH

Los Angeles, Cal., June 20.—(AP)—Formal charges of murder and driving while intoxicated were filed today against Harold L. Menjou, 20 year old adopted son of Adolphe Menjou, screen star, as an outcome of an automobile accident yesterday in which young Menjou's girl companion was killed.

Bond was set at $10,000. The complaint was attested by Motorcycle Patrolman Perry Jones, who said he was pursuing the youth's speeding car when it overturned, killing Marjorie Gauthier, 16, Beverly Hills High school student.

Adolphe Menjou said today he had not seen the youth in more than eight years and had nothing to do with his upbringing.

The actor adopted the boy in 1923, but was divorced from the boy's mother eight years ago. She is now the wife of A. L. Abraham, Los Angeles attorney.

FIGHTS BANDITS ON STREET CAR; PAIR CAPTURED

Two robbers who had taken $120 from Samuel Taxman, 713 Maxwell street, at Halsted street and Roosevelt road yesterday afternoon, tried to escape on an eastbound Roosevelt road surface car.

They were pursued, however, by William Jackson, colored, 618 O'Brien street, who leaped on the same car. He seized one of the bandits, Sam Block, 21 years old, 3400 West Jackson boulevard, and shouted for help. The second robber, Jack Harris, 23 years old, 3842 West Roosevelt road, then attacked Jackson.

Placing a pistol against the Negro's head, he pulled the trigger twice. Each time the weapon snapped harmlessly. Jackson was wrestling with Harris for the pistol when a police squad boarded the car and overpowered the fugitives. Taxman's money was found in Block's pockets.

MINE PAY PARLEY FOR TWO STATES CALLED BY LEWIS

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, yesterday issued an invitation to the coal miners and operators of both Illinois and Indiana to send representatives to a conference in Indianapolis tomorrow to take preliminary steps toward establishing a new joint wage scale for the two states.

A meeting of the Illinois operators was called for today by D. W. Buchanan, chairman of their executive board, to pass on the proposal. He indicated a belief that action would be favorable. In fact, it has been recognized by both sides in previous wage negotiations that the same pay scales should prevail in Indiana and Illinois fields.

In his call Mr. Lewis pointed out that for eleven weeks the mines of both states have been closed down, that losses of the operators have been great and that suffering among the miners has grown acute.

"Intervention by the governors of the states has been barren of results," he added.

His intention, the mine workers' head stated, was to be constructively helpful. The conference, if held on the suggested lines, will be composed of two representatives of the miners and two of the operators. It will have authority only to determine whether an interstate joint conference shall be held later to go directly into the wage scale matter.

At West Frankfort, Ill., yesterday, a meeting of 3,000 miners from Illinois and Indiana declared in favor of a joint wage scale and condemned any efforts to make them take a $4 a day scale. They urged the retention of the $6.10 a day scale in effect until March.

NEW YORK MAYOR'S WIFE IN HOSPITAL FOR AN OPERATION

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. James J. Walker was taken by the mayor to the Polyclinic hospital late today for a major operation, which will be performed tomorrow by Dr. William Schroeder Jr., the mayor's personal physician and commissioner of the department of sanitation. The operation will be for the removal of a multiple fibroid tumor in the abdomen.

MRS. JAMES J. WALKER. [U. & U. Photo.]

The mayor, as he talked to reporters about his wife's condition, seemed grave and worried.

The mayor had planned to leave on Wednesday for Chicago and the Democratic convention. He said today that he would not think of leaving until his wife's condition was favorable and that the need for the operation had thrown his plans into uncertainty. With Mrs. Walker, however, he maintained an air of confidence and to reporters he praised her courage.

WOMAN VICTIM OF GAS GAINING IN 3 DAY FIGHT

Mrs. Gertrude Bemis, who was overcome by carbon monoxide gas in a garage in the rear of her home at 812 Foxdale avenue, Winnetka, on Saturday, was reported slowly improving last night at the St. Francis hospital in Evanston.

Oxygen had been administered constantly to her by members of the Winnetka fire department for sixty-three hours. More than 100 tanks of the gas, which costs $4.50 a tank, had been consumed. Two blood transfusions also had been given, one by Walter Bemis, her husband, and the other by Fireman Dick Houren, son of the Winnetka fire chief.

Mrs. Bemis was overcome, it is believed, when she fell asleep in the family car while the engine was running. Her physician, Dr. William G. Cummings, was hopeful last night of her complete recovery.

SEIZED ON JOB FRAUD CHARGE; FIFTY VICTIMS

Otto J. Seaman, 24 years old, 4109 Kenmore avenue, was arrested yesterday by Detectives John Howe and John Drury on seven charges of operation of a confidence game. Police said that Seaman had taken between $15,000 and $20,000 from fifty persons who had applied to him for positions at 221 North La Salle street, where he opened offices under the title Pan-American Motor Stages.

Seaman advertised for chauffeurs, mechanics, and office employés, police said. He required applicants to post bonds of $200 to $700 and then disappeared. Seaman said in his detective bureau cell that he did not get the bond money. The Pan-American company is operating four buses between St. Louis and Chicago.

EAGLES MEET AT ROCK ISLAND.

Prominent among the early arrivals today were State President J. J. Murphy of Springfield and Secretary James O'Keefe of Chicago. A delegation from Quincy will make a bid for the erection of a proposed state Eagles home in that city.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The price of baseball, racing, boxing and wrestling tickets in Chicago goes up $4,235 a day today when the new 10 per cent federal amusement tax becomes effective.

HARRY GRABINER.

Estimates based on attendance figures at the Washington Park race track, the Thornton dog track, Wrigley field, the home of the Cubs, Comiskey park, the White Sox headquarters, and the monthly reports of the boxing commission reveal that Chicagoans will contribute $26,562.50 weekly toward paying off the federal deficit.

Racing contributes three-fifths of the entire amount. Washington Park, where an average daily crowd of 8,000 persons pay the $2 general admission charge or the $5 club house fee, plus the accompanying 20 and 50 cents in tax, respectively, will provide approximately $15,000 a week, or $2,500 daily. Thornton dog track, where 4,000 pay the straight 50 cent admission charge nightly, will raise $200 each racing night or $1,200 weekly by adding the five cents federal tax to the price of admittance.

Baseball is the next heaviest contributor. Under the terms of the new law passes will be taxed, making it possible for the federal government to profit from feminine attendance on ladies' day as well as on the hundreds of other passes issued at all sporting events. Harry Grabiner, vice president and secretary of the White Sox, estimates their federal tax for home games will amount to an average of $800 a day. This is based on an average price of $1 at Comiskey park, and an average daily attendance of 8,000 persons, including Ladies' day fans and the regular pass list.

The Cubs' tax amounts to twice as much because of larger crowds and also because the average cost of an admission is estimated to be $1.25 by dint of a greater number of grandstand admissions at $1.00 and box seat privileges at $1.50.

Computed on a daily average attendance of 13,000, the federal tax will increase the cost of admission to Cub home games $1,625 daily. Averaging the Sox tax and that which the Cub games will raise from the purse of the fans, baseball, major league officials point out, will pay the federal government approximately $1,212.50 for each day of the season that either the Sox or Cubs play at home.

Ladies' day fans and holders of other baseball passes must pay 10 per cent of the general admission price of $1, or 10 cents.

Semi-Pros to Raise $600.

These estimates do not include semi-pro baseball, which plays to approximately 10,000 each Sunday in three of the larger closed parks, Mills stadium, Shewbridge field and Logan Square park. These games, it is estimated, will raise $600 in taxes once a week.

Boxing and wrestling fans will be forced to pay an average of $312.50 more each day under the new law. Virtually all this money will come out of the pockets of Chicago fans, since downstate professional promoters have practically stopped operating because

Jack's Last Chance for Crown.

Facts About Fight

Event—World's championship prize fight.
Contestants—Max Schmeling, Germany, defending champion; Jack Sharkey, Boston.
Distance—15 rounds.
Time—9 o'clock Chicago daylight savings time.
Place—Long Island City, N. Y.
Estimated attendance—40,000.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 20.—Jack Sharkey, the successful failure of the prize fight profession, will enjoy another of his last chances to make good tomorrow night in his return match, two years deferred, with Max Schmeling.

WILLIAM CAREY.

They will fight fifteen rounds or fewer in the arena which the Madison Square Garden firm, with remarkable optimism and commercial fortitude, has constructed on an otherwise barren plot of ground in Long Island City, a distance of five cents by subway or one dollar by taxicab from Times square. The taxi fare probably will interest comparatively few of the customers at this time, however, as it has lately become fashionable for persons who used to have taxicab feet to go slumming in the subways.

It is unofficially understood, although there is no binding promise, that if Sharkey does not make good in this last chance he will retire to his estate near Boston and for sporting competition confine himself thereafter to the breeding of championship violets, peonies and the like. Schmeling also has been taking an intense interest in flower beds and spent much of his spare time during his training sojourn at Kingston, N. Y., visiting the neighboring hothouses.

Tiger Lily Is Their Speed.

Prize fighters of the old model often interested themselves in the breeding and fighting of pit dogs, but these two gladiators, in their unofficial moods, go in for nothing more savage than the tiger lily and the dog-tooth violet. If they get into an argument during their prize fight tomorrow Sharkey will endeavor to annoy Schmeling by referring to his petunias as nothing but a lot of weeds, and they may meet again in after years in the grim competition of the national flower show.

"I hear," said Sharkey as his final taunt to Schmeling at the conclusion of his training, "that that Dutchman thinks he can raise geraniums. Well, I can raise a geranium in concrete that will make his so-called championship geranium look like a sprig of sneeze weed."

Tickets for Everybody.

With the pugilists in this brutal frame of mind, due to the trials and privations of strict training, a savage encounter is anticipated, and President William F. Carey and his associates of the Garden firm are bending every effort to accommodate the customers with tickets. It is an interesting phenomenon that, although the price of $23 was widely criticised as a tactless reminder of happier days, the best of the $23 seats had been disposed of for cash today. The inferior $23 tickets, of course, were not selling very briskly because, after all, if a customer is going to spend $23 for a ticket he prefers the superior kind.

Therefore, the inferior $23 tickets were being allotted in pairs to the complimentary or honorary trade, which, in the case of a heavyweight championship fight, usually is quite lively, but which in the present instance was strangely dull. The rea-

TALKING IT OVER

BY ARCH WARD.

IT may be a complete surprise to the persons involved but when Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey enter the ring tonight they will be fighting for something more than the world's heavyweight championship.

It is up to these gentlemen to prove that a heavyweight title fight is the biggest attraction in boxing. It is a matter of record that a group of young men from the tenement districts, the farms and the schools of Chicagoland last year drew more cash customers than Schmeling and Stribling, who fought at Cleveland for the highest crown in pugilism after weeks of nationwide publicity.

Less than 30,000 paid their way into the 1931 heavyweight championship bout. Nearly 40,000, braving chilly breezes that sent the mercury down to 46 degrees, saw America's Golden Glove champions defeat a team from France at Soldiers' field.

A Golden Gloves attraction again threatens to outdraw a heavyweight title fight. According to estimates of veteran boxing reporters, tonight's contest will not attract more than 40,000. If the early demand for tickets is a true indication, the international match between Chicago's Golden Glove winners and the champions of Germany at Soldiers' field July 26 will exceed that number.

The Golden Glove bouts are five weeks away and nearly all the seats in the highest priced section have been reserved.

Gene Sarazen's glittering performance in the British open golf tournament has stimulated interest in the American national open, which begins Thursday at the Fresh Meadow club in New York.

They used to say that boxing never would have a fighter who would command the attention of John L. Sullivan. Then came Jack Dempsey, who became the greatest attraction, measured by business at the box office, in the history of sport. Old time baseball fans bemoaned the passing of Christy Mathewson, Frank Chance, Eddie Collins, and Ty Cobb. But before two of these were definitely out of the picture a new sensation, Babe Ruth, came along to break all records for popularity.

Perhaps a similar change is taking place in golf. The sport last year showed a sharp decline in attendance and interest at the big meets. There was no Bobby Jones. It may be premature to say that Sarazen has taken Bobby's place in the esteem of American golfers, but his score of 283 in the British open, two strokes under Jones' best, has given the boys something to talk about.

Sarazen's chances of success in the national open are considered unusually bright, because most of the important events of his life have revolved around the figure 2. He was born in 1902. He became a caddy in 1912, and surprised the country by winning the open title at Skokie in 1922. The same year he annexed the P. G. A. championship. He won the British open in 1932.

Babe Ruth says nothing to queries about his prospects of being appointed manager of the Red Sox in 1933, but his achievements this season with the Yankees stand as a strikingly convincing denial.

The New York club recently completed its first visit of the year to Comiskey park. The largest crowd of the season, 32,000, turned out for the Thursday game. More than 28,000 attended on Sunday.

Maybe the fans came out in such strong numbers to see Gehrig, Dickey, or McCarthy. But your Aunt Effie, who never misses a ladies' day game, will tell you they were there to cheer Babe Ruth.

The Ruth of 1932 probably is not as ebullient as the Ruth of 1928, but he still is the terror of the pitchers, still the man opponents dislike to see at bat in a pinch, still the baseball showman of all time. His home run total of 21 is about even with his record pace. He has shaken off an early season slump and again is well over the .300 mark.

PHILLIES BREAK DOWN FENCES TO WHIP CUBS, 7-5

Root Chased; Bruins Make It Close with 4 in Ninth.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 20.—The Phillies, who live to hit and hit to live, reached out this afternoon and yanked the leading Cubs back by a full lap in the pennant free for all. With their usual batting nonchalance they dynamited Charley Root off the premises by scoring six runs in the first two innings. Then they proceeded leisurely toward an eventual 7 to 5 victory, which appears close only because the Chicagoans, assisted by Marvin Gudat's homer, hung up four tallies in the ninth.

Nothing can be said in defense of Root, making his first start in more than two weeks. He was wild and the tricky Phils, after waiting for a few passes, immediately displayed their skill at plastering drives against the nearby right field wall. They coaxed four passes, one wild pitch, and four hits from Root before welcome relief came in the shape of Bob Smith in the second inning. Smith and eventually Bud Tinning did an excellent job of preventing any more serious outbreaks, but this didn't matter.

Holley Turns 'Em Back.

Another source of aggravation to the Cubs was that one of their teammates of a few years ago convinced them they could not stand up and hold their own in a slugging match. Handsome Ed Holley was the fellow. Although not particularly great as pitchers go, the big right hander enjoyed such a calm afternoon that in eight innings only six hits and an unearned run delayed his progress. Then he suddenly reverted to the style of a real Philly hurler in the ninth and after four had scored, three on Gudat's homer, gave the job to Phil Collins, the Chicago butcher boy, who quickly disposed of the two remaining batters.

Root got himself into trouble in the first inning by passing both Bartell and Klein with one out. Hurst hit one squarely, but luckily it sailed straight into Moore's hands. Whitney sent a long fly to right center and it came down close to the wall for a triple, Bartell and Klein scoring. Whitney scored when Lee's fly bounced off the short right field tin sign for a double. The inauspicious start finally was concluded with Jurges throwing out V. Davis.

More Trouble in Second.

Root opened the second by walking Mallon and the Phils began to parade almost immediately. A wild pitch sent Mallon to second and he moved to third on Holley's bunt. Stephenson raced back to the bleacher screen to get G. Davis' fly and Mallon scored after the catch. Bartell walked and Grimm used his forehead to confine a powerful grounder by Klein to a single. Hurst bounced a single off the wall in right to score Bartell and put Klein on third. That finished Root. Smith stepped forth to be welcomed

California Leads from Start to Finish in Hudson Regatta

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 20.—[Special.]—Another California eight, fit successor to the crew from the Golden Gate which spread-eagled its eastern opposition and then won the Olympic rowing championship four years ago, walked off with the intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson river this afternoon. "Walked" is the word. The Golden Bears took the lead in the first half mile without obvious expenditure of energy, built it up to mountainous proportions, and held on with ease against the final rush of Cornell to win by two and a half lengths.

Never in the history of the Poughkeepsie regatta has one crew so completely dominated the field. Half way down the course it was obvious that nothing short of a broken oar could haul California back to its struggling opposition.

Row Flawless Race.

The experts had concluded that California rowed too short a stroke to figure in the company of such colossi as Cornell and Syracuse, but the Bears, stroking as one man and catching as one oar, were flawless from start to finish, every inch a great crew.

Cornell, sluggish, almost lackadaisical in the early stages, came strongly at the end and pared something from the westerners' lead. In third place came Washington, more than a length ahead of Navy, which finished fourth.

Syracuse, a strong favorite at the start after its minor crews had cleaned up the freshman and junior varsity races, was fifth, more than two lengths ahead of Columbia. The Lions beat Pennsylvania and Massachusetts Tech. The latter came in a quarter of a mile behind the leader and fully eight lengths astern of Penn.

Hudson Is Smooth.

The race was rowed on smooth water and under a bright blue sky which smiled on a race day crowd of huge proportions and pleasant temper. Conditions, though perfect from the standpoint of the spectators ashore and afloat, were not fast. A light head wind fanned the backs of the carsmen and the California time, 19:56, was more than a minute behind the record established by the Golden Bears of 1928.

Cornell was timed in 20:05, Washington in 20:14 1-5 and Navy in 20:19 4-5. From there they graded away to Mass Tech, which crossed the line, still rowing gamely, if hopelessly, in 21:12 3-5.

Meet Cornell's Challenge.

All the struggling that was done in this race took place aft of the California stern and forward of the Tech peak. The Bears were first almost from the start, and Tech steadily sagged back. In between such crews

HIT AND RUN A'S CRUSH SOX, 18-11; FOXX GETS NO. 27

Paths Are Jammed and No Traffic Cops.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Philadelphia Athletics and the White Sox yesterday engaged in what recklessly might be termed a baseball contest.

1. The A's won, 18 to 11.

2. The A's made 26 hits for 38 bases. The Sox made 18 hits for 26 bases, including a triple by Appling with the bases full.

3. Jimmy Foxx nicked Caraway for his No. 27 homer when he knocked the ball clear over the grand stand in left center with two on in the seventh. Mule Haas smacked a homer off Daglia with the bases full in the sixth.

4. Roger Cramer, A's right fielder, made six hits in six times at bat, tying an American league record last equaled by Ty Cobb on May 5, 1925.

Double Play Ends It.

5. Every player in the game except Fothergill, Sox cleanup hitter, and the array of pitchers hit safely at least once. The game ended when Fothergill humanely tapped into a double play with the bases full.

These things happened, neighbors, only 24 hours after the White Sox had participated in a 1 to 0 contest with the Yanks, in which the total hits for both teams were nine for ten bases, as contrasted with the merry grand total yesterday of 29 runs on 44 hits for 64 bases.

Yesterday's game showed at the very outset symptoms of being highly unusual. The first six batsmen hit safely, three of them getting doubles, yet only seven batsmen came up in the inning, though there was no double play. In this freak session the league champs were held to four runs because Foxx was caught napping off second and Haas was speared seeking to stretch a single to a double.

In their end of the first the Sox hopped on one Tony Freitas for three runs on a walk, a single by Selph, a double by Hodapp, and a single by Sullivan.

A's Begin to Get Rough.

In the second inning the A's got rough against Smith, who had relieved Faber in the first inning, and made three more runs on four singles.

The Sox refused to be discouraged, and might have tied or taken the lead but for the fact that Grube became confused and started running the bases backwards while they were full of base runners.

Kress opened the last half of the second with a double and Grube walked. Daglia, who had relieved Smith, popped to Williams but Funk walked, filling the bases. Hayes dropped the ball in front of Haas for

In the WAKE of the NEWS

GUSTO.

AFTER Gusto, practically unknown in the west and the east, too, for that matter, won the American Derby and $48,200 Saturday, the question naturally arose just how much class has this grandson of Man o' War? Turf lovers, of course, are still hoping some good colt will survive the havoc played by the 1932 series of bowed tendons.

So far as breeding is concerned, there is no bar sinister on the Gusto escutcheon. He is royally bred, as French Lane has pointed out to readers of these pages. Just a few more words about his daddy, American Flag. This son of Man o' War was generally accounted the best 3 year old of 1925, a year, like 1932, which did not seem to have outstanding performers. It was in 1925, you remember, that Coventry won the Preakness, and Flying Ebony, a field horse, with Sande aboard, won the Kentucky Derby. Both were under suspicion of unsound underpinning and never afterward reached great racing heights.

American Flag that year won the Belmont stakes at 1⅝ miles in 2:16 4-5, good but not sensational time. He won the Dwyer at 1¼ miles in 2:10 2-5, and the Withers mile in 1:38 1-5. It was his stake winnings of $68,350 that placed the Glen Riddle farm (Samuel D. Riddle) at the top of winning stables for the year with $199,143. It was interesting that of this amount all except $56,733 was earned by sons and daughters of Man o' War, a sire owned by Mr. Riddle.

Until the American Derby, about all Gusto could say was "Daddy was a great racer." Gusto started seven times as a 2 year old, winning one race of $700 value. That is something of a shock to those who expect good 3 year olds to come from 2 year old form.

Gusto was not nominated for the Kentucky Derby. He is eligible for the Arlington Classic. There he will have opportunity to answer the moot question of class against what is left of the 1932 3 year olds, which even before the season started were not highly appraised, with the possible exception of Top Flight.

GERMANY BACKS SCHMELING; HIS MOTHER AT RADIO

[Copyright, 1932, by the New York Times.]

BERLIN, June 20.—Germany is backing Max Schmeling in tomorrow's fight for a multitude of reasons much like those prompting mother to say: "My boy is sure to win and remain world champion." The experts, on form, above all, see in Schmeling a younger man in the full flushes of power.

Mrs. Amanda Schmeling, the German fighter's mother, will sit by a radio tomorrow and hold her thumbs, she declared.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The stars from the east will begin sweeping in on our Chicago turf scene today to battle for the championships that will be decided during Arlington Park's stake-race-a-day season, which opens next Monday and continues through the month of July.

The first to arrive will be the sensational Jamestown of a couple of seasons ago. He will pull in this morning from George D. Widener's Erdenheim farm in Pennsylvania. He is to try a comeback at Arlington after being away from the races for almost a year. He has worked so fast at Erdenheim his handlers believe he is as good as ever and his first objective will be the $5,000 added inaugural handicap at 7 furlongs on Monday.

Jamestown was a Futurity winner in 1930 and was generally rated as the champion juvenile of that season. Injuries sustained in training put him out of commission early last season.

Equipoise Is Coming, Too.

Following Jamestown into Chicago by a few hours will be Equipoise, unbeaten this year, "and able to carry 150 pounds and beat any horse in the world," according to an advance agent of the C. V. Whitney stable, who arrived to make plans for unloading of the big horse.

According to the Whitney stable battle plans, Equipoise will make his first Chicago start in the Stars and Stripes at Arlington, a $20,000 handicap, to be run on July 4. He will line up at the barrier with the best horses in America in this struggle. Following Equipoise to Arlington by a few days will be the world's money winning champion filly, Top Flight. She is traveling to Chicago from the east to make her bow to a Chicago crowd in the Arlington Oaks on July 2.

The $70,000 Arlington Classic and the Arlington Matron stakes are other parties which Top Flight expects to attend.

Parade Goes On and On.

The parade to Arlington from the east, from Washington Park and from every other racing center will continue throughout the week. It is bringing many new race goers into Chicago. This was very evident at Washington Park yesterday when the biggest week day crowd of the season watched Sundot, a California sprinter from the Northway stable, win the Bertha Bauer purse.

Sundot had to run the six furlongs in 1:12 2-5 and come from behind to get the decision by a length over Ervast, which also rallied in the stretch, had enough left to save third Backlog, which had raced Supreme Sweet into defeat at the head of stretch had enough left to save third money.

Sundot wasn't without his backers and paid $10 for a two dollar ticket.

Trainer Max Hirsch, who saddled Gusto, the American Derby winner on Saturday, was almost successful in putting over two big cleanups yesterday.

South Bend Conquers Youngstown, 9-4, in Opener

South Bend, Ind., June 20.—[Special.]—The South Bend Twins returned from a trip today to defeat Youngstown, 9 to 4, in the first game of the series.

Felber got four hits in five trips to the plate. Hospidor, Youngstown pitcher, was relieved by Beall after South Bend had scored six runs on six hits and two walks in the second inning.

Top Weight in Handicap on Gallant Knight

Gallant Knight will carry the heaviest package in the renewal of the Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap, the closing feature of Washington Park's season on Saturday. The weights were announced late yesterday and the Knight is asked to pick up 123 pounds. Mate also gets in at that mark but Owner Bostwick has not indicated that he will send Mate here for the race. Polydorus must pack 120 pounds.

Eight of the candidates including Gallant Knight are to race in the mile Great Northern Handicap this afternoon.

Gusto, the American Derby winner, will be sent to Arlington Park at once. He will travel to Cincinnati for the Latonia Derby on July 2 and will return to Arlington for the Classic to be run two weeks later. The Latonia Derby is at a mile and a half, and Trainer Hirsch thinks Gusto is better at that distance than he is at a mile and a quarter.

Trainers, jockeys and attendants will be exempt from the government tax on all race track badges which goes into effect today. The ruling was announced late yesterday. All others must pay the 10 per cent. The habitual pass hounds last night were weeping at the thought of paying the tax. Customers who pay their way at the gate didn't seem to be disturbed.

Audley farm uncovered another fine appearing 2 year old yesterday in Royal Blunder, a son of Bright Knight, which won the Mountain Laurel purse which opened the program at Washington Park. The crowd made E. R. Bradley's Broad Bill the favorite, but Royal Blunder whipped the Bradley youngster fairly handily in the run down the stretch.

Chicago to Pay Sports Tax of $4,235 Daily

Under the new law effective today the old 25 per cent tax on admissions of $5 and over is voided, and in its place the federal government will take a straight 10 per cent on all tickets over 40 cents and 10 per cent of the general admission prices on all passes. This tax extends to all branches of athletic endeavor, amateur and professional, and other amusements such as theaters, motion pictures and circuses.

College Fans Hit, Too.

It will affect collegiate athletic followers as well as professional sport fans, since the colleges, like the professional promoters, will pass the tax along to the customer, adding it to the cost of admission tickets.

Northwestern's four football games at Evanston next fall will cost Chicago fans $42,000 over the established price of admission tickets, Coach Dick Hanley estimated. Student books will be taxed 50 cents each, raising another $2,500 in federal revenue, Hanley said. Track admissions, based on last year's figures, will be increased $150 by the addition of the tax and basketball fans must pay approximately $1,500 more for the ten home games next season. This will aggregate $46,000 Northwestern will add to the price of athletic admission tickets next year to meet the federal revenue demands.

$14,000 on Midway.

A. A. Stagg, athletic director at the University of Chicago, estimated that followers of sports on the Midway would contribute another $14,000 to the government. Stagg based his estimate on athletic receipts of $140,000 for last year. This includes, in addition to the Maroon varsity contests, the interscholastic basketball and track meets and the Big Ten indoor track meet.

Former Hoosier Star to Coach at Lake Forest

Robert Correll, former basketball and baseball star at the University of Indiana, has been appointed assistant director of athletics at Lake Forest college, it was announced yesterday. Correll is the only four letter man in basketball Indiana ever had and was captain of one Big Ten Championship team. He was a leading hitter on the Hoosier nine and won three baseball letters. He finished at Indiana in 1931 and spent the last year doing graduate work in physical education. He will coach the varsity basketball and baseball teams at Lake Forest and will have charge of the freshman football squad.

Crowder Wins Pitchers' Duel from Ferrell.

Cleveland, O., June 20.—(AP)—The mercurial Cleveland Indians bobbed down again into fourth place in the American league standings today when Alvin Crowder of the Washington Senators bested Wes Ferrell in a pitching duel, 3 to 2. The Senators resumed their third place position. Ferrell held the Senators to five hits, but one was a home run in the fifth inning by Buddy Myer. It scored Judge, who drew the only pass of the game from the Cleveland pitcher.

TIGERS BEAT RED SOX, 6-4.

Detroit, Mich., June 20.—(AP)—Paul Andrews yielded three hits and a walk in two-thirds of the first inning today, and Detroit defeated the Boston Red Sox in a series opener, 6 to 4. Andrews was succeeded by Eddie Durham, who gave way to Jablonowski in the fifth after he had hurt his foot. Gehringer hit a home run in the third with none on base. Marty McManus, new Sox manager, argued a close decision at first base so fiercely that Umpire Owens sent him from the coaching box to the showers.

Gomez yielded only three hits while his teammates were able to bunch two of their four hits off Hebert in the seventh for the winning runs. Phils Chase Root in Second; Beat Cubs, 7-5 by Whitney's single on which Klein registered.

The Phils gave the Cubs a break by slipping them a run in the third. Jurges led off with a walk and Smith survived on Whitney's fumble. English fanned and Herman forced Smith, but in attempting a double play Malon threw wild, so Jurges ran home. Then the Cubs came up with two singles and a double in the fourth, but couldn't get a man around to the plate. The reason for this was that Moore grounded into a double play between singles by Stephenson and Grimm. Hemsley followed with the two bagger, putting Grimm on third, but Jurges fanned.

Phils Dent Wall Again.

Smith, although bothered occasionally by the bats of the bolsterous enemy, enjoyed pretty fair luck until the sixth. G. Davis put another dent in the already well marred right field tin wall with a two base liner. A sacrifice shoved him to third. Then Klein, instead of taking a shot at this favorite right field target, crossed the Cubs by spanking one over third for a double, G. Davis scoring. Klein tried to take advantage of Stephenson's throwing arm by heading for third on his hit, but he didn't make it. Smith quit the game by request right after this.

The little fuss stirred up by the Cubs in the ninth got under way on Moore's double with one out. He scored on a single to center by Grimm. A pass put Hemsley on base, whereupon Gudat took Jurges' place at bat and slapped one of Holley's pet twisters over the wall in right. This reduced the Phils' lead to a mere two runs, which isn't much on their cracker box premises, so Collins was sent in to pitch to Hack, who batted for Tinning. Hack wasn't looking when a third strike curved over. English's tap to the pitcher ended the game.

O'Shocker and Stecher Head Card Tonight

Joe Stecher, former heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, will open a comeback campaign tonight, meeting Pat O'Shocker of Utah in the main event of an outdoor show promoted by Joe Coffey at Marigold Gardens, Grace street at Broadway.

O'Shocker was a last minute substitution for Jim Chinkstock, Oklahoma Indian, who was injured yesterday in an automobile accident. In his most recent Chicago match, O'Shocker wrestled to a draw with George Zaharias.

McMillen Meets Garibaldi.

In the semi-windup Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois football player, will meet Gino Garibaldi, who lost to Jim Londos at Wrigley field recently.

Other matches follow: Wee Willie Davis of Texas vs. Rudy Dusek, Omaha; Hans Steinke, 6 foot 6 inch German, vs. Lou Plummer, former Notre Dame athlete, and George Tragos vs. Hans Baur.

In case of rain the bouts will be moved inside.

Stecher's performance tonight will throw considerable light on his future prospects. Stecher, master of the body scissors, must win tonight's match to get a chance at other contenders for the title.

Joe Is Confident.

Stecher is confident. He declared yesterday that he believed himself in the best condition of his career. Stecher has been out of competition for a year and a half because of illness.

BENGE VS. MALONE TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 20.—The Cubs expect to have a job on their hands tomorrow afternoon. They'll have to hit against Ray Benge. Pat Malone will be Hornsby's starter.

Bill Jurges doesn't rate very high in the batting averages, even among a light hitting squad like the Cubs, but he has one distinction. He is just about leading the team in the matter of driving runs across the plate.

Cliff Heathcote, for years a Cub, who was recently released by the Reds, blossomed out today in a Phil uniform. He was signed as soon as room could be made by dispensing with Rube Bressler's services.

The 10 per cent government tax which goes into effect on amusements tomorrow is going to cause the ball clubs a lot of extra work. Extra booths will have to be established to dispense tax tickets on passes. Players' wives who usually occupy box seats, will contribute fifteen cents daily to Uncle Sam.

The Cubs looked like the Brooklyn Dodgers in the first inning. They couldn't score on a double, single and wild pitch. Herman furnished the double and was an easy out when Coach Corriden sent him home on Cuyler's single to right. Cuyler took second on a wild pitch and Holley stabbed a hard line drive by Stephenson.

Judging by their noise, the fans are all worked up over the Phils being in the first division but not many of them seem to be in this mood. There were only about 4,000 of them on hand today to see the locals win their eighth game in thirteen starts against the western teams.

Macks Crush Sox in Wild Game, 18-11

a normal single. Kress scored from third, but Grube, spurred on by Coach Butler, started running in the wrong direction, greatly congesting the base lines. Eventually Haas got the ball and started it on its way to Dykes at third. So Hayes' hit became no hit and the play was recorded as a force-out, much to the consternation of the Comiskey staff.

The bases again were full when Selph walked, but Fothergill, who during the day was at bat with twelve men on base, forced Selph for the third out.

The score became 7 to 6 in the fifth. In the fourth Grube tripled and ran in the right direction on Hayes' single and in the next inning Hodapp's double and Sullivan's single were good for run No. 6.

"Go Ahead," Signals Connie.

With two out in the sixth Connie Mack flashed the go-ahead sign and his charges forthwith responded with a batch of six runs, the bulk of which was supplied by Haas when he drove the ball into the right field stand with the bases full.

In the seventh Foxx's homer with Williams and Simmons on base set the score at 16 to 6, but in the Sox half singles by Hodapp, Sullivan and Grube filled the bases, after which Appling cleared them with a triple to right. Luke scored on Funk's out.

Four singles off Caraway in the eighth were good for two runs before Arthur Evans, rookie lefty, took charge and put out the fire for the rest of the day.

With one out in the ninth Appling, Funk, Hayes and Selph singled successively. This got the one run home and the bases full, after which Fothergill ended the rioting by hitting into a double play.

Gaston Opposes Walberg Today in Second with A's

The A's and the Sox will try to be a little more orderly this afternoon. Gaston and Walberg were the overnight pitching selections.

Lefty Grove probably will not appear in the series. He's suffering from a sore ankle.

The Sox management yesterday issued a bulletin relative to the new tax schedule effective today. Bleacher seats will be 55 cents, grand stand tickets $1.10, and box seats $1.65. Here is the part of the bulletin pertaining to pass holders and ladies' day guests:

All grand stand passes will carry a tax of 10 cents, which will be collected at the pass gate at the time one passes through the turnstile.

This ten cent tax also includes passes on ladies' days, as well as a ten cent tax on all admissions to children over 12 years of age.

Much is being said about the talents of the Sox new lefty, Arthur Evans. In his first appearance yesterday he was the only one of eight pitchers who didn't get his ears pinned back.

Foxx is the only right hand batter who ever has hit a baseball out of Comiskey park. He has done it three times. Gehrig and Ruth are the others who have done it during the five and a third years the present architecture has been in existence.

California U. Eight Wins at Poughkeepsie

as Cornell, Washington, Navy and Syracuse battled it out.

The boys from the Golden Gate, aloof, not to say detached, watched this struggle in the ruck and when Cornell emerged to challenge they answered like carsmen and racers.

California has been looking forward to this race and the Olympic struggles beyond since the first shell was launched on the Oakland slough last winter. Since that day the carsmen's eyes have been on the heights, and placards in their boathouse have broadcast the legend, "California's crew for California's Olympic games." The Bears haven't won the right to row in their own Olympics yet, but who in the light of what happened today is going to deny that they will win it?

Certainly not one man or woman of the thousands who saw the dress parade this evening, who crawled along the highland shore on the abbreviated observation train, who leaned over rails afloat, or picnicked on the shore or clung to the girders of the towering railroad bridge.

Fighting a determined California crew for supremacy in the junior varsity race and coasting into a comparatively easy victory in the freshman test, Syracuse swept both minor events.

California Crew Follows Orders; Leads All the Way

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 20.—(AP)—California won the varsity boat race on the Hudson today exactly as it had been planned, Head Coach Carroll (Ky) Ebright declared.

"They were told simply to go out and take the lead and hold it at any cost," Ebright said. "The boys obeyed instructions explicitly. Their beat averaged 32 to the minute until the finish, when they were rowing 40."

Ebright said his crew would remain in training quarters here, in preparation for the Olympic trials, to be held on Lake Quinsigamond, near Worcester, Mass., early in July. The Olympic distance is 2,000 meters, approximately one mile and a quarter.

Juniors Play Near Par Golf at Ravisloe

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago District Golf association's junior medal event yesterday at the Ravisloe Country club dissipated any thoughts concerning scarcity of stars in these parts within the next four or five years. When boys ranging in age from 16 to 20 years, many of them playing only their second or third year, can come within three or four strokes of par, decorating their cards with a birdie here and there, there's no need to fret about whether the next generation of experts will be as able as the present.

Robert Bohnen of Midlothian, who captained the University of Chicago team this year, was the leader in class B, the boys over 18 who have not reached their twentieth birthday, with a card of 73—81—154 for the 36 holes, and E. O. Schildberg, a bespectacled junior who is building up his game at North Shore, won in class A, for boys under 18, with 83—78—161.

Caldanaro Loses in Playoff.

Schildberg wasn't the only class A shooter who submitted a 161, however. Reno Caldanaro of Calumet dpullicated his card, but lost to Schildberg in the playoff for the prize, taking a 7 to the north sider's par 4 on the first hole. A tie for second place in class B between Bobby Ascher of Ravisloe and Carl Toscani of Wilmette also necessitated a playoff, which went three holes before Bobby won, with 4—6—5 against Carl's 4—6—6. They had finished the regular rounds with cards of 156.

Sixty-nine embryo Lehmans and Westlands competed in the event, which was regarded as a tuneup for the C. D. G. A. junior championship, to be held at Mission Hills July 18, 19, and 20. A majority of the field yesterday will enter the championship tournament.

Bohnen's 73 Is Best Round.

Bohnen shot the best round of the day, a 73, in the morning. He was out in 38 and back in 35, to be three strokes over par. He sank a 15 foot putt for a birdie on the fifth, but was two over par on the eighth, where his drive struck a tree and he three putted. He drove the 235 yard 11th to within seven feet of the cup, and holed out for another birdie. He made his third under par hole on the 12th by holing out a 50 footer across the green. He took an 81 in the afternoon by poor putting on the last nine after going out in 33. His morning card:

Par out.....455 343 344—35
Bohnen out.....556 333 364—38
Bohnen in.....423 653 444—35—73

Roman Porter Gets 74.

The next best effort was submitted by Roman Porter, competing in class B from Ridgemoor, who had a 74 in the afternoon, following a morning 83. He sank a ten foot putt for his birdie on the tenth and added another by holing out a 15 yard chip shot at the 17th. Leading scores follow:

Miller and Ross Sign for Sparta Feature July 14

Ray Miller and Barney Ross, Chicago lightweight boxers, signed yesterday to meet at Sparta stadium, Thursday, July 14, by Al Miller, matchmaker for the West Side Boxing club. Tommy Grogan, Omaha fighter, is unable to battle Ross on the west side June 30. Al plans on matching 20 Chicago boxers in four round bouts on that date. Ray Miller will leave tonight for Des Moines, Ia., where he faces Eddie Anderson Thursday.

Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, will go to Los Angeles today to visit his mother. He will train there for his title bout with Young Corbett at San Francisco Aug. 27.

Les Marriner, former University of Illinois football player, is training for speed as well as punching power for his ten round bout with Charley Retzlaff, Duluth, Minn., heavyweight, at White City next Tuesday night. At the Arcade gymnasium yesterday he boxed several rounds with Virgil Bemi, featherweight, and Scott Marriner Jr., heavyweight. Retzlaff will return tomorrow from New York to resume workouts.

3 Americans Win Matches at Wimbledon

BY EUGENE SPECK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 20.—Wimbledon's 52d tennis championship opened today in the worst weather the tournament has met since the war, but with the promise of more good tennis than has been seen in nearly as long a time.

Many spectators are looking for upsets. Much interest was displayed in the first appearance of Ellsworth Vines, American champion, who was defeated in the London championships five days previously. All the favorites came through today, however, with three set victories.

Vines, with a blistered right hand, played in the center court against Emanuel Du Plaix, ranked eighth in France. He started with an ace on his service and won, 7-5, 6-3, 6-4.

Sidney Wood, defending his world's tennis crown, beat A. M. Wedd, an unknown Briton, 6-2, 6-2, 8-6, on the same court, and Henri Cochet, veteran Frenchman, disposed of P. H. Partridge, another unknown Briton, 7-5, 6-3, 6-2.

Jean Borotra appeared in the third match on the center court and went five sets against his young countryman, Andre Merlin, winning 0-6, 6-1, 1-6, 6-4, 6-2.

One other American played today, Gregory Mangin smothered L. L. Hecht of Czechoslovakia, 6-1, 6-0, 6-3.

Two seeded Englishmen won their matches, Fred Perry beating another Englishman, G. O. Jameson, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4, and Bunny Austin besting M. A. Young, 6-2, 9-7, 6-3.

The American delegation swings into action in force tomorrow with Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, Frank Shields, Johnny Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison playing their first matches.

Loafing Only Sign Hung Up by These Trout

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fox River, Upper Peninsula, Mich., June 20.—The trout streams are low, mosquitoes are a-hummin', bowers decorate the forest trails, the does are busy watching over their fawns, wall eyed pike have been hitting like a house afire, and except for a few songs from the white throated sparrows, song sparrows, and the evening concert of the wood thrush, the bird voices are quiet. The north country now is knee deep in June. The fishing season is on in full swing here in the upper peninsula where Lake Michigan rolls up from the south and Lake Superior presses against the north boundary.

After holding a typical loop conference this morning it was decided to fish the big Fox river for brook trout. With Alex Macklin, a veteran stream fisherman of the town of Germfask, in the driver's seat of the automobile, we checked out of Blaney and burried north with everything from motoring helmets to dry flies.

Losing the toss of the coin to decide where each of us would fish the Fox we had to hike downstream before stepping in the swift current, while Norwood Bard of Highland Park, Ill., walked down the hill and started in near the car. Since we had fished the Driggs, the little Fox, and Sucker rivers in this territory we wadod into the big Fox with high expectations. It is a dandy stream for fly casting, with the width and deep holes that permit easy rod work and plenty of cover for big trout. The stream swings around bends, cuts deep under the alders or slides under dead snags to give trout wonderful loafing spots.

But as far as we could determine by tossing a Cahill, Black Gnat, Grub Gray, Coachman, Grizzly King, and many other fly patterns the trout certainly were using the loafing spots for no other purpose.

We managed to draw a few trout from out of their loafing spots before all of us met again at the car, where we crawled under cover because of a heavy thunder shower which deluged the sand plains. It remained for old Alex to furnish exhibit A on what the Fox can do in the way of trout production. Using bait he creeled a brook trout weighing more than a pound. But he came in mournfully telling about the big brother of this husky fish which he hooked, saw several times, and then lost.

NONFOUL RULE IS ORDERED FOR LEVINSKY, BAER

RENO, Nev., June 20.—(AP)—Rules announced today for the King Levinsky-Max Baer heavyweight fight here July 4 provide that no claims of fouls will be allowed.

Leaping Lena Levy, sister of Levinsky, and Ancil Hoffman, acting for Baer, agreed to permit the fighters to battle under practically the same conditions that prevailed for the Jack Johnson-Jim Jeffries and the Battling Nelson-Joe Gans fights, two of the outstanding contests of Nevada's ring history. The referee will be the sole judge of the fitness of the fighters.

GERMANY FINDS A HEAVYWEIGHT WITH K. O. PUNCH

Completes Team to Battle Chicago Boxers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 20.—The list of amateur boxing champions of Germany is complete. Tonight four more fighters won places on the squad which sails July 9 from Bremen for New York, and which will face the Golden Gloves team in Soldiers' field, Chicago, July 26, in the second international bouts sponsored by THE TRIBUNE.

Start Training within Week.

The team will start preliminary training in Berlin within a week. It is planned to have the boys arrive in Chicago not later than July 17, which will permit a week of intensive training before the international fights.

The national tournament was completed April 1, but tonight's bouts ended a series of tests of the champions against the best fighters in each division. The caliber of the German squad is indicated in that only four of the champions were able to retain their positions on the squad which will visit America.

PEOPLES GAS, EDISON READY TO OFFER BONDS

Will Be First of Seventy Million Issue.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The first of the $70,000,000 of bonds which the operating companies formerly controlled by Samuel Insull have been authorized to sell will be offered publicly early next week. The first offering will be either $18,000,000 of Commonwealth Edison bonds or $20,000,000 of Peoples Gas Light and Coke company liens.

If, as is probable, the Edison issue is brought out first, the banks will follow a few days later with the Peoples Gas offering. The largest of the three offerings, $32,000,000 of first lien and refunding mortgages of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, will be marketed last.

The length of time between the offerings will depend on the receptivity of the market to the first issue. According to present plans, the banks hope to be able to bring out the second issue a few days after the initial offering. If the bonds are quickly sold the Public Service issue will follow shortly.

In connection with the financing plans it was learned that the results of the bank audit of each property will be made public when the bonds are offered. An audit of each of the companies was recently completed by Arthur Anderson & Co. and Arthur Young & Co. for the bankers.

Would Reduce Surplus.

While the details of the financial survey have not been made public, it is known that the auditors recommended a combined surplus writeoff of approximately 90 million dollars for the three companies. Under the auditors' recommendations the surplus of the Edison company was to be written down $44,503,000, the surplus of Peoples Gas was to be reduced $28,400,000, and Public Service company was to wipe $17,385,000 off the slate. These suggestions would reduce the combined surpluses to approximately $7,200,000.

The banking syndicate which will offer the bonds will include the leading New York and Chicago institutions which have an interest at stake in the welfare of the properties. These include the Continental Illinois, the First National, and the Central Republic in Chicago and several of New York's leading financial houses. Halsey, Stuart & Co., Chicago investment banking firm, which in the past has headed the syndicates offering Insull securities, will be a member of the present offering group. This house, however, will not head the group.

The prices at which the bonds will be offered have not been announced. It is expected that prices on the latter offerings will depend on the success of the first campaign. The bonds are all long term issues. The Edison bonds carry coupons of 5½ per cent and will run for thirty-three years. Out of the proceeds and its current resources the company will be able to meet its maturity of $20,000,000 in short term notes which fall due July 30.

Also at 5½ Per Cent.

The $20,000,000 Peoples Gas first lien and refunding issue also carries a coupon of 5½ per cent and will mature in 25 years. The gas company has $15,000,000 of 3½ per cent notes falling due July 30.

The Public Service bonds carry the highest coupon rate. The lien bears 6½ per cent interest and will fall due in twenty years. The contemplated offering is substantially in excess of the company's nearby debt maturities which amount to $17,300,000 in the next three months. The balance of the proceeds from the $32,000,000 issue will be used to finance the purchase of property, some of which already has been acquired. Where the expenditures have already been made the new money will be used to reimburse the company's treasury.

City Takes No Part.

Corporation Counsel Sexton indicated yesterday that the city will take no part in the fight being waged by the Utility Consumers and Investors' league of Illinois over the issuance of $70,000,000 in bonds by the "Insull" utilities. In an opinion given to the city council committee on judiciary, Mr. Sexton said that the city was interested in the rates and services of the utilities but not in the issuance of securities. The league, which criticized the orders authorizing the issue of the bonds, had requested the city to intervene.

Companies Report Steady Buying of Life Insurance

Hartford, Conn., June 20.—Sales of ordinary life insurance during May, although experiencing the downward trend of general business, nevertheless represent a substantial volume of new insurance. In every working day during the last month the people of the United States purchased about $25,000,000 of new insurance. Assuming an average policy of $3,000, this means that over 8,000 people bought life insurance.

GERMAN BONDS ADVANCE AGAIN AS TRADE LAGS

Domestic Issues Move in Indecisive Manner.

New York, June 20.—(AP)—The bond market idled through another indecisive session today with minor losses and gains about evenly balanced at the close of the day's proceedings.

While the German government 5½s and 7s, together with both Austrian 7s, were rather heavily traded at gains of from 1 to 3½ points, and a number of low priced rails advanced moderately, the averages for the utilities and industrials were slightly under their Saturday's figures.

The Germans drew their vitality from hopes of a more or less happy outcome of the important Lausanne conference. The rails were aided by the rather nebulous reports that the Reconstruction Finance corporation would be authorized to advance funds to various carriers for the pur

NEW U. S. TAXES WILL BE PASSED TO CONSUMERS

Fourth of Imposts Fall on Autoists.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Manufacturers of several commodities on which the new federal taxes are imposed, beginning today, made price increases yesterday. In this manner the new taxes will be passed on to the consumer. In other cases, part or all of the new taxes may be absorbed by the manufacturer and jobber, although in such cases the taxes are relatively small.

About one-quarter of the additional taxes will fall on the automotive and petroleum industries. The fact that users of motor vehicles will pay the taxes on gasoline and lubricating oil will be made clear to them by the price methods announced last night by the principal companies.

Gas Price Advanced.

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana announced that the price of gasoline has been advanced 1 1-10 cents a gallon. The cent is to cover the new tax on motor fuel and the one-tenth of a cent is to cover in part the tax on pipeline transportation of oil and the expense of collecting the taxes, including credit losses of taxes paid in advance of collection. Lubricating oil will be advanced a cent a quart or 4 cents a gallon to cover the new tax on that product.

"Service station attendants will explain in connection with retail sales that the increase in prices is to cover the new federal taxes," the announcement said. "In connection with tank car wholesale or quantity sales of all taxed products, the company will show separately on the ticket or invoice the amount added for tax and this amount will not be subject to discount."

Tire Prices Advanced.

A number of the tire companies announced price advances ranging from 11 to 15 per cent to cover the new taxes of 2¼ cents a pound on casing and 4 cents a pound on tubes. Roughly, these payments represent about 10 per cent, so the manufacturers may have a bit left over for additional sales profits. However, one of the large manufacturers declined to join the movement to increase prices. Similarly, several large soap manufacturers have advanced prices to cover part of the 1 per cent tax, while others absorb the tax.

Buyers of new cars will pay three per cent of the cost while there will be taxes on repairs of 2 per cent of the cost of the new parts and a tire poundage tax of 2½ cents on casings and 4 cents on tubes.

The prospective home brewer will pay 15 per cent a gallon on brewer's wort, and 3 cents a pound on malt, while the amateur vintner will pay 20 cents a gallon on grape concentrates. For making commercial results from such taxable articles, there may be the additional application of the Jones 5 and 10 law.

It is interesting that the tax on tires and tubes is about as much as the cost of the rubber that goes into them. Crude rubber now is selling around 2¾ cents a pound, compared with about 5 cents at the end of last year and the high level of $1.25 a pound in 1925. Last year the leading American tire manufacturers had aggregate sales of around $550,000,000. The new taxes are expected to produce $33,000,000 a year.

"BURDEN TO FARMER"

Trading on grain and commodity exchanges will have to pay a higher tax to the government on the basis of 5c instead of 1c on every $100 valuation commencing today.

S. C. Harris, vice president of the Chicago Board of Trade, in referring to the tax says:

"It is well to remember that a hedger who is forced to give away a quarter of a cent every time he hedges a purchase of cash wheat must eventually pass that charge to the producer or consumer. The margin of handling already is so small that the middleman cannot possibly absorb the increased cost and make any fair return on his investment.

"Inasmuch as our prices are competitive with other countries, due to an exportable surplus, this simply means that the cost will come out of the producer rather than the consumer.

"Farmer to Pay."

"In short, the farmer, who already is staggering under the burden of taxation, which he cannot support without threat of bankruptcy, is called on to take on an additional burden created by the need of our government for additional taxes. That need, in turn, is based upon a cost of functioning which is prohibitive in view of present conditions and can only result in strangulation of business and industry if long continued. Our own interests naturally center upon our own tax because it seems too absolutely unjustifiable and inequitable, but the whole question of taxation is broader than this particular item and gets back to the absolute necessity of slashing government costs not with a penknife but with an ax."

There is no change on bids of any kinds, bought or sold. On daily of-

Toll Bridge Deficits Hint Fate of Proposed Loans

BY SCRUTATOR.

What is meant by a "self-liquidating" construction project?

The proposal has been made that the powers of the Reconstruction Finance corporation be enlarged to permit the corporation to lend money on such "self-liquidating" projects as toll bridges and tunnels.

If toll bridges and tunnels are typical of the projects that come under this head, then it is quite clear that the word "self-liquidating" doesn't mean what it says.

More About Toll Bridges.

On June 1, 1931, there were 309 toll bridges in operation in the United States and 40 others under construction. Of these, 22 per cent were publicly owned and 78 per cent were privately owned, a great many of the latter group having securities outstanding with the public.

It should not be unfair to assume that the best sites for profitable toll bridges already have been built upon. This question, therefore, arises:

Where can there be built additional toll bridges that will be "self-liquidating" as the ordinary business man understands the word? In other words, where can you build bridges that will earn enough to cover operating expenses, a fair interest rate on the invested capital, and leave enough to amortize the investment at least by the time the structure is worn out?

Of the 300 odd toll bridges already in operation a large number are in receivership or are piling up deficits.

Detroit has a $20,000,000 bridge and a $25,000,000 tunnel, both brand new and both in default as to interest payments.

The Cairo Bridge and Terminal company operating the new mile long bridge between Cairo, Ill., and Birds Point, Mo., in April was placed in receivership after defaulting on interest payments.

The Alton-St. Louis Bridge company has reported a deficit every year. Cape Girardeau Bridge company opened its new 4,750 foot bridge across the Mississippi at Cape Girardeau, Mo., in September, 1928, and on July 1, 1929, defaulted on interest.

Chain of Rocks, Kings Highway Bridge company completed a bridge from St. Louis, Mo., to Mitchell, Ill., in October, 1928, and the April 15, 1931, interest was defaulted.

Last December Clarksburg-Columbus Short Route Bridge company, which operates a bridge across the Ohio river at Newport, O., failed to pay interest. Cooper River Bridge, Inc., owning a bridge at Charleston, S. C., reported net loss of $50,000, before depreciation, for 1931. Interstate Bridge company's span across the Ohio in the suburbs of Wheeling, W. Va., lost money last year and the year before.

Mount Hope Bridge company's bondholders have submitted a reorganization plan. Ocean City Coastal Highway Bridge company lost $21,000 last year and $23,000 in 1930.

Some Earn Money.

Some of the most favorably situated toll bridges have continued to earn money. Tacony-Palmyra Bridge company earned its fixed charges 2.26 times last year. Sandusky Bay Bridge company netted $43,000. Buffalo and Fort Erie Public Bridge company earned $214,000, and Arrowhead Bridge company at Duluth earned $30,000.

Results indicate, however, that there are already more toll bridges than the tolls will support comfortably. Many so-called self-liquidating works in the end would have to be paid for out of additional taxes.

GOLD EXPORTS HALT; STERLING RATE LOWER

Dollar Shows Greater Strength.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 20.—The international gold movement was at an absolute standstill today as far as the United States was concerned. The New York Federal Reserve bank reported there were no exports, no imports and no change in "earmarked" gold, which is gold set aside for foreign account.

The American dollar continued today to demonstrate increasing strength in relation to European currencies. Both sterling and French francs declined to new lows for the current movement.

Sterling Exchange Lower.

Sterling fell 1½ cents to 3.60½, but recovered to 3.61, which was lower than at any time since its frenzied advance on March 8. French francs declined more than one-half point to .0392½, but steadied above that point. There was little trading in Swiss or guilders. Guilders and Swiss francs also were lower.

Futures in both sterling and francs were low, with ninety day deliveries in sterling at 1½ cents and in francs at 2 points. The movement was ascribed to continued European liquidation of the previous long position in sterling, which had been held for a rise, coupled, possibly, with some short selling of that currency also in Europe.

Doubt Political Meaning.

Dealers regarded the movement as owing to the technical position and not connected with present political or financial developments. A fair amount of sterling was offered, but there was a small turnover owing to lack of bids. Indications were that a fair sized order to sell would have broken the price at least a few cents.

Domestic money markets were dull at the recent low rates. Business in bankers' bills was less than normal on a Monday and the Federal Reserve bank continued out of the market.

Spain Will Not Take Gold.

MADRID, June 20.—(AP)—Gov. Carabias of the Bank of Spain, said today Spain is not considering recalling its gold deposits in foreign countries. The recent betterment of the peseta, he said, was traceable to reëstablishment of public confidence and he added he believed the bank's next dividend would be "fruitful."

CHICAGO STOCK ACTIVITY MAKES NEW LOW MARK

Speculative activity hit a new low mark for recent years on the Chicago exchange yesterday. Transactions amounted to 15,000 shares, the smallest turnover since July 5, 1927.

The market was steady with final quotations representing little or no change from last week's closing prices. Board markers chalked up moderate gains for Commonwealth Edison, Swift International, and Quaker Oats common. The "new low" category also had a few recruits, including E. L. Bruce and Modine Manufacturing.

Associated Telephone Reports Increased Gross

Associated Telephone Utilities company, the largest unit in the independent telephone field, reports larger gross earnings for the twelve months ended April 30 than for the preceding twelve months. Gross for the period was $17,301,540 compared with $16,221,038. Balance before depreciation was $2,828,159 compared with $3,344,615.

B. M. T. Omits Dividend on Its Common

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 20.—Directors of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit corporation this afternoon voted to omit the quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the common stock, due at this time. Although the company is earning its dividend almost twice over at this quarterly rate, the necessity for meeting a maturity of $13,500,000 Aug. 1 on secured notes impelled the directors to take this action. The $1 quarterly rate had been in force since January, 1926.

Votes Regular Dividend.

The board declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the preferred stock. In taking this action the directors deviated from their usual custom of making provision for a full year's dividends on the preferred at the June dividend meeting. This has been done because of a provision in the New York Stock exchange listing agreement under which the directors are required to provide for dividends for the entire fiscal year on the preferred before anything can be paid on the common. Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit's fiscal year begins July 1.

By omitting dividends on the common the company will save $3,079,644 a year, a sum sufficient to amortize the $13,500,000 debt, now represented by a note issue, over a period of approximately three and a half years. Preferred dividends call for $1,500,000 a year.

Cuts Its Dividends.

The Standard Power and Light corporation declared a dividend of 30 cents on the common and common B stocks. Previously 50 cents was paid on the issues. Standard Power and Light corporation is controlled jointly by United States Electric Power corporation and H. M. Byllesby & Co. United States Electric owns 1,222,298 shares of the 1,320,000 common shares outstanding and the Byllesby company owns 330,000 shares of the 440,000 series B common shares.

Standard Power and Light, according to the latest available report, owned 1,160,000 shares of Standard Gas and Electric company common out of the 2,162,607 shares outstanding. Last week directors of Standard Gas and Electric reduced the quarterly dividend rate on their common stock from 87½ cents a share to 50 cents a share.

The Universal Leaf Tobacco company declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common, placing the stock on a $2 basis, as compared with 75 cents quarterly paid previously, or a $3 basis. The company also declared the usual quarterly dividend of $2 a share on the preferred. Directors decided to declare extra dividends as earnings justify.

Omits Preferred Payment.

The Wellman Engineering company omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.75 on preferred stock, due at this time. The Stanley Works of New Britain declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents. In the previous quarter a dividend of 37½ cents was paid. The Cincinnati Street Railway company declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents. In the two previous quarters 50 cents was paid, prior to which the stock was on a $3 annual basis.

The United States Verde Extension Mining company declared a dividend of 10 cents. In the previous quarter a dividend of 12½ cents was paid. The C. M. Hall Lamp company declared a dividend of 5 cents. No dividend was paid three months ago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 20.—Business on the stock exchange was virtually at a vanishing point today. There was little change in prices, a few of the leading stocks melting a point or two from sheer boredom. The day's transactions aggregated 388,165 shares, which set a new record for dullness in the present bear market. It was the smallest full day volume since June, 1924, when there was a turnover of 310,000 shares.

The utter lack of inspiring weekend news, the sterility of developments today, and the concerted opinion of the trading fraternity that the present time is one for careful waiting tended to keep the market in an extremely narrow range, almost entirely devoid of any imagination.

Until along toward the close the stocks managed to hold fairly steady

WILL YOUR ESTATE BE TAXED TWICE?

Mr. A died leaving all of his property to his wife. It was subject to a large state inheritance tax. Less than a year later Mrs. A died. The same property was taxed again.

Had Mr. A created a trust under his will, leaving his wife a life interest, there would have been no double tax. This is but one phase of the numerous problems requiring foresight and planning in connection with your estate.

Our trust officers will be glad to consult with you and your attorney.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 5,000; hogs, 15,000; sheep, 11,000.

Cattle and hogs advanced to higher price levels in spirited fashion when available supplies fell short again yesterday and indications pointed to another light run for today. Top cattle soared to $8.00 on opening rounds, the highest since May 10, and it was necessary to go back to last January files to dig up a higher bulk of sales.

Hogs pushed by the $4.00 mark with little effort. The peak at $4.10 shows a gain of 80c since the low spot was established about three weeks ago. Most sales are 35@40c above a week ago, standing highest in about two months. The current upturn in hog prices is the sharpest since early last March. At that time a cold spell and snowstorms brought on a sharp rise. Sultry weather the last two weeks has retarded the demand for pork and wholesale prices are not keeping pace with the advance in live costs.

Hog Receipts Are Light.

Receipts of hogs at 25,000 were equal to the lightest for Monday since last September. Buyers soon discovered that the available supply was below requirements and lively competition developed for top classes. A feature of the trade was the good showing made by lightest weights which three weeks ago were neglected and discounted in price. Advances in all classes amounted to 10@15c, but the most urgent orders called for choice grades weighing 170 lbs. and below. The shortage of these soon swung orders into the medium and heavy classes and at the close buyers were scouring the yards for numbers, regardless of weight. Only 3,000 pen holders remained at the close. During the last ten days daily holdovers at Chicago have been down to 2,000 to 4,500. Early in April holdovers ran largely from 7,000 to 10,000.

Buyers considered top grades of cattle relatively the cheapest yesterday after last week's sharp advance of common to medium grades had raised the latter out of line with the top quotations. Brisk competition developed for steers selling at $7.50 and above, with the result that as large a proportion sold above $7.00 as below that figure. A range of $7.50@7.85 was popular all over the yards for well finished 900@1,500 lb steers. Several sales of yearlings and steers were made at $7.90, while a carload of Nebraska steers averaging 1,277 lbs sold to an eastern representative at $8.00.

Idaho Lambs at $7.00.

The first Idaho range lambs of the season were here Monday and sold at $7.00. Quality of the lambs was the best seen in the first shipment of rangers in many years. This substantiates reports that range conditions are unusually good in the west this spring. Idahos are coming later than usual.

BRITAIN AND ITALY SAID TO AGREE TO LOAN FOR AUSTRIA

[Copyright: 1932; By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, June 20.—The league of nations committee of thirteen sent a note to the governments of Britain, Italy, France, and Germany today declaring it urgently recommended a 300,000,000 schilling [$42,000,000] loan to Austria to stabilize the currency. The committee asked for a reply by Thursday, because it is reported Austria has served warning that it would otherwise formally declare a moratorium then on the previous league loan.

That would mean that the above and other governments which guaranteed that loan would have to pay its service. The present project seems to involve little more actual cash than this. Hopes for its success are thus based on the belief that the guarantor governments will prefer to lend this cash to Austria rather than pay it outright to bondholders. It is understood Britain and Italy already have accepted.

Austrian Leader Hopeful.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, June 20.—Chancellor Engelbert Dollfus departed late tonight for Lausanne to be present when the final decisions are taken on the much needed financial help to Austria by the big powers. Contrary to pessimism on former departures for similar purposes, Dollfus was optimistic as to the outcome at Lausanne.

WHEAT, CORN RISE; HIGHER TAX ON TODAY

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The shadow of the new government tax of 5c per $100 imposed on operations on commodity exchanges which goes into effect today fell over the grain markets yesterday with a material contraction in general business. Except for fair activity at the opening and again at the close, operations in the pit were featureless and the buying and selling largely were by professional operators.

Pit brokers say that there has been considerable evening up of trades on both sides of the wheat market recently in anticipation of restricted operations. On the basis of 50c per bu for wheat the tax would amount to $1.25 on the sale of 5,000 bu, an amount which the trade regards as practically confiscation.

Wheat Prices Higher.

Reports of as much as 6 inches of rain in parts of Kansas, with heavy rains in some sections of Oklahoma and Missouri, with a belief that harvest would be delayed and that considerable damage might have been done, led to scattered local and commission house buying of wheat yesterday. Strength in Liverpool was also a factor. Prices moved up around 1½c over Saturday's finish, with old July selling at 49¾c on the advance. Sellers of offers were forced to protect themselves, but the finish was on a reaction due to evening up on the part of the pit element, and the close was ⅝@1¾c higher, with December leading. Old July finished at 48¾c; old September, 51⅞c, and December, 54⅝@54½c.

What will have on the price paid for the farmers' grain is regarded as somewhat of a mystery by the traders, but a majority of operators assert that the markets will be in no position to absorb any material amount of hedging pressure, due to the light trade.

Movement of new wheat is increasing rapidly in the southwest. Enid, Okla., had 220 cars of wheat Monday, practically all new grain, while Fort Worth, Tex., had 85 cars, of which about 80 per cent was new. Wichita, Kas., reported 75 cars new out of total arrivals of 237 cars. Owing to the fact that wheat was dead ripe in parts of Kansas and Oklahoma and ready for the combine, the trade believed there would be more or less loss from the heavy rain, hail and windstorm.

Expect Slow Movement.

According to reports from railroad officials much wheat in the southwest will be cut with binders and held in stacks without threshing until it can be determined whether it will be profitable to market the grain. This policy is regarded as likely to be followed in other sections of the country, as well as with other grains, unless prices advance.

Spreading operations between Chicago and Winnipeg, the latter being bought, furnished part of the trade in wheat yesterday. The Canadian market closed ⅞@1c higher, with July at 55c in Canadian funds, which were at 14 per cent discount. Liverpool closed 1@1¼c higher, with July at 51⅝c, or 2c over Chicago at the time. Export demand was limited.

Corn Prices Advance.

There was no material pressure on the corn market and scattered local buying caused a higher range, with the finish at net gains of ⅝@1c July closed at 30¼c; September, 32¼@32⅝c, and December, 32½c. Shipping demand was slow, with sales of 16,000 bu, while only 11,000 bu were booked to arrive from the country.

A fair trade was in evidence in oats with the northwest selling the distant positions. There was also changing over from the July to the December at 2c difference. Closing trades were ⅝@⅞c higher, with July, 20⅝c; September, 21c, and December, 23c.

Around 300,000 bu No. 2 Canadian rye was reported as having been sold for export yesterday, but the business failed to have much effect on futures. The close was ⅝@½c higher, with July 30c; September, 32¾c, and December, 36c.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, June 20.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw, was steady and unchanged today at 2.90c for spots. Refiners continued to show interest at this level and absorbed about 68,000 bags of Cuban for prompt shipment, and 31,000 bags of Porto Rican and 9,000 bags of Philippines for first half July arrival. In addition there was a sale of 3,750 bags of Cuban from store to an operator at the same price. Early advantages of 2 to 4 points in future reflecting the firmness of London over our holiday and the steady spot market were followed by reactions with the market closing net unchanged to 2 points higher. Sales were 32,100 tons, including 18,300 in exchanges. Prices follow:

ELEVATOR SPACE IN TEXAS

Wheat is moving freely in Texas and Fort Worth reports that about 50 per cent of the wheat receipts are of the 1931 crop. Elevator space in Texas is approximately 41 million bu, with present stocks 10 million bu, as estimated by the banking and industrial committee of the 11th federal reserve district. This, it is said, would leave ample space to handle the whole of the 1932 wheat crop, which is estimated by the government at $1,600,000 bu.
